'Genetic Engineering' Could Have Selfish, Political Uses

EDITOR'S NOTE — The good and bad frequently go hand in hand. It is no different in scientific advancements. Take, for instance, man's increasing ability to control life. Scientists see great boons for mankind, but also some bogeymen. The following last of three articles delineates the hopes and fears on the road leading from biological research.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — "That particular bogeyman is a very long way down the road," says Dr. Melvin Calvin, a Nobel Prize-winner in chemistry.

The spectre of which he speaks is the far-out possibility that scientists may learn how to manipulate man's genes to change his heredity and that someone could use this power for selfish or political purposes.

Genetic engineering could permit the breeding of dull, obedient human automatons.

Other potential bogeymen may be on the highway leading from biological research.

These include the possibilities of abuse of potential powers to improve or control human memory, to make people smarter or dumber, to free future children from genetic defects or to make part of the population dependent through designed defects.

"Nothing that man grasps for as betterment is unalloyed. Our old folk and fairy tales knew this full well. In our latter-day faith in progress, it has been forgotten that the reward and the disillusions are intermixed," writes Dr. Bentley Glass, geneticist and vice president for academic affairs at the State University of New York in Stony Brook.

Brilliant feats of deciphering the genetic code of life, of creating a gene — genes control all inherited characteristics — and making a virus in the laboratory, and other steps have prompted speculation that at some time man might be able to design genetically the kind of humans he desires.

"But if we're talking about the manipulation of man, I doubt it will happen in my lifetime," says Dr. Calvin, professor of chemistry and molecular biology at the University of California. Numerous other scientists agree that such a capability could take generations to develop, if it ever did come about.

But science is likely to produce new controls over life, and Dr. Calvin is among those who suggests trying to anticipate them.

GOVERNOR STATES HIS REASONS . . .

School Aid, Road Bond Plans Vetoed By Exon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday told the Legislature that a bill increasing state aid to schools by $50 million a year would produce a 3½% state sales tax rate and a 17% personal income tax rate without any assurance of property tax reduction.

For that reason, the governor said, "fiscal responsibility compels me" to veto the measure.

Exon also told lawmakers that a bill directing his administration to issue $3 million in highway bonds by Nov. 30 not only violates the 1969 highway bond act, but raises "serious constitutional questions."

Those were the major reasons he chose to strike down LB1008 with a veto, the governor said.

Separate Messages

Exon delivered separate veto messages on the two bills to the Legislature after it adjourned for the day, thus setting the stage for motions to override his objections next Tuesday.

LB264, the school aid bill, was passed on a 34-10 vote. The highway bond measure cleared the Legislature on a commanding 46-2 count.

Thirty votes will be required to override either veto.

LB264 provides "no assurance that property taxes will in any manner be reduced and, in fact, if past history is of any value, there is every reason to believe that the property tax could be increased along with the sales and income tax," Exon wrote the senators.

Provides No Limits

The bill provides no limits on non-operational budget increases by local school districts, the governor said, and after 1973 it imposes no penalties on any district which hikes its operational budget up to 8% a year.

Thus, he suggested, local school spending limitations written into the bill "provide but short term relief."

Furthermore, Exon said, "I believe that my responsibility to the people of the State of Nebraska requires that I not permit them to be misled with the overworked cliche that more tax dollars automatically mean a better education for young Nebraskans."

'Violates Act'

As for LB1008, the governor said, it violates the 1969 highway bond act which authorized the issuance of bonds for state highway construction with first priority for Interstate Highway funding.

LB1008 is "a subterfuge to fund LB844," a bill providing additional road construction funds for counties, he said.

The 1969 law also provided that the executive branch would determine how, in what manner and at what time bonds would be issued, Exon said. The legislative branch only has the authority to authorize the total amount which may be issued, he said.

"Furthermore, the attorney general advises me that serious constitutional questions are raised" by the bill in view of the separation of powers doctrine, Exon declared.

Legislature Okays 21 Topics For Study

The Legislature Thursday decided to pursue 21 studies prior to the 1972 session, including committee surveys of drug use, mental health laws and control of outdoor advertising.

The 21-topic agenda, recommended by the Legislative Council's executive board, was approved on a 40-0 vote.

At a later date, the board will assign studies to various interim committees, name their membership and select their chairmen.

Recommendations resulting from the studies will be submitted to the 1972 Legislature.

Only three proposed studies were turned down by the board. They included surveys of the state banking system, trust departments of banks and a continued look at eminent domain laws.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha also attempted to wipe out the study of electric power generation facilities, recommended by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

But his motion was rejected on an unusual 0-32 vote, when Goodrich himself declined to vote on his request.

The list of interim study topics includes broad new surveys of the state tax system, state aid to public schools, welfare programs, judicial reform, the proposed state water plan and property tax equalization procedures.

Here is the list of approved studies, all proposed in legislative resolutions, and the sponsor of each proposal:

Education

—LR41, state aid to elementary and secondary schools, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly.

—LR54, educational service units, Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha.

—LR66, distribution of state aid to public schools, Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney.

Health

—LR48, mental health laws, Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg.

—LR50, coordination of programs for mentally and physically handicapped persons, Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion.

—LR28, drug use, Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha.

Welfare

—LR62, coordination of welfare programs, Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha.

—LR68, administration of welfare programs, Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln.

Revenue and Taxation

—LR38, taxation of mobile homes, Sen. Calvin Carsten of Avoca.

—LR46, taxation of aviation fuel, Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

—LR69, tax equalization procedures, William Swanson of Lincoln.

—LR71, state tax structure, Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt.

State Government Organization

—LR17, agency rules and regulations, Swanson.

—LR37, judicial reform, Judiciary Committee, chaired by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln.

—LR61, state capital improvement program, Swanson.

Miscellaneous

—LR49, power generation facilities, Carpenter.

—LR65, trucking industry, Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance.

—LR67, pesticides, Sen. Loran Schmit of David City.

—LR78, control of outdoor advertising, Carpenter.

—LR7, automobile casualty insurance, Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway.

Also functioning during the interim between legislative sessions will be the standing committees on budget, retirement, telecommunications and rules and regulations.

RODGERS . . . with coat, after court appearance.

NU Grid Star Rodgers Pleads Guilty To Felony

University of Nebraska star running back Johnny Rodgers pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court Thursday to a felony charge of larceny from person in connection with a service station holdup one year ago.

Rodgers, who was arraigned on the charge Thursday in Lancaster County Court, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the higher court where he entered his guilty plea. The offense carries a maximum penalty of from one to seven years in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Judge William Hastings deferred sentencing Rodgers pending a presentence investigation by the adult probation office. At the request of Rodgers' attorney, David Pierson, his bond was reduced to $2,000 from the set at $5,000. He is a graduate of Ord High School.

Assistant Coach Tom Osborne posted bond for Rodgers' release.

McCall Charged

Rodgers and another University of Nebraska student, Randy McCall, 20, of 735 So. 13th, were charged in connection with the May 20, 1970, holdup at the Derby Service Station at 9th and South.

McCall requested a preliminary hearing which was set for June 2 in Lancaster County Court. His bond was set at $5,000.

Each was specifically charged with taking property of value from the person of Glenn Griggs without the consent of Griggs and without putting Griggs in fear by threats or by use of force or violence.

Third Person Sought

According to Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas, a warrant was being issued for the arrest of a third party believed to be involved in the incident in which $91.50 was taken from Griggs.

Douglas and Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said that it was not until the last two days that information was obtained which connected Rodgers with the service station holdup a year ago.

Douglas said that it was not learned until the "very recent" investigation that three persons were involved rather than two as originally reported.

No Information

Douglas told The Star that contrary to reports, he has no information that connects Rodgers with the Tuesday robbery of the Elam Grocery at 18th and K.

Russell Brown, NU Dean of Student Affairs, said there is no automatic suspension from the University of students involved in felony cases.

Dean Brown said Rodgers may presently attend classes since he is free on bond, and a conference with Rodgers would be the next step under normal procedure.

Then, if the staff decides further action is necessary, his case would be referred to a student tribunal which would hold a hearing and make recommendations which are usually followed by the university, Brown said.

Several Options

The options open are dismissal of the case, an official warning, probation or suspension.

Browns also said it was up to the Athletic Department to decide whether Rodgers could continue to play football if it were determined he was a student in good standing.

"We will consider his case just the same as we would for any other student in a similar situation," he said.

Brown said "there is no instant answer" to whether Rodgers could play with the Cornhuskers next fall if he were put on probation by the court, but his status as a student would have to be determined first.

No Comment

Nebraska athletic director-football coach Bob Devaney said by telephone from Stillwater, Okla., that he will make no comments on the Johnny Rodgers situation until he has contacted all persons involved, according to Assistant Athletic Director Jim Ross.

According to the NU Sports information office, Devaney, who is in Stillwater for the Big Eight Conference's golf, tennis and track championships, said he is "sorry" about the incident. He is expected to return to Lincoln Monday.

Nixon Calls It A Major Step

. . . ABM Limits Is 1971 Focus

Washington (AP) — President Nixon announced Thursday what he termed a major step in breaking the stalemate on nuclear arms talks between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Nixon went on nationwide radio-television at noon to read a brief statement about the long-stalled U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks, timed with a similar statement issued in Moscow.

At Highest Level

The President said that as a result of negotiations at the highest level, the United States and the Soviet Union:

—"Have agreed to concentrate this year on working out an agreement for the limitation of the deployment of antiballistic missile system (ABMs)."

—"Have also agreed that, together with concluding an agreement to limit ABMs, they will agree on certain measures with respect to the limitation of offensive strategiic weapons."

"The two sides are taking this course in the conviction that it will create more favorable conditions for further negotiations to limit all strategic arms," the statement added. "These negotiations will be actively pursued."

Praise, optimism and some skepticism greeted the announcement in Congress. One of those voicing skepticism was Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who said he also was puzzled.

More 'Than I Can Grasp'

"They seem to think it is significant," Fulbright said. "Whether it is or not I don't know." He added, "There must be something more to it than I can grasp."

Republicans and some other Democrats rated the development favorably.

Whether the two superpowers will actually reach a disarmament accord in the talks that began in 1969 remains to be seen. White House officials acknowledgeed that the two sides have not abandoned basic positions, which so far have defied lengthy efforts by negotiators for an agreement.

Interest In Going Ahead

But the high level announcement did seem to indicate an interest by the leaders of both superpowers in pushing ahead with the search for an accord on curbing the nuclear arms race, rather than letting the effort die in a diplomatic stalemate.

Whether either the United States or the Soviet Union made much of a concession in issuing Thursday's statement was not clear from the public wording. Varying interpretations were offered here and in Moscow.

The talks which got under way in Finland in the fall of 1969 have been bogged down since last year over what strategic weapons should be included in an arms control deal.

After the United States turned back a Soviet bid to include short-range tactical U.S. nuclear weapons based in Europe, the Russians proposed last fall that as a first step the two sides agree on a limitation of defensive missiles, ABMs.

U.S. Objected

The United States objected to an ABMs-only deal. Its envoys said that ABMs were designed to counter intercontinental ballistic missiles, and therefore any meaningful strategic disarmament pact should include restrictions on both offensive and defensive weapons at the same time.

The U.S. Safeguard antiballistic missile system has a mission of protecting U.S. ICBMs from Soviet missiles should the Soviets launch a first strike. The Nixon administration is now asking Congress to expand the Safeguard ABM system.

The basic U.S. negotiating proposal at the talks has been to offer a curb on ABMs in return for a limit on offensive missiles, particularly the giant Soviet SS9s.

Safeguard To Continue

White House officials said the work on the Safeguard ABM will be going ahead pending what might come out of the arms limitation talks in the future.

The wording from Moscow of the new statement clearly left open the possibility that the Soviets will still push for a separate ABMs-only agreement. They have a relatively small ABM system now installed around Moscow.

According to White House officials, negotiations for curbs on offensive nuclear weapons will be pursued at the same time as the talks on ABMs and no ABM deal will be concluded without an agreement also on limiting offensive weapons.

2 Youths Are Acquitted In Laurie Jones Murder

Blair (AP) — Two Omaha youths were acquitted on first degree murder charges by a jury in the Washington County District Court Thursday.

James M. Moran, 20, and Lawrence J. Smith, 19, were accused of murdering 15-year-old Laurie Ann Jones of Bellevue.

The case went to the six-man, six-woman jury Thursday morning after testimony that lasted 3½ days.

Miss Jones' body was found in a brush-covered, wooded area southeast of Fort Calhoun on Nov. 1 just north of the Douglas County line.

An autopsy report showed she had been shot five times.

Moran and Smith had testified they accompanied Miss Jones to an area north of Omaha and left her sleep in the back seat of Smith's car while they "picked marijuana" in a nearby wooded area.

They said that as they returned to the car they heard a car door slam and the sound of a motor as the car drove off some distance away. Miss Jones had disappeared but they testified they found blood on the rear car seat.

Defense attorneys theorized that Miss Jones was slain by another party who returned the body to the area to implicate Moran and Smith.

Northwestern Bell Makes New Offer

Omaha (AP) — Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. made a new three-year contract offer late Thursday night to the Communication Workers of America.

The offer includes first-year basic wage increases ranging from $6 to $23.50 per week.

Union officials were unavailable for comment.

Bell officials say the contract also calls for wage increases in the second and third years of the contract plus a wage of living increase in three years.

Whether the two superpowers will actually reach a disarmament accord in the talks that began in 1969 remains to be seen. White House officials acknowledgeed that the two sides have not abandoned basic positions, which so far have defied lengthy efforts by negotiators for an agreement.

Interest In Going Ahead

But the high level announcement did seem to indicate an interest by the leaders of both superpowers in pushing ahead with the search for an accord on curbing the nuclear arms race, rather than letting the effort die in a diplomatic stalemate.

Whether either the United States or the Soviet Union made much of a concession in issuing Thursday's statement was not clear from the public wording. Varying interpretations were offered here and in Moscow.

The talks which got under way in Finland in the fall of 1969 have been bogged down since last year over what strategic weapons should be included in an arms control deal.

After the United States turned back a Soviet bid to include short-range tactical U.S. nuclear weapons based in Europe, the Russians proposed last fall that as a first step the two sides agree on a limitation of defensive missiles, ABMs.

U.S. Objected

The United States objected to an ABMs-only deal. Its envoys said that ABMs were designed to counter intercontinental ballistic missiles, and therefore any meaningful strategic disarmament pact should include restrictions on both offensive and defensive weapons at the same time.

The U.S. Safeguard antiballistic missile system has a mission of protecting U.S. ICBMs from Soviet missiles should the Soviets launch a first strike. The Nixon administration is now asking Congress to expand the Safeguard ABM system.

The basic U.S. negotiating proposal at the talks has been to offer a curb on ABMs in return for a limit on offensive missiles, particularly the giant Soviet SS9s.

Safeguard To Continue

White House officials said the work on the Safeguard ABM will be going ahead pending what might come out of the arms limitation talks in the future.

The wording from Moscow of the new statement clearly left open the possibility that the Soviets will still push for a separate ABMs-only agreement. They have a relatively small ABM system now installed around Moscow.

According to White House officials, negotiations for curbs on offensive nuclear weapons will be pursued at the same time as the talks on ABMs and no ABM deal will be concluded without an agreement also on limiting offensive weapons.

2 Youths Are Acquitted In Laurie Jones Murder

Blair (AP) — Two Omaha youths were acquitted on first degree murder charges by a jury in the Washington County District Court Thursday.

James M. Moran, 20, and Lawrence J. Smith, 19, were accused of murdering 15-year-old Laurie Ann Jones of Bellevue.

The case went to the six-man, six-woman jury Thursday morning after testimony that lasted 3½ days.

Miss Jones' body was found in a brush-covered, wooded area southeast of Fort Calhoun on Nov. 1 just north of the Douglas County line.

An autopsy report showed she had been shot five times.

Moran and Smith had testified they accompanied Miss Jones to an area north of Omaha and left her sleep in the back seat of Smith's car while they "picked marijuana" in a nearby wooded area.

They said that as they returned to the car they heard a car door slam and the sound of a motor as the car drove off some distance away. Miss Jones had disappeared but they testified they found blood on the rear car seat.

Defense attorneys theorized that Miss Jones was slain by another party who returned the body to the area to implicate Moran and Smith.

Stewardesses In Shorts Short

Seattle, Wash. (UPI) — A new air commuter service which hopes to begin operations out of Seattle Tuesday will employ stewardesses who are no taller than 4-feet-10 because of the low cabin space in the DeHavilland turboprop planes that will be used.

Bob Florence, chairman of Air Washington, said the mini-stewardesses will wear hot pants.

Northwestern Bell Makes New Offer

Omaha (AP) — Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. made a new three-year contract offer late Thursday night to the Communication Workers of America.

The offer includes first-year basic wage increases ranging from $6 to $23.50 per week.

Union officials were unavailable for comment.

Bell officials say the contract also calls for wage increases in the second and third years of the contract plus a wage of living increase in three years.

Nixon Views Agreement As Big Breakthrough

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Viewing the agreement as a major breakthrough, President Nixon announced Thursday that the United States and the Soviet Union have reached agreement on the extent of a possible definition to limit their nuclear weapons systems. The compromise definition, which both parties said they would seek this year, would limit both antimissile defenses and the number of offensive weapons. (More on Page 1.)

Moscow Plays News Down

Moscow — News of the Soviet-American agreement to reach an accord at the strategic arms limitations talks was not given the prominent play in Moscow that it had in the United States for fear of creating a premature sense of cordiality between the two countries. The announcement was read at about the same time that President Nixon read his but not on later broadcasts.

Sobell Given OK To Protest

New York — A New York federal court gave Morton Sobell, who was convicted of spying for the Soviets in 1951, permission to participate in demonstrations of political dissent. Sobell's parole board had previously refused to allow him to engage in such activity.

Britain, France In Agreement

Paris — After a day of talks with Prime Minister Heath, President Pompidou said Britain and France were basically in agreement about the future of Western Europe. The two leaders have set aside Friday morning for detailed examination of some difficult problems concerning Britain's entry into the Common Market. (More on Page 2.)

Faction Seen By Sadat

Cairo — A secret Communist-oriented political faction inside Egypt's political organization was responsible for the attempt to bring about his downfall last week, President Anwar el-Sadat said. In a speech to the Egyptian National Assembly, he called for a new constitution, stressing the need for Egyptians to live under the "sovereignty of the law."

Increase Wiped Out

Washington — The increase in income that the average American family gained in 1970 over 1969 was completely erased by inflation increases, statistics from the Census Bureau showed. Analysts said the figures are a reflection of general economic sluggishness.

HISC Says Some Leaders Reds

Washington — Bank records made available to the House Internal Security Committee showed that members of the Socialist Workers Party and the Communist Party were among the leaders of the recent antiwar demonstrations, according to committee Chairman Richard H. Ichord. He also contended that both parties work for the overthrow of the government.

Mercury Harm Long-Lasting

Washington — It may take decades and even centuries to undo the harm caused by mercury and possibly arsenic pollution, leading authorities told a Senate subcommittee. They also said mercury levels are increasing at a rate that may threaten the entire American fishing industry.

Nine Soviet Jews Guilty

Moscow — Nine Soviet Jews on trial in Leningrad were found guilty of anti-Soviet activity, according to Tass news agency. The nine, who were tried for maintaining illegal ties with Israel and sending slanderous material about Russia to Israel, received sentences ranging from one to 10 years in prison camps.

INTO COMMON MARKET . . .

France Favors Britain's Entry

World News

Paris (AP) — President Georges Pompidou and Prime Minister Edward Heath, after hours of secret talks, proclaimed Thursday night that France and Britain are in broad agreement on the future of Europe.

On the central issue of British entry into the European Common Market, Heath expressed belief that the way will shortly be cleared "for a momentous step forward."

Through the day they had conferred on the future organization, aims and role of Europe in the world.

High French sources said France had made an historic shift and was resolved to let Britain join the Common Market. They added that some tough issues still have to be ironed out.

British Barred Twice

The British were twice barred from membership in the market by French vetoes in the 1960s.

Pompidou told a glittering banquet of French and British ministers and diplomats that "on many essential points, and particularly concerning the general concept of Europe, its organization and objectives, our views are sufficiently close to allow us to continue without pessimism."

In his response, Heath said it was heartening "for me to discover in my talks with the president how close are our ideas and aspirations."

Both leaders stressed key issues relating to the terms of British entry into an enlarged Common Market remain to be settled by negotiators representing the six member states and the four applicant countries. The six are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The applicants are Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland. They are due to meet next month in Luxembourg and Brussels.

Decision Made

Earlier, authoritative French sources reported Pompidou had taken the basic political decision to restore the old British-French informal understanding known as the Entente Cordiale and permit Britain's entry into the market.

Pompidou in his speech appeared to confirm that he had indeed made up his mind.

In tones of warmth that contrasted with the iciness of past Paris-London relations, he spoke of Heath's visit as a spectacular occason.

'Great Common Task'

"Our nations are listening because they know that through two men talking to each other two peoples are trying to find each other again," he said, "find each other to take part in a great common task — the construction of a Europe grouping nations determined to reconcile the protection of their national identities with the restraint (arising) out of common action."

Pompidou held out the vision of a united West Europe economically strong enough to rival the superpowers.

He described the political and social interests of the European nation - states as "largely parallel" and he saw in the potential cohesion of West Europe the means of permitting the old world to fulfill an independent global role.

Mankind First

"Even more," the president continued in a glimpse of the future, "our association would allow us to recover a purely European concept of civilization . . . which gives first place to mankind."

The French sources stressed, however, that the process of change in French thinking began during the regime of the late President Charles de Gaulle.

They cited De Gaulle's informal approach to British Ambassador Christopher Soames in 1969, suggesting talks to loosen and enlarge the European community with the British as insiders. But the sources claimed the then Labor government led by Harold Wilson, missed the opportunity by prematurely telling the Germans of De Gaulle's plan.

Muskie Receives Four Freedoms Annual Award

©The New York Times

New York — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was the recipient of the annual award of the Four Freedoms Foundation, Inc., Thursday night at a dinner marking the organization's 20th anniversary.

The award is given to the person, who the foundation determines has rendered the most distinguished service on behalf of the four freedoms — freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear — as enunciated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The award was tendered to the Democratic senator from Maine for "his inspired leadership and outstanding accomplishments in advancing the cause of freedom and human dignity, for his wisdom and extraordinary judgment in national and world affairs, and his struggle to perpetuatet he four freedoms."

whole," he said in an interview. "There's been a tendency to slough off responsibility to the 'experts' for decision. It would be a step backward if we again had high priests making all the decisions. It is a mistake, too, to take the attitude — 'We don't want to learn about the world, because it may be dangerous.' But some people do feel that way."

Dr. Calvin is engaged in fundamental research on aging, seeking to understand what changes come about in proteins within cells due to aging. If that can be learned, the process of aging might be slowed.

By the year 2000, says Dr. Leon R. Kass of the National Academy of Sciences, it might become technically possible to add 20 to 40 useful years of life beyond middle age, possibly through manipulation of diet, through drugs, or other means.

But the prescription could be expensive, perhaps affordable only by the rich, and then, he said, would come the question: Would "conscience and prudence permit us to enlarge the gap between rich and poor, especially with respect to something as fundamental as life itself?"

Intelligent Regulation Urged

"If attempts are not made early to detect and diminish the social costs of biomedical advances by intelligent institutional regulation, the society is likely to react later with more sweeping, immoderate and throttling controls," Dr. Kass says, and adds:

"We need to re-examine our prejudice not only that biomedical innovation is progress, but also that it is inevitable."

Frequently the suggestion is made that there should be a moratorium in scientific research, but "the only alternative to the quest for knowledge is a vow of eternal ignorance," writes Dr. Robert L. Sinsheimer, biologist of the California Institute of Technology.

"What an ignoble pledge for the human species . . . the death of curiosity in the quicksands of fear."

Ethical and moral questions already are involved in such issues as birth control and abortion practices, says Dr. Charles Townes, University of California physicist and Nobel laureate for development of the maser and laser.

New Controls Inevitable

"Inevitably, substantial new controls over life will come along in a decade or so," he said in an interview on the Berkeley campus. "What they will be will be hard to predict. Scientists usually underestimate the difficulty of doing things immediately that they know how to do, and overestimate the time required for things they don't yet know how to do."

"But we should start thinking hard now about these various possibilities, before the questions face us. We need a backlog of reasonably well thought out views and public opinion.

"It should not be a government operation. Lawyers, doctors, clergymen and teachers should have their own serious study groups, with the assistance of scientists when they can contribute information about things that may happen. Where are we going . . . what are we doing . . . these questions should pervade our thinking, but not in some scare-handed way. Furthermore, the concern should be international."

More effort is needed, Dr. Townes adds, to understand human nature and to use our knowledge well. Social sciences are developing and helping in this respect, he says.

The road ahead takes curious bends.

Some Disasters Unavoidable

"No matter how much thinking we do beforehand, nor how careful we are in research, I do not think we can avoid some disasters," says Dr. David Krech, professor of psychology at the University of California, who is engaged in brain research. "We cannot possibly anticipate all the possible side effects from intervention upon a biological organism."

"Most judgments are made before we have complete experience. Some new drug may work as we wish, but if we don't know how it works, that increases the opportunity for disaster. We might develop a cure for cancer, only to see people die 10 years later from some unforeseen effect from it.

"We are dealing with things over a long time span, in a complexity we don't understand," Dr. Krech adds.

He would "like to see pharmaceutical houses restricted in research that in any way involves genetic manipulations in humans, or deals with biochemistry of the brain, save under strict supervision. I just don't trust ourselves to let freedom of research and freedom of the market place govern our history. And I should like to see controls or restrictions upon research in universities discussed, also. I don't think research is more sacred than man."

Subtle Mass Conditioning

Says Dr. Bentley Glass: "The control of human behavior by artificial means will have become by the year 2001 a frightening possibility. Government — 'big brother' — might use tranquilizers, or hallucinogens like LSD, to keep the population from becoming unruly or overindependent. More and more subtle forms of conditioning will lead people to react in predictable ways" desired by government or commercial interests.

"I thus predict a future in which many cherished values of our society and many ethical standards may be questioned or superseded. It is not sufficient to have a few scientists raise such issues," Dr. Glass says.

"Only a prolonged and profound attention by many of the wisest men of our time, men of philosophy and religion, students of society and government and representatives of the common interests of men throughout the world; together with school administrators and scientists, may achieve a wise and sober solution of the crisis evoked in our world by scientific discoveries and their applications.

"Every citizen, every man in the street, must learn what science truly is and what risks and quandaries, as well as what magnificent gifts, the powers that grow out of scientific discovery engender."

Bus Guarantees Rider Can Watch 'Madman' Show

Rio De Janeiro (AP) — In a land where some people think all bus drivers are mad, there is one bus that guarantees every passenger a cheek-to-jowl encounter with a lunatic.

It's a 32-seat theater on wheels that leaves the suburb of Ipanema at nine each evening. Two actors alternate in using the aisle as a stage to perform Nikolai Gogol's monologue, "The Dairy of a Madman."

Critics accuse producer Athendoro Ribeiro of "commercial rather than artistic" motives, but he usually manages to fill the bus.

They also complain that anyone who tires of the slavering monologist's attentions can't escape because the theater is always in motion.

Rio De Janeiro (AP) — In a land where some people think all bus drivers are mad, there is one bus that guarantees every passenger a cheek-to-jowl encounter with a lunatic.

It's a 32-seat theater on wheels that leaves the suburb of Ipanema at nine each evening. Two actors alternate in using the aisle as a stage to perform Nikolai Gogol's monologue, "The Dairy of a Madman."

Critics accuse producer Athendoro Ribeiro of "commercial rather than artistic" motives, but he usually manages to fill the bus.

They also complain that anyone who tires of the slavering monologist's attentions can't escape because the theater is always in motion.

School Board Adjourns Hearing For Johnson

. . . AFTER 7½-HOUR SESSION

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

After nearly 7½ hours, the incoln Board of Education hursday adjourned until next ednesday a hearing on the rmination of a contract of a nured junior high school athematics teacher.

The recess, until 1 p.m. ednesday, came shortly efore midnight after the court eporter said he was too tired to ontinue.

The hearing, which began at 3 m., was ordered held by U.S. istrict Judge Robert Van Pelt a ruling on a restraining der sought by Robert L. ohnson, a math instructor at efler Junior High.

Just Began

Johnson himself had just egun to testify, as the first wit- ess in his behalf, when the urt reporter tired.

Previously, ten Lincoln school dministrators had testified gainst Johnson, many saying ey believed him incompetent ecause of a "lack of rapport" ith many students in his assrooms.

That testimony came under ontinuing objections from ohnson's attorney, Robert rimit, who said the witnesses ere arriving at conclusions ased on hearsay evidence.

Overruled

The objections were repeatedly verruled by School Board Presi- ent Robert Magee, who chaired ie hearing.

The administrators testified hat although Johnson had com- leted criteria set our for pro- ssional growth requirements nd had been judged "up to dis- ict standards" in formal eval- ations, repeated complaints om students and parents in- icated the atmosphere in his assrooms was not conducive to arning for many of his pupils.

But Grimit objected, asking gain and again that testimony e stricken.

'Denied Right'

Such testimony, he argued, de- ied his client the right to con- ont the apparent accusers — udents and parents who had omplained to building adminis- ators.

Board attorney Willis Hecht aid, however, he believed it ie duty of administrators to evaluate a teacher on a wide range of criteria, including parent and pupil concerns.

"If the board can't depend upon principals" for such evaluations, Hecht, said, the school district is in "poor shape."

Notified of Action

Johnson, a Lincoln teacher for more than 20 years, was notified earlier this spring that Supt. John Prasch was recommending his contract be terminated after the current school year.

School officials have charged him with "incompetence and failure to give evidence of professional growth."

They said the math teacher has little "patience and empathy for students" and cited statistics they contended showed he failed too many students.

'Did Not Improve

Under questioning from Grimit, Prasch said he was not claiming Johnson had failed to meet professional growth requirements as spelled out in a school handbook.

"The contention is it did not improve his performance in the classroom," Prasch said.

Prasch also admitted school officials had not followed exactly a timetable for termination of contract spelled out in "contract termination procedure" in use by the district, but the superintendent said the procedure was merely a "guideline" for principals.

No Weight

He said it carried no weight as policy since it had never been submitted for action to the board.

A number of principals under which Johnson served said there had been consistent complaints from parents and students over the years that students were afraid to go to him for help.

Some said they had received requests for transfers on many occasions.

'Demanding Teacher'

Several conceded complaints were based "in part" on Johnson's reputation as a demanding teacher and some said many brighter students fared better in his classes

Most testified they believe Johnson to be a competent mathematician and said he gives "excellent" classroom presentations. (Johnson holds bachelors and masters degrees and has completed 54 colleges hours beyond his M.A.).

But they said repeated complaints, coupled with observations by a few of the administrators, led them to conclude he was not effective for enough students.

Dismissal Sought

At the conclusion of testimony on the school district's case, Grimit moved for a dismissal of charges saying "at the very most what has been shown against Mr. Johnson . . . is that he is a highly competent teacher."

"The only quarrel appears to be in the area of human relations," Grimit argued, saying he "knows of no vaguer area that this area of rapport" and "empathy."

But Magee ruled against the request, saying the "name of the game" is effectiveness in teaching young people.

Wekesser Challenged

At the outset, after lengthy questioning of each board member, Grimit had challenged Robert Wekesser as an impartial judge.

Wekesser had conceded that he does not believe in teacher tenure laws, but said he thought himself capable of rendering a fair judgment based on the facts presented in the hearing.

The room, in which the board holds its meetings regularly, was jammed with as many as 80 to 90 persons at times. The overflow crowd thinned later, but about 50 were still on hand when the board recessed.

Filed Suit

Johnson has already filed a federal court suit, claiming his rights to due process had been violated. But Van Pelt, ruling on a separate motion asking the hearing be halted, said the due process question could not be ruled upon unless the hearing was held.

He had challenged the board's ability to give him a fair hearing in the matter, but all board members said Thursday they believed themselves unprejudiced.

Lincoln Man Injured In Car-Cycle Mishap

A 30-year-old Lincoln man was listed in "critical condition" at St. Elizabeth Health Center Thursday night as the result of a car-motorcycle collision at Touzalin and Adams, according to police Sgt. Carl Keech.

Keech said James Tanner, of 6412 Dudley, suffered multiple scrapes and bruises, scalp cuts and head injuries when the motorcycle he was riding was in collision with a car driven by Michael Cover, 21, of 6901 Walker.

Cover was southbound on Touzalin turning left onto Adams and the Tanner vehicle was eastbound on Adams at the time of the accident, Keech said.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Metcalf Funeral Home for Susan Patocka, 16, of 2626 South St., who died early Thursday from injuries sustained in a May 14 motorcycle accident.

Miss Patocka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Patocka, was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Mark Kouma, 16, of 4715 Pawnee.

Kouma was listed in fair condition Thursday at Bryan Hospital with severe head injuries.

Police said the death total for 1971 motorcycle accidents in Lincoln is the highest in recent years.

So far four have died thus far this year from motorcycle accidents in the capital city, not one victim wearing a helmet, police stated.

Police Lieutenant Bill Satterhwaite said he feels the "injuries would have been much less" and that the four possibly might be living today had they worn helmets.

Sen. Hruska's Honorariums Total $5,250

Washington (AP) — Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., has reported to the Senate that he received $5,250 in honorariums during the last year, while Sen. Carl T. Curtis, also a Republican, reported none.

Law requires senators to report to the secretary of the Senate honorariums in excess of $200 and campaign contributions received by them.

Hruska listed honorariums including $1,500 from the Independent Association of Mutual Insurance agents; $1,500 from the National Confectioners Associaiton; $1,000 from the National Soft Drink Association; $750 from Florida Southern University; and $500 from Wayne State College. All these honorariums were received last year.

Youths Treated At Hospital For 'Speed' In Coffee

Two Lincoln youths were released from Lincoln General Hospital Thursday following treatment for a small dose of the drug methamphetamine commonly called "speed" which had been poured into one of the coffee pots at Here's Johnny's Restaurant at 17th and M Wednesday night, according to police.

Police said Jeanne Sousek, 18, of 1800 J, a waitress at the restaurant, and Al Benes, 17, of Valparaiso, became ill after drinking coffee from one of the pots in the dining area.

Dr. Robert Hines, on duty at the hospital, told the investigating officers that the coffee contained a weak solution of methamphetamine, police said.

School Board Adjourns Hearing For Johnson

Sen. Hruska's Honorariums Total $5,250

Washington (AP) — Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., has reported to the Senate that he received $5,250 in honorariums during the last year, while Sen. Carl T. Curtis, also a Republican, reported none.

Law requires senators to report to the secretary of the Senate honorariums in excess of $200 and campaign contributions received by them.

Hruska listed honorariums including $1,500 from the Independent Association of Mutual Insurance agents; $1,500 from the National Confectioners Associaiton; $1,000 from the National Soft Drink Association; $750 from Florida Southern University; and $500 from Wayne State College. All these honorariums were received last year.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Everyone probably has the feeling now and then that he can't win for losing, that whatever he does is, somehow, destined to turn out wrong. Such may be the thoughts of the administration of Gov. J. James Exon in connection with its proposal to turn the Statehouse newsstand operation over to the visually impaired.

Now, one might think at first blush that such would be a laudable thing to do. After all, the visually impaired constitute a worthy cause and one would have to be pretty callous to argue against it.

But the visually impaired cause is like any other in one respect — it must relate to other things. When you help the visually impaired at the expense of someone else, then you have to weigh the assets and liabilities involved against one another.

In turning over the Statehouse newsstand operation to the visually impaired, the Exon administration must kick out the present operator. There seems to be little question as to the principle the administration has applied in the case — the ends justify the means.

Because the end of helping the visually impaired is a good one, the means of kicking out a legitimate operator are justified. Sorry, but we can't buy that. You see, the couple who run the business now have invested money in it and are human beings, too.

They are not big fish in the pond of mankind. They seem to have little political muscle or influence. The operation in the Statehouse is actually run by the wife of Vern Griffin. To the knowledge of the couple, no complaint has ever been lodged against them or their operation.

They have not made any financial killing on the operation, While reluctant to divulge their earnings, the operation likely would not produce a net income in excess of $5,000. The couple maintain that the newsstand is not a sufficient business in itself to sustain a family financially.

While the wife operates the newsstand, the husband works at another job. Griffin is a Republican, which he says is the reason he is being kicked out of the Statehouse newsstand.

We doubt this but he was asked if he had ever been politically active. He explained that he has never been active politically and is a Republican more by virtue of a family joke than anything else.

He comes from a large family, all Democrats. Joking around in a family discussion one time, Griffin said that the group ought to have a little political balance so he registered as a member of the GOP. That, we must admit, is not being what you would call very politically active.

Griffin maintains that he would be satisfied if the Exon administration required open bidding for the operation of the newsstand. Then, he and the visually handicapped and anyone else could bid on the operation of the concession. If he lost out, he says, he would at least have the satisfaction of due process of law.

As it now stands, Griffin could lose whatever investment he has in the place. The operation is said to be worth a total of $10,000, although we doubt that Griffin has anything near that in it. More than likely, if he loses the whole thing, the loss will be several thousand dollars in the form of inventory and equipment.

He could take it with him, presumably, but what would he ever do with it? Conceivably, the visually impaired operators could agree to buy his stock and equipment but they could also tell him to go fly a kite.

In the overall affairs of state government, this is not a big deal and it will not affect the average taxpayer one iota, but the Exon administration is wrong and heartless in arbitrarily kicking the Griffin couple in the teeth. If that's the way the administration believes in doing business, its professed concern for the average Nebraska taxpayer is nothing but a political sham.

There is still in this world such things as morality, good faith and common-sense decency. These things do not include the practice of injustice against largely helpless people, even for the sake of some worthy cause.

Los Angeles' Earthquake Produced Long Aftershock

WASHINGTON — It is three months since the San Fernando Valley earthquake shook Los Angeles. In a sense, the city is still shaking as it totes up the damage from what a U.S. government study calls "the most important earthquake in history."

No fewer than 96 school buildings, containing 900 classrooms, have been written off as unsafe because of quake damage. Los Angelenos will vote May 25 on a $198.5 million bond issue for replacing or "quakeproofing" the condemned structures. Almost all of the buildings in question were built prior to passage of the 1933 Field Act, which required that California schools be designed to resist seismic shock.

Damage to freeways, highways and streets likewise was extensive. Around 11 miles of multi-lane freeways and six miles of state highways were rendered unusuable in the Sylmar-San Fernando-Mission Hills area. The State Highway Commission calculates that it will cost $15 million to repair the freeway system and $18 million to restore local streets. The job may take as long as three years.

Contrary to some expectations, widespread abandonment of quake-damaged homes failed to occur. An official of the San Fernando Valley Savings and Loan Association estimated that 400 homes require repair, but that only 40 to 50 of them suffered damage in excess of $5,000. Few of the affected homeowners carried earthquake insurance. Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., has introduced legislation to make such insurance more readily available.

The best insurance against an earthquake is strict enforcement of building codes designed to minimize seismic damage. The U.S. Geological Survey and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported April 27, that shock-resistant structures in the Los Angeles area stood up well, whereas others "performed poorly."

Even the most stringent building code, however, may prove inadequate. This is the disquieting message of a study conducted by a National Research Council panel. It found that the ground motions induced by a moderate quake can be considerably more violent than had previously been believed.

More disturbing still, the NRC panel concluded that damage caused by the Feb. 9 temblor appeared unrelated to faulting or any other kind of geologic phenomemon, such as soil movement on an old landslide scar.

One institution that already has revised its earthquake contingency plans is the San Diego zoo, which houses the world's largest collection of wild animals. If disaster should strike, the zoo intends to destroy or tranquilize the more vicious beasts. Birds, cheetahs and hooved animals (including giraffes and zebras) would be allowed to run free. San Diego never has experienced a major earthquake, but it can't be blamed for not taking its good luck for granted.

'Notice The Big Difference?'

Matter Of Growing Concern

The Governor's Commission On Drug Abuse is acting none too early in preparation for the day it becomes the more formidable State Commission On Drug Abuse. In working toward that day, the commission received various committee reports, including some general information on drugs that was not very encouraging.

The research committee reported that a sample survey of 4,225 persons sought help for drug problems during the first eight months of 1970, but only 1,000 received "services of some kind." Obviously, this leaves more than three-fourths of those needing and seeking help receiving nothing.

It was reported further that arrests for drug abuse in 1970 totaled 911, a 79 per cent increase from the preceding year. This is good or bad, depending upon the way you look at it and what it actually means. It is good if it represents an improved law enforcement job but bad if it merely represents more drug abuse problems.

One unfortunate aspect of the law-enforcement problem is that the law in Nebraska is currently netting little but users, leaving pushers to ply their evil trade in relative freedom

Only about half of the 47 hospitals surveyed by the committee said they had facilities for treatment of drug misuse on an emergency or in-patient basis.

It is plain to see that Nebraska is not in the forefront of the battle against drug abuse. But we are getting started, in state government, within some medical circles and at some local levels.

There is hardly any place, however, where we stand ready to meet the challenge we face If the determination to change this does not come forth very shortly, our problems could be greatly multiplied and we could reap untold human suffering. Drug abuse is not unique with any area of the nation. The problem here may not be as acute as it is in some places but time is catching up with and running out on us.

Command Responsibility

Other than the pending court martials of Col. Oren Henderson and Capt. Ernest Medina, the U.S. Army indicates it is through taking action against officers allegedly connected with the My Lai incident. After condemning the professional conduct of Gen. Samuel Koster and Gen. George Young in covering up the incident, Army Secretary Stanley Resor said he is convinced that "no one higher up was aware."

The demotion in rank of Koster, the loss by both generals of the valued Distinguished Service Medals and their letters of censure should have some meaning to those who assailed the conviction of Lt. Calley and have set him up in the public eye as a hero-turned-scapegoat.

Both generals, especially Koster, on paper have brilliant service records. But Koster, commander of the Americal Division of which Charlie Company was a part, and Young, as his deputy, were found by Resor to have inadequately investigated the massacre at My Lai — in effect, of having covered it up.

Any action other than punishing the two, Resor said, "would render essentially meaningless the concept of command responsibility accompanying senior positions of authority."

And so the Army has censured the conduct of the division commander and his deputy, although no criminal charges were pressed, is in the process of bringing to trial two other officers, including the company commander, and has convicted the platoon leader of murder. It would seem, then, that Calley is not answering entirely for the crimes of others. And if he has suffered the most, it is because his crime was the worst. The concept of command responsibility has to some extent been preserved, but the concept of collective, or national guilt has been cast aside, and deservedly so.

JAMES RESTON
Trudeau's Canada Less Trustful Of U.S.; Canadians Themselves Are Also Divided

OTTAWA — Very few men manage to get political power without being corrupted or to give it up without being wounded and depressed, but Lester B. Pearson, former prime minister of Canada, is one of them.

Here he is at 74, after a career as strenuous as the Canadian winter, still working away on the great political and philosophical questions of the age, still living simply in his modest way, writing his memoirs, presiding over his seminars at Carleton University and, on the side, looking after his 10 grandchildren.

Things are a little quieter in Ottawa, now coming into its late spring and blazing with tulips. The view of the world from here is very interesting. Prime Minister Trudeau is in the Soviet Union. The Peoples Republic of China has an embassy on the 12th floor of the Juliana Apartments looking over the spectacular river views of this capital, and the talk here is about the professional hockey playoffs, unemployment, and the separatist movement in Quebec among some of the French Canadians.

This is quite a change from the days when "Mike" Pearson was prime minister, arguing for "The Atlantic Community," acting as a bridge between Washington and London, and between the Western and Communist worlds.

Canada, under Trudeau, has reduced its commitments to the North Atlantic Alliance and recognized the Chinese government in Peking, and is now concentrating on new bilateral compromises with the Soviet Union. All this raises some fundamental questions for the Nixon administration. What ever happened to the idea that the United States and Canada would follow a common foreign policy? What is the meaning of the Canadian prime minister's making an 11,000-mile tour through the U.S.S.R. before he has ventured into such a journey in the United States? How do you reconcile a Chinese communist embassy in Ottawa, with American journalists and scholars coming here to get visas for Peking with the obvious fact that there is no Peking embassy in Washington?

Something is obviously changing here. The Canada of Trudeau is obviously more nationalistic than the Canada of Pearson was, just a short while ago. The commercial domination of Canada by the United States increases, but the confidence and trust of Canada in the United States, after Vietnam, decreases.

After all the disorder, draft-dodging and drug problems of the last few years in the U.S., Canada is clearly more troubled about the United States today than it has been for many years.

Meanwhile, the Canadian people are deeply divided at home. A visitor is startled to find thoughtful Canadians talking seriously about French Canada breaking away completely from the rest of Canada, and even about the dismemberment of the Canadian nation. So there is a dual problem.

Not only a difference between Ottawa and Washington about how to deal with Peking and Moscow but, even more important, a separatist movement in Canada itself which could create vast new political disorders within the whole of North America.

Even the most thoughtful men and women in the Canadian capital seem to be worried about these divisions within Canada, and about foreign policy between the United States and Canada, and they wonder whether Washington is really thinking about these problems so close to home.

For the generation since the last world war, Canada has produced a remarkable company of politicians and civil servants who have helped to reconcile the differences between the communist and the Western worlds. Men like Pearson, as well as Norman Robertson, and Arnold Heeney, both former Canadian ambassadors in Washington, among many others, have been very close to Washington and have worked effectively for collective security within North America and the hemisphere, and even for accommodation between the communist and capitalist worlds.

But things are different now. The spirit may be the same, but the personalities and the policies are different. Trudeau, off in Moscow, is much more nationalistic than Pearson, whom he succeeded, and much more concerned about domestic problems than about foreign policies.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is likewise concentrating on divisions at home and on problems in Moscow and Peking, while the issues of the Western hemisphere are being minimized, if not ignored.

Maybe after Vietnam, all this will be changed but, for the moment, trouble is clearly brewing among the neighbors.

Ironically, Canada seems to feel that the United States is playing too dominant a role in its commercial affairs, but the truth is that Washington, preoccupied with the war in Indochina, is actually thinking very little about the divisions and problems developing here in the Western hemisphere.

Looking ahead to the rest of the 1970s, few things could cause Washington more trouble than a divided Canada or the spread of communist supported radical movements, as in Chile. Washington is concentrating now on Thieu and Ky in Saigon, and paying little attention to Trudeau in Ottawa or Allende in Santiago, but the struggles of the future may very well lie closer to home, in Canada, Cuba, and Central and South America.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE
Dust Of Dissension

NEW YORK—It is spring housecleaning time again—that special season when the housewife comes to grips with reality and the Salvation Army, and when her husband shows his true colors: Rebel red and sentimental blues.

She knows that, once a year, certain items of memorabilia, antiquity and malfunction must to be given away or discarded.

He knows that memorabilia has heart, antiquity has value and malfunction has solutions.

She knows that his 1962 sport coat with the narrow lapels is taking up unnecessary closet space.

He knows that was the coat he wore when he hit "Rusty Dear" at 22-to-one, and that it will come back into style.

She knows that the club chair has dissolved into the claws of the cat and only hopes that Goodwill Industries will stoop to taking it away.

He knows that they will never find a chair that fits his sensitive chassis like that one, and she'd better get out her sewing machine.

She knows that the rotisserie will never work again because the manufacturer has gone out of business.

He knows that, some Sunday when he has time, he'll fix it.

She knows they haven't used the movie camera for 13 years and, despite the fact it is unwieldly and outdated, they might be able to get $10 for it.

He knows it's ridiculous to sell the movie camera, because that would render their projector worthless.

She knows the projector is worthless anyway, which is why they gave up making movies 13 years ago.

He knows she is off her bird about that. They gave up taking movies when the kids got dull.

She knows the pile of old shower curtains and liners in her closet is a dust-collecting waste of space.

He knows they'll need them some day when he paints the dining room table.

He knows that, at today's furniture prices, this is a riduclous notion, so she'd better get a new tablecloth and forget it.

She knows he had better weed out the bookcases, or the floor will cave in.

He knows she may be right about that.

So he sits down by a bookcase and starts to leaf through books—and now a man's real sensitivities begin to appear. I have discovered that a book, no matter how battered and uninteresting, holds meaning for a man. To discard even one is a symbol that the household will lapse into illiteracy.

Partly, he feels sentimental: "Why, I've had this book since I was 14!" Partly, it's pride: "Look, I wouldn't have bought it if I didn't want to keep it!"

Even when it is gently suggested that a paperbacked "Peyton Place" be pitched in the interest of neatness (not to mention the children), husbands take on the pained expression of a boy who has been ordered to abandon his baseball cards to make room for the dictionary.

Watch the man, as he approaches the task of book-weeding. It is a heart-rending spectacle.

First he selects the shelf to be attacked and then, one by one, he removes its bounty of dust for a title, and sets it on the floor for further consideration. He is weary by the time he has removed 20 books, so he sits down to contemplate them. He picks up book one: "My Ten Years in a Quandary" by Robert Benchley. His lips unset; he chuckles, looks inside, begins reading. Fifteen minutes later, the book is laid aside—the beginning of a Do Not Discard stack. "Dialogues of Plato" comes next. He flushes. There is a look men have when they run across a book they haven't yet tackled; but he'll get to it one day.

The stack grows: There are books for reference, books friends wrote, books friends sent, books the children may enjoy, books about places he may someday visit, books that may come in handy, books it would be sacrilegious to discard, books the Salvation Army wouldn't appreciate.

At the end, weary and exultant, he calls his wife and hands her seven books he will part with — four editions on casserole cookery, one dictionary published in 1926, a volume of love poems autographed to his wife, and an untouched book titled "Golf Techniques of the Bauer Sisters."

She knows it's the best he can do, the illogical, lovable dope.

He knows it's been one heckuva job, and rewards himself by dumping the cat from the beloved shambled club chair and taking a nap . . .

Bicycle Riders

Lincoln, Neb

Let me see if I've got this straight. In the same issue of the newspaper with an article headed: "Pollution Fight Begins at Home," I learn via "Action Line" that the Lincoln Police Department is about to crack down on those "slow-moving" bicycles. Please correct me if I'm wrong because I'd really like to get this right: Not only do Lincoln motorists wish to preserve their right to ruin the air while driving cars with motors twice as large as necessary, topped by carburetors capable of consuming anywhere from 500 to over 1,000 cubic feet of air per minute — not only that — they are now becoming annoyed with the inconvenience caused by people willing to move a little slower for the sake of Mother Earth.

I live in the country too far out to ride a bike to town. But the last thing I mind doing is losing a few minutes behind someone willing to put out a little more effort to leave my air alone. Perhaps we cannot learn from the mistakes of other cities. If we could, we'd do everything we can to encourage the use of bicycles. And we'd educate the fools, perhaps not enough to get them on bicycles and buses, but at least enough so they wouldn't be too annoyed by the responsible behavior of others.

As for bicycles in the middle of a traffic lane, non-riders need to understand that a favorite sport of many Lincoln drivers is a game called "brushing the bicyclist." In this game, the motorist tries to come as close to the rider peddling along the gutter as he can without actually hitting him. Honking the horn and-or screaming at him just before passing seems particularly reinforcing for many Lincoln drivers. Sometimes on four-lane streets, a driver in the left lane crowds the car in the lane to his right, forcing that car closer to the gutter. If you're riding your bicycle in that gutter when that happens, things can get pretty tight. That's why many riders simply occupy the lane on four-lane streets.

Rather than cracking down on non-polluters, why not change the law to give riders full rights to the right-hand lane of four-lane streets, begin providing bicycle lanes on two-lane streets, make bicycle registration as simple as possible and certainly free of charge (perhaps we should pay the registrant?). The next time you're inconvenienced by someone else's more responsible behavior, consider that perhaps it is your behavior that should be examined, rather than his.

People Who Care

Bay City, Mich.

My husband and I recently had occasion to fly to Lincoln from Michigan to attend the funeral of my sister's husband, Ollie Fulmer. We and other out-of-towners felt the people of Lincoln should be made aware of the impression that the Lincoln Police Department made on us.

We don't know who the officer was who was in charge of leading the procession to the cemetery that day, but his manner as a police officer was highly commendable, from our point of view.

Though it would appear trivial to someone not involved, to see a police officer stand at attention with his helmet over his heart as the procession passed by certainly lends a note of respect not only to the family and friends of the deceased, but also to the officer himself as a fellow human being and to the uniform he wears

We felt this officer and the department he represents should know the impression this small gesture made. It is things like this that show people that other people do care

Johnson Library

Lincoln, Neb.

This weekend a magnificent library will be formally dedicated honoring President Lyndon B. Johnson. In the true LBJ tradition, the ceremony will be simple and short, with only 2,400 guests who will enjoy a barbecue afterwards in the football stadium.

A proper addition to the library, I feel, should be a large number of volumes containing the pictures and biographies of the 45,000 young men who died in an immoral war which he escalated and didn't have the courage to later stop.

She knows that the rotisserie will never work again because the manufacturer has gone out of business.

He knows that, some Sunday when he has time, he'll fix it.

She knows they haven't used the movie camera for 13 years and, despite the fact it is unwieldly and outdated, they might be able to get $10 for it.

He knows it's ridiculous to sell the movie camera, because that would render their projector worthless.

She knows the projector is worthless anyway, which is why they gave up making movies 13 years ago.

He knows she is off her bird about that. They gave up taking movies when the kids got dull.

She knows the pile of old shower curtains and liners in her closet is a dust-collecting waste of space.

He knows they'll need them some day when he paints the dining room table.

He knows that, at today's furniture prices, this is a riduclous notion, so she'd better get a new tablecloth and forget it.

She knows he had better weed out the bookcases, or the floor will cave in.

He knows she may be right about that.

So he sits down by a bookcase and starts to leaf through books—and now a man's real sensitivities begin to appear. I have discovered that a book, no matter how battered and uninteresting, holds meaning for a man. To discard even one is a symbol that the household will lapse into illiteracy.

Partly, he feels sentimental: "Why, I've had this book since I was 14!" Partly, it's pride: "Look, I wouldn't have bought it if I didn't want to keep it!"

Even when it is gently suggested that a paperbacked "Peyton Place" be pitched in the interest of neatness (not to mention the children), husbands take on the pained expression of a boy who has been ordered to abandon his baseball cards to make room for the dictionary.

Watch the man, as he approaches the task of book-weeding. It is a heart-rending spectacle.

First he selects the shelf to be attacked and then, one by one, he removes its bounty of dust for a title, and sets it on the floor for further consideration. He is weary by the time he has removed 20 books, so he sits down to contemplate them. He picks up book one: "My Ten Years in a Quandary" by Robert Benchley. His lips unset; he chuckles, looks inside, begins reading. Fifteen minutes later, the book is laid aside—the beginning of a Do Not Discard stack. "Dialogues of Plato" comes next. He flushes. There is a look men have when they run across a book they haven't yet tackled; but he'll get to it one day.

The stack grows: There are books for reference, books friends wrote, books friends sent, books the children may enjoy, books about places he may someday visit, books that may come in handy, books it would be sacrilegious to discard, books the Salvation Army wouldn't appreciate.

At the end, weary and exultant, he calls his wife and hands her seven books he will part with — four editions on casserole cookery, one dictionary published in 1926, a volume of love poems autographed to his wife, and an untouched book titled "Golf Techniques of the Bauer Sisters."

She knows it's the best he can do, the illogical, lovable dope.

He knows it's been one heckuva job, and rewards himself by dumping the cat from the beloved shambled club chair and taking a nap . . .

Los Angeles' Earthquake Produced Long Aftershock

WASHINGTON — It is three months since the San Fernando Valley earthquake shook Los Angeles. In a sense, the city is still shaking as it totes up the damage from what a U.S. government study calls "the most important earthquake in history."

No fewer than 96 school buildings, containing 900 classrooms, have been written off as unsafe because of quake damage. Los Angelenos will vote May 25 on a $198.5 million bond issue for replacing or "quakeproofing" the condemned structures. Almost all of the buildings in question were built prior to passage of the 1933 Field Act, which required that California schools be designed to resist seismic shock.

Damage to freeways, highways and streets likewise was extensive. Around 11 miles of multi-lane freeways and six miles of state highways were rendered unusuable in the Sylmar-San Fernando-Mission Hills area. The State Highway Commission calculates that it will cost $15 million to repair the freeway system and $18 million to restore local streets. The job may take as long as three years.

Contrary to some expectations, widespread abandonment of quake-damaged homes failed to occur. An official of the San Fernando Valley Savings and Loan Association estimated that 400 homes require repair, but that only 40 to 50 of them suffered damage in excess of $5,000. Few of the affected homeowners carried earthquake insurance. Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., has introduced legislation to make such insurance more readily available.

The best insurance against an earthquake is strict enforcement of building codes designed to minimize seismic damage. The U.S. Geological Survey and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Admnistration reported, April 27, that shock-resistant structures in the Los Angeles area stood up well, whereas others "performed poorly."

Even the most stringent building code, however, may prove inadequate. This is the disquieting message of a study conducted by a National Research Council panel. It found that the ground motions induced by a moderate quake can be considerably more violent than had previously been believed.

More disturbing still, the NRC panel concluded that damage caused by the Feb. 9 temblor appeared unrelated to faulting or any other kind of geologic phenomemon, such as soil movement on an old landslide scar.

One institution that already has revised its earthquake contingency plans is the San Diego zoo, which houses the world's largest collection of wild animals. If disaster should strike, the zoo intends to destroy or tranquilize the more vicious beasts. Birds, cheetahs and hooved animals (including giraffes and zebras) would be allowed to run free. San Diego never has experienced a major earthquake, but it can't be blamed for not taking its good luck for granted.

JAMES RESTON
Trudeau's Canada Less Trustful Of U.S.; Canadians Themselves Are Also Divided

OTTAWA — Very few men manage to get political power without being corrupted or to give it up without being wounded and depressed, but Lester B. Pearson, former prime minister of Canada, is one of them.

Here he is at 74, after a career as strenuous as the Canadian winter, still working away on the great political and philosophical questions of the age, still living simply in his modest way, writing his memoirs, presiding over his seminars at Carleton University and, on the side, looking after his 10 grandchildren.

Things are a little quieter in Ottawa, now coming into its late spring and blazing with tulips. The view of the world from here is very interesting. Prime Minister Trudeau is in the Soviet Union. The Peoples Republic of China has an embassy on the 12th floor of the Juliana Apartments looking over the spectacular river views of this capital, and the talk here is about the professional hockey playoffs, unemployment, and the separatist movement in Quebec among some of the French Canadians.

This is quite a change from the days when "Mike" Pearson was prime minister, arguing for "The Atlantic Community," acting as a bridge between Washington and London, and between the Western and Communist worlds.

Canada, under Trudeau, has reduced its commitments to the North Atlantic Alliance and recognized the Chinese government in Peking, and is now concentrating on new bilateral compromises with the Soviet Union. All this raises some fundamental questions for the Nixon administration. What ever happened to the idea that the United States and Canada would follow a common foreign policy? What is the meaning of the Canadian prime minister's making an 11,000-mile tour through the U.S.S.R. before he has ventured into such a journey in the United States? How do you reconcile a Chinese communist embassy in Ottawa, with American journalists and scholars coming here to get visas for Peking with the obvious fact that there is no Peking embassy in Washington?

Something is obviously changing here. The Canada of Trudeau is obviously more nationalistic than the Canada of Pearson was, just a short while ago. The commercial domination of Canada by the United States increases, but the confidence and trust of Canada in the United States, after Vietnam, decreases.

After all the disorder, draft-dodging and drug problems of the last few years in the U.S., Canada is clearly more troubled about the United States today than it has been for many years.

Meanwhile, the Canadian people are deeply divided at home. A visitor is startled to find thoughtful Canadians talking seriously about French Canada breaking away completely from the rest of Canada, and even about the dismemberment of the Canadian nation. So there is a dual problem.

Not only a difference between Ottawa and Washington about how to deal with Peking and Moscow but, even more important, a separatist movement in Canada itself which could create vast new political disorders within the whole of North America.

Even the most thoughtful men and women in the Canadian capital seem to be worried about these divisions within Canada, and about foreign policy between the United States and Canada, and they wonder whether Washington is really thinking about these problems so close to home.

For the generation since the last world war, Canada has produced a remarkable company of politicians and civil servants who have helped to reconcile the differences between the communist and the Western worlds. Men like Pearson, as well as Norman Robertson, and Arnold Heeney, both former Canadian ambassadors in Washington, among many others, have been very close to Washington and have worked effectively for collective security within North America and the hemisphere, and even for accommodation between the communist and capitalist worlds.

But things are different now. The spirit may be the same, but the personalities and the policies are different. Trudeau, off in Moscow, is much more nationalistic than Pearson, whom he succeeded, and much more concerned about domestic problems than about foreign policies.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is likewise concentrating on divisions at home and on problems in Moscow and Peking, while the issues of the Western hemisphere are being minimized, if not ignored.

Maybe after Vietnam, all this will be changed but, for the moment, trouble is clearly brewing among the neighbors.

Ironically, Canada seems to feel that the United States is playing too dominant a role in its commercial affairs, but the truth is that Washington, preoccupied with the war in Indochina, is actually thinking very little about the divisions and problems developing here in the Western hemisphere.

Looking ahead to the rest of the 1970s, few things could cause Washington more trouble than a divided Canada or the spread of communist supported radical movements, as in Chile. Washington is concentrating now on Thieu and Ky in Saigon, and paying little attention to Trudeau in Ottawa or Allende in Santiago, but the struggles of the future may very well lie closer to home, in Canada, Cuba, and Central and South America.

Bicycle Riders

Lincoln, Neb.

Let me see if I've got this straight. In the same issue of the newspaper with an article headed: "Pollution Fight Begins at Home," I learn via "Action Line" that the Lincoln Police Department is about to crack down on those "slow-moving" bicycles. Please correct me if I'm wrong because I'd really like to get this right: Not only do Lincoln motorists wish to preserve their right to ruin the air while driving cars with motors twice as large as necessary, topped by carburetors capable of consuming anywhere from 500 to over 1,000 cubic feet of air per minute — not only that — they are now becoming annoyed with the inconvenience caused by people willing to move a little slower for the sake of Mother Earth.

I live in the country too far out to ride a bike to town. But the last thing I mind doing is losing a few minutes behind someone willing to put out a little more effort to leave my air alone. Perhaps we cannot learn from the mistakes of other cities. If we could, we'd do everything we can to encourage the use of bicycles. And we'd educate the fools, perhaps not enough to get them on bicycles and buses, but at least enough so they wouldn't be too annoyed by the responsible behavior of others.

As for bicycles in the middle of a traffic lane, non-riders need to understand that a favorite sport of many Lincoln drivers is a game called "brushing the bicyclist." In this game, the motorist tries to come as close to the rider peddling along the gutter as he can without actually hitting him. Honking the horn and-or screaming at him just before passing seems particularly reinforcing for many Lincoln drivers. Sometimes on four-lane streets, a driver in the left lane crowds the car in the lane to his right, forcing that car closer to the gutter. If you're riding your bicycle in that gutter when that happens, things can get pretty tight. That's why many riders simply occupy the lane on four-lane streets.

Rather than cracking down on non-polluters, why not change the law to give riders full rights to the right-hand lane of four-lane streets, begin providing bicycle lanes on two-lane streets, make bicycle registration as simple as possible and certainly free of charge (perhaps we should pay the registrant?). The next time you're inconvenienced by someone else's more responsible behavior, consider that perhaps it is your behavior that should be examined, rather than his.

People Who Care

Bay City, Mich.

My husband and I recently had occasion to fly to Lincoln from Michigan to attend the funeral of my sister's husband, Ollie Fulmer. We and other out-of-towners felt the people of Lincoln should be made aware of the impression that the Lincoln Police Department made on us.

We don't know who the officer was who was in charge of leading the procession to the cemetery that day, but his manner as a police officer was highly commendable, from our point of view.

Though it would appear trivial to someone not involved, to see a police officer stand at attention with his helmet over his heart as the procession passed by certainly lends a note of respect not only to the family and friends of the deceased, but also to the officer himself as a fellow human being and to the uniform he wears.

We felt this officer and the department he represents should know the impression this small gesture made. It is things like this that show people that other people do care.

Johnson Library

Lincoln, Neb.

This weekend a magnificent library will be formally dedicated honoring President Lyndon B. Johnson. In the true LBJ tradition, the ceremony will be simple and short, with only 2,400 guests who will enjoy a barbecue afterwards in the football stadium.

A proper addition to the library, I feel, should be a large number of volumes containing the pictures and biographies of the 45,000 young men who died in an immoral war which he escalated and didn't have the courage to later stop.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

A complete horoscope is based on exact month, date, year, hour and place of birth. Much, however, can be deduced from merely a month and date — the difference can be compared to purchase of a patent medicine as opposed to having a complete physical examination.

☆ ☆ ☆

AIRES (March 21-April 19): Be aggressive in completing assignments. Finish important tasks. Personal magnetism soars; opposite sex is drawn to you. Meaningful compliment is paid; accept without excessive modesty.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Intimate social affair could provide long-range benefits. Welcome new contacts, ideas and concepts. Remember promises made to one who is confined to home, hospital. Adhere to golden rule.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A friend could introduce you to fascinating book, hobby. Express views. Be open to views of others, even if unorthodox. Accent on fulfillment of deep-seated desires. Study Aries message.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on activities associated with professional endeavors. Find out where your goal is — go in that direction. Perfect your own techniques. Be aware of alternatives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Break through red tape; go to source. Information is available if you are persistent. Some files may be in possession of one at a distance. Get in touch. Communicate directly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be ready, willing for change, travel, variety. Financial procedures need review. Mate or business partner may be involved. Accent on funds which are temporarily out of reach.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cycle is not high; time now to retrench, to observe and plan. Avoid direct confrontations. Legal matters demand attention. Heed words from mate, partner. Do plenty of listening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Libra message. Play cards close to chest; don't reveal all you know. Accent on health, work, how you relate to associates. There is much to learn. Realize it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect now coincides with relations with children, ability to create, to express feelings. Throw off fears, inhibitions. Let others know that you have point of view.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Home, property, the way you handle details are highlighted. Finish assignment. Later, relax with those who share your interests. Steer clear of disputes. Do what's good for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasize humor, versatility. Don't take too seriously statements made at social affair. Some now are talking through their hats. Know this and respond in light-hearted manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Money, personal possessions, collecting of needed material—these dominate. Follow through on hunch. Don't be intimidated by one who makes wild claims. Stick to facts.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a flexible person with loads of intellectual curiosity. You seek answers, write, report and make known your feelings. Charm is great asset. If single, marriage is on horizon. Improvement in business-financial status is indicated, with September being a key month.

County Welfare Office Staff Ordered 'Frozen'

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State Welfare Director Lawrence L. Graham directed Thursday that the number of personnel in all county welfare offices be "frozen" at the current level.

In a memorandum to county directors, Graham said "vacancies may be filled, but no new positions may be added."

This "immediate" freeze action, he said, "is necessary to control expenditures (within the 1971-72 appropriated state budget) in order to avoid a deficit."

Less Than Projections

Graham said the state appropriation for "county administration" in the new fiscal year beginning July 1 is less than the projected county budgets submitted last spring.

The county projections would have required $2.8 million in state general funding, but the Legislature appropriated $1.9 million, holding county administration expenditures for the new fiscal year to the same level as the current one.

State and federal funds bear most of the burden of county welfare administration with the counties contributing a very small per cent of the cost.

Impact Analyzed

State Welfare Department sources declined to speculate whether the freeze might later be extended to salaries of the estimated 1,100 county welfare workers, noting the fiscal impact of the state appropriation bill is being analyzed.

However, it was suggested there is little room for salary adjustments within the county administration appropriation unless county offices leave vacancies unfilled to gain more dollars or the counties elect to contribute a greater share of their administrative costs.

Graham's memorandum to the counties said no request to fill a vacancy would be approved until appropriate written notice of the departing employe's termination is received.

He indicated additional information concerning "this situation" will be forthcoming.

Reformatory Warden's Resignation Accepted

State Penal Complex Director Maurice Sigler announced Thursday he has accepted "regretfully" the decision of Reformatory Warden Edwin L. Scarborough to retire because of health reasons.

Sigler said Ronald G. Jones, associate warden, will replace Scarborough as associate warden in charge of the Men's Reformatory.

S. Scott Miller, training program director for the division of correction, will replace Jones as associate warden in charge of programs, Sigler said.

Sigler said Scarborough has agreed to remain with the reformatory during the transition period, expected to take about a month.

Scarborough, 61, joined the prison staff in 1956 as laundry superintendent. He was recently hospitalized.

Water Plan Study Will Be Presented To Legislature

The State Water and Soil Conservation Commission agreed Thursday to present its four-year study for a state water plan to the Legislature before its adjournment next Wednesday.

Executive Director Dayle Williamson said the commission had hoped to present the plan to the senators for some type of legislative action this session, but the plan was not completed early enough to fit into the 90-day Unicameral session.

The 100-page-plus document is a framework study regarding the utilization of Nebraska's water and land resources. The study was ordered by the 1967 Legislature with a completion deadline of June 30 of this year.

Williamson said the commission has received word its plan for a Salt Valley Water Quality Management Study has been approved by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The commission began the two-year study Feb. 1 in conjunction with the City of Lincoln and the Salt Valley Watershed District.

Williamson said the EPA is financing half of the study with a $99,300 grant. The study is being done to fulfill federal requirements that metropolitan area and basin area studies be done in order to qualify for federal sewage construction grants.

In other action, the commission:

—recommended the request of the City of McCook for a flood plain plan study to the Kansas City regional office of the Corps of Engineers.

—was advised the Ash-Plum Watershed District in Garden County has been dissolved as a result of the vote of the electorate, which expressed opposition to a proposed plan for watershed structures. An estimated $45,000 in federal and state funds has gone into the watershed planning.

—received a water and land use report for the Elkhorn River basin from the Soil Conservation Service as the first step toward long-range planning for watershed structures in the basin.

Bierhaus Named To Aeronautics Board By Exon

Gov. J. James Exon announced Thursday the appointment of Herbert W. Bierhaus of Holdrege to the State Aeronautics Commission for a five-year term.

Bierhaus, who is Holdrege's mayor and a pilot, succeeds Jess Quinn of Gothenburg, whose commission term has expired.

Also announced was the appointment of William Mayben of Columbus, a partner in the engineering consulting firm of R. W. Beck and Associates, to the State Soil and Water Commission.

Other announced appointments included Joseph J. Cascio of Omaha to the Board of Public Roads Classifications and Standards and Mrs. Eleanor Enersen of Lincoln to the Crippled Children's Committee.

Better Telephone Service OKd For Albion, Bertrand

The State Railway Commission reported Thursday it has authorized General Telephone Co. of the Midwest at Columbus to establish four-party and one-party telephone service for rural customers in the Albion and Bertrand area.

The present multi-party service will be discontinued when the new system is completed, the commission said. Extended area service will be provided between Bertrand and Loomis.

The commission said petitions fort he improved service were signed by over 80% of the rural subscribers affected.

Two State Patrol Officers Promoted

State Patrol Supt. James E. Kruger announced Thursday the promotion of Capt. Claude E. Whitney and Capt. Elmer P. Schroeder to the rank of major effective June 1.

Whitney, who joined the patrol in 1945, is presently in charge of Troop B operations at Norfolk, but will be transferred to Lincoln with a new assignment.

Schroeder, who has been with the patrol since 1946, will continue to be stationed in Lincoln. He is presently in charge of safety educaiotn and training operations.

County Welfare Office Staff Ordered 'Frozen'

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

State Welfare Director Lawrence L. Graham directed Thursday that the number of personnel in all county welfare offices be "frozen" at the current level.

In a memorandum to county directors, Graham said "vacancies may be filled, but no new positions may be added."

This "immediate" freeze action, he said, "is necessary to control expenditures (within the 1971-72 appropriated state budget) in order to avoid a deficit."

Less Than Projections

Graham said the state appropriation for "county administration" in the new fiscal year beginning July 1 is less than the projected county budgets submitted last spring.

The county projections would have required $2.8 million in state general funding, but the Legislature appropriated $1.9 million, holding county administration expenditures for the new fiscal year to the same level as the current one.

State and federal funds bear most of the burden of county welfare administration with the counties contributing a very small per cent of the cost.

Impact Analyzed

State Welfare Department sources declined to speculate whether the freeze might later be extended to salaries of the estimated 1,100 county welfare workers, noting the fiscal impact of the state appropriation bill is being analyzed.

However, it was suggested there is little room for salary adjustments within the county administration appropriation unless county offices leave vacancies unfilled to gain more dollars or the counties elect to contribute a greater share of their administrative costs.

Graham's memorandum to the counties said no request to fill a vacancy would be approved until appropriate written notice of the departing employe's termination is received.

He indicated additional information concerning "this situation" will be forthcoming.

Reformatory Warden's Resignation Accepted

State Penal Complex Director Maurice Sigler announced Thursday he has accepted "regretfully" the decision of Reformatory Warden Edwin L. Scarborough to retire because of health reasons.

Sigler said Ronald G. Jones, associate warden, will replace Scarborough as associate warden in charge of the Men's Reformatory.

S. Scott Miller, training program director for the division of correction, will replace Jones as associate warden in charge of programs, Sigler said.

Sigler said Scarborough has agreed to remain with the reformatory during the transition period, expected to take about a month.

Scarborough, 61, joined the prison staff in 1956 as laundry superintendent. He was recently hospitalized.

Water Plan Study Will Be Presented To Legislature

The State Water and Soil Conservation Commission agreed Thursday to present its four-year study for a state water plan to the Legislature before its adjournment next Wednesday.

Executive Director Dayle Williamson said the commission had hoped to present the plan to the senators for some type of legislative action this session, but the plan was not completed early enough to fit into the 90-day Unicameral session.

The 100-page-plus document is a framework study regarding the utilization of Nebraska's water and land resources. The study was ordered by the 1967 Legislature with a completion deadline of June 30 of this year.

Williamson said the commission has received word its plan for a Salt Valley Water Quality Management Study has been approved by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The commission began the two-year study Feb. 1 in conjunction with the City of Lincoln and the Salt Valley Watershed District.

Williamson said the EPA is financing half of the study with a $99,300 grant. The study is being done to fulfill federal requirements that metropolitan area and basin area studies be done in order to qualify for federal sewage construction grants.

In other action, the commission:

—recommended the request of the City of McCook for a flood plain plan study to the Kansas City regional office of the Corps of Engineers.

—was advised the Ash-Plum Watershed District in Garden County has been dissolved as a result of the vote of the electorate, which expressed opposition to a proposed plan for watershed structures. An estimated $45,000 in federal and state funds has gone into the watershed planning.

—received a water and land use report for the Elkhorn River basin from the Soil Conservation Service as the first step toward long-range planning for watershed structures in the basin.

Increase In State Aid To Counties OKd

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday sent on its way to a possible gubernatorial veto a bill increasing state aid to counties by some $2.8 million a year.

The measure, LB707, sponsored by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, cleared its final test on a 29-15 vote.

Thirty votes would be required to override a veto.

Ten of the 15 opposition votes were cast by Lincoln and Omaha senators.

LB707 would boost the governmental subdivision assistance fund to $12.6 million a year, with all additional funds going to the counties.

New Division

Under the new division, cities would receive about $8 million a year and $4.6 million would go to the counties.

Burbach said the proposal would allow counties to fully recover their loss of revenue sustained in 1967 when the Legislature repealed the intangible property tax, the property levy on household goods and head taxes.

The current state aid program to cities replaced their entire revenue loss from repeal of those taxes, Burbach said.

The fiscal impact of LB707 would amount to less than a one-half percent increase in the personal income tax rate.

Resource Districts

Another major Burbach bill ordering the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission to establish new boundaries for proposed natural resource districts was passed on a 28-16 vote.

The measure, LB538, would abolish the boundaries for 33 proposed districts established by the commission last August.

Whereas the old districts were constructed along "common problem" areas, the new boundaries would need to conform to recognized river basins.

LB538 orders the commission to divide the state into 16 to 28 new districts by Oct. 1.

Reviewed In 1972

Its proposal would then be reviewed by the 1972 Legislature before it could become effective.

A companion bill, LB544, which has yet to be enacted, would delay the implementation of the 1969 natural resource district law from Jan. 1, 1972 to July 1, 1972 in order to allow the next legislative session time to study the new boundaries.

The two bills were recommendations of an interim legislative study committee headed by Burbach.

Among other bills enacted by the Legislature were funding proposals for the new student loan financing program which will be undertaken by the Nebraska Investment Council and for establishment of a new Department of Environmental Control.

Young had served 47 years in teaching at Columbus, David City and Spalding before his retirement.

Education Board Bill Is Returned To Correct Error

The Legislature Thursday passed a bill redistricting the State Board of Education, then discovered the bill failed to include all of the state within the newly defined districts.

The error was found in LB735, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox.

The bill was returned to select file for amendment and is expected to reappear for final reading next Wednesday, the session's scheduled adjournment day.

Want a thick green lawn without dandelions?

Then feed it as you weed it!

All you do is spread Scotts PLUS-2 on your lawn. It gets rid of dandelions, easily and surely. Makes them curl up and disappear, root and all. And not just dandelions. PLUS-2 also clears out plantain, buckhorn, chickweed, clover and many other common lawn weeds.

Fertilizes too. When the weeds are gone you'll notice that the lawn is greener and thicker than before. That's because every bag of PLUS-2 also contains a full feeding of Turf Builder, which helps your grass fill in where the weeds used to be.

When to use. You can spread PLUS-2 anytime after dandelions come in bloom. You won't see any sudden results. But one day you'll realize the weeds have simply vanished. And your lawn is thicker and greener. It's as easy as that.

Yellow grass?
– even though you fertilize?

It's likely caused by iron deficiency. Our anemic soils are frequently responsible for the "yellows," even when the grass is fed regularly. And the color won't improve, no matter how much you fertilize, until the iron deficiency is corrected

That's where Scotts new IRON-S comes in. It supplies the plant-available iron that is necessary for good green color Iron-S is not a substitute for fertilizer. It is an iron supplement that, when used with fertilizer, helps yellowing grass turn green again See for yourself — this weekend.

IT'S GOOD OLD BRANDEIS WEEK

Solons Face Busy Final 2 Days

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Preparing to do battle with Gov. J. James Exon over a series of gubernatorial vetoes, the Legislature Thursday decided to schedule its final two climatic days in session for next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Lawmakers went home for a four-day weekend with 53 bills scheduled for a final showdown vote next week.

But the spotlight will fall upon the veto struggles with Exon.

The governor's veto messages on LB264, the bill which would increase state aid to schools by $50 million a year, and LB1008, the Legislature's directive to the Exon administration to issue $3 million in highway bonds this year, will be ready for debate next Tuesday.

Thirty votes are required to override a veto.

Speaker W. H. Hasebroock of West Point met with Exon Thursday morning to present him with a final copy of LB256, the Unicameral's new personal property tax exemption plan which the governor has also pledged to veto.

Exon has said he may cast his veto after lawmakers have gone home Wednesday, thus depriving them of an opportunity to attempt to override him.

Hasebroock told the governor senators hoped he would send the veto message to them Wednesday shortly after the bill has received a final reading vote.

But Exon made no promises, Hasebroock said.

Instead, he agreed to consider the matter, the speaker reported.

LB256 will not be constitutionally eligible for a final vote until the 90th and final legislative day on Wednesday.

In addition to those three major vetoes, others are anticipated prior to the Unicameral's adjournment, including a probable veto of LB707, a bill enacted Thursday to increase state aid to counties.

Senators will return to session at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Among the 53 bills which await final action during the last two days of the session are major proposals to create a new Department of Environmental Control, two capital construction budget bills and LB256 itself.

Another key measure is LB167, which would require the State Board of Equalization and Assessment to consider biennial fiscal obligations in establishing annual sales and income tax rates.

There are reapportionment bills redistricting the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, the State Board of Education, the State Supreme Court and the State Railway Commission.

Other big bills would tighten drunk driving statutes, give political parties — rather than voters — the authority to select four delegates to their 1972 national nominating conventions and establish a new Department of Tourism.

Also awaiting a final reckoning are the proposed gasoline tax shelter for motor fuel containing a grain alcohol additive, proposed creation of a Department of Personnel and a major drug control bill.

Motorcycle Helmet Issue Given Additional Debate

The motorcycle helmet issue received another round of debate in the Legislature Thursday but nothing was changed by the discussion.

Scheduled for final reading next week is LB1041, a bill establishing a fine of $10 to $100 for motorcyclists failing to wear helmets. It's a duplicate of a bill vetoed recently by Gov. J. James Exon with one exception — it lacks the emergency clause and hence would not take effect until 90 days after session adjournment, or late August.

Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney proposed Thursday that the bill be returned to select file for an amendment. But he withdrew the motion on being advised the bill could not be made ready for final reading by next Wednesday's adjournment date.

The Clark amendment would have directed the Motor Vehicles Department to set headgear standards and would have required motorcycle drivers who fail to comply with regulations to be re-examined for licensing.

Clark maintained the Legislature was "going too fast." He said study of helmet types and other factors is needed.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion, one of a number of speakers on the subject, said he has been told that in city driving, helmets are a hazard by restricting head turns and impeding hearing.

Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln, who has been chief sponsor of motorcycle helmet legislation, called the Clark amendment "a fine piece of subterfuge" and "a milquetoast proposition with no teeth."

Unicam OKs Adding Five New Judges

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Thursday a bill which would add one judge to each of five district courts in the state.

The lawmakers voted 32-8 to send Omaha Sen. Richard Proud's bill, LB877, to the governor.

Proud, in requesting the increase, said there is a need for more judges in some of the districts because of heavy case loads.

He also noted the situation could get worse as a result of a law adopted earlier in the session which requires a person be tried within six months of the time he is tried or the charges be dropped.

The bill would add one judge to the districts located at Fremont, North Platte, Scottsbluff, Omaha and Grand Island.

Kearney To Honor 3 Ex-Members Governing Board

Kearney — Three former members of the State College Governing Board will receive Distinguished Service Awards from Kearney State College at the May 27 spring commencement exercises.

E. K. Yanney of Lodgepole, Carl Spelts of Kearney, and James Knapp of Kearney, all former members of the Board of Trustees of State Colleges will be honored for their service to education in Nebraska.

President Milton J. Hassel, in making the announcement of the recipients, said, "Kearney State is very pleased to be able to honor these three men in this manner. They have contributed much of their time and energy for six years to Kearney State and sister colleges Wayne, Peru and Chadron."

Convention Set

The state convention of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Hotel Lincoln.

Legislators Urge 80% Federal Role In Meat Program

The Legislature Thursday passed a resolution urging congressional approval of a proposal to increase federal participation in the state-federal meat inspection program.

The proposal is contained in a bill now pending before the Congress. Hearings are scheduled next week for the measure, according to Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Carpenter sponsored the resolution Thursday and it was adopted on a 30-0 vote.

The congressional proposal would increase federal participation from the present 50% of cost to 80%.

Janet Scoville Listed Improved

Denver (UPI)—Janet Scoville, 13, Overton, Neb., was reported doing "moderately well" Thursday at Veterans Hospital here following a second kidney transplant.

A hospital spokesman said the report denotes improvement over her previous "fair" condition. The youngster will experience some rejection tendencies as all kidney transplant patients do, the spokesman said.

Janet received the second kidney Sunday. Her body earlier rejected a kidney donated by her father, Dean, who has been released from the hospital.

Tenants To Meet

The City-Wide Tenants Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Malone Center to discuss plans of action for better housing.

Chick Production Declines In April

Government agricultural statisticians reported Nebraska's commercial hatcheries produced 1,837,000 chicks during April, a decline of 15% from the same month last year.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said declines were recorded for both egg-type chicks and broiler-type chicks.

The congressional proposal would increase federal participation from the present 50% of cost to 80%.

Janet Scoville Listed Improved

Denver (UPI)—Janet Scoville, 13, Overton, Neb., was reported doing "moderately well" Thursday at Veterans Hospital here following a second kidney transplant.

A hospital spokesman said the report denotes improvement over her previous "fair" condition. The youngster will experience some rejection tendencies as all kidney transplant patients do, the spokesman said.

Janet received the second kidney Sunday. Her body earlier rejected a kidney donated by her father, Dean, who has been released from the hospital.

Tenants To Meet

The City-Wide Tenants Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Malone Center to discuss plans of action for better housing.

Chick Production Declines In April

Government agricultural statisticians reported Nebraska's commercial hatcheries produced 1,837,000 chicks during April, a decline of 15% from the same month last year.

The State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said declines were recorded for both egg-type chicks and broiler-type chicks.

Four CNW Cars In Derailment

Omaha (AP) — Four cars of a Chicago and North Western Railway freight train tipped over near Nashville, Neb., Wednesday. Three other cars of the freight bound from Missouri Valley, Iowa, to Omaha, were across the rails.

Good morning,

Children have a special receptive quality when it comes to the area of fine arts. Not only are they willing to become involved with new and experimental ideas, but they also possess the untainted ability that makes it easier for them to communicate through the arts.

Summers usually provide a long list of activities for the children. This summer will especially offer opportunity for youngsters interested in the fine arts. Starting on May 27 and continuing through May 29, the auditions for the first of two children's plays to be presented at the Children's Theatre will be held. The City Recreation Department, in conjunction with the Lincoln Community Playhouse, is sponsoring two children's plays. Auditions for the first production, "Adventures with Harlequin" will be held from 3 o'clock to 5:30 on May 27, 28 and 29, at the Lincoln Community Playhouse. "Five Minutes to Morning" is the title for the second play, and auditions for that will begin on July 22 and continue through 24. Youngsters of all ages are invited to audition, and the only requirement is that a child must be able to read from a script.

Acting classes for children from the second through the sixth grades also will be conducted by the City Recreation Department for a month starting June 15.

Another artistic opportunity for children is the Bird Cage Theater at the Children's Zoo. The theatre will present a variety show every Wednesday as well as every Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with two shows starting at 1 o'clock and 2 o'clock. The Bird Cage Theater will begin its season on Saturday, May 29. Sponsored by the Junior Women's Club, the theatre will present a ventriloquist, a baton twirler, and a variety of dancers and singers.

Junior High students who are interested in theatre arts, can actively participate in summer productions presented by the Youth Guild. Under the direction of Bill Roundey, the Guild will make its own sets and produce an entire play.

Lincoln offers a great deal for the young person who is willing to adapt himself to new ideas in the various fields of art, and all it takes sometimes is some encouragement from the parent to get the interest rolling at an early age. Please join us.

ITS EXCEPTIONAL . . . and more. The Student Art Show currently on display at Sheldon Art Gallery has a well balanced representation in all medias. With over 200 art pieces, most of which are on sale, the exhibit presents an exceptional range of talent.

Also currently at the Gallery is a benefit exhibit for art instructor Tom Coleman. Works contributed by members of faculty and students from Concordia, Wesleyan, University of Omaha, and University of Nebraska are now open for a silent auction bid. The bids will be taken until June 7 only.

SPOTLIGHT ON ART . . . is the name of the exhibit sponsored by the Lincoln Board of Education. The exhibit is on display throughout the Public School Administration Building, 720 So. 22nd. On Sunday, May 23, the public is invited to come view the pottery, sculpture and framed pieces in varied media that will have taken their place for a one year's stay. The works are representative of junior and senior high students and teachers. A committee of six selected the art that will hang in the building on the walls of the offices. The Board of Education has provided the frames for the exhibit which will be open from 2 o'clock to 4 o'clock.

SUMMER'S ALMOST HERE . . . and with summer comes the time for outings and park activities. One of the favorite theatre activities. is the presentation of an operetta at Pinewood Bowl in Pioneers Park. This year the Singfest Committee has scheduled "Fiddler On The Roof" as the annual production. The show will be directed by John R. Wilson, director of the Lincoln Community Playhouse, and staged by Art Kuhr. The musical will open on July 9. Auditions will be held this month.
CURTAIN CALL. "THE APPLE TREE" is the current production at the Lincoln Community Playhouse. This delightful musical will be presented on May 21-23. Curtain rises at 8:30 Friday and Saturday, and 7:30 on Sunday.

. . . PLAYHOUSE PUPPETEERS . . . will present "the Magic Bird" at the Community Playhouse on Saturday, May 22. Showtime is 3 o'clock.

. . . ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBIT . . . by University of Nebraska students is now showing at the NU student union. The exhibit will be in the lounge through May 29.
. . . PAINTINGS . . . from the Associated Arts of Omaha are now on exhibit at First Federal in Lincoln.

Southeast Girls Model Their Talent

Finishing in the winner's circle were almost 50 Southeast High School girls who worked with a variety of fashions in their clothing classes.

By GAIL HERSTEAD

Hemlines were definitely up and all seamstress were "on the mark" as Mrs. L. William Waldo's Southeast High School clothing classes were "Off to the Races" for their annual style show Thursday morning.

The "Off to the Races" theme took off with the boat racing division of separates. Two winners in this division had to be Cindy Hodge and 20-month old Lisa Moody who both wore purple tie-dyed peasant blouses made by Cindy, of course!

In the next division, the girls were still on the sports scene. But this time, the occasion demanded bicycles and pant suits. One of the Southeast racers, Jane Etmund, donned light blue tweed pants, a blue blouse, and a white sweater vest to make her 'bike hike' complete.

Jan Arvanette and Sandy Ress drew top scores with their casual outfits in the running race division. Jan stitched up a short denim overall skirt that took on a special look with appliques and her contrasting orange T-shirt. For a very hot race, Sandy made a navy-banded gold jumpsuit with the hot pants look.

Horse racing and coats, jackets, and capes drew the next style bid. Jackie Harris stood out in her red vinyl coat that topped a white dress accented with red frogs. When Robin Freeman appeared in a beige double breasted midi coat, she proved that seamstresses will go to any length to please all tastes.

The style show took a sharp turn from horse racing to dress fashions on wheels, better known as roller skates. Among the racing leaders was Pam Lindeman in a V-neck navy print acetate dress which was sleeveless and featured a swing skirt. Linda Darnell stuck to the romantic peasant look in a natural homespun mini dress with puff sleeves, the wide waist section, and a gathered skirt.

Last in the show, but certainly not last in the race was a group of formal fashions for the boy-girl racing division. Undoubtedly, each girl is out to catch her man in the winners' circle and Cindy Wilson was bound to catch her's in a slinky blue acetate dress with the halter neckline and maxi hem length.

Close to 50 girls in the clothing classes have been racing all year toward their goal — the style show — and culmination of their efforts.

Unfortunately, a certain segment of the teen-age audience did not appreciate the efforts the clothing class girls made in order to complete their clothing in time to display their sewing talents in the show. But they were the winners — the scoffers were the losers.

Abby: forget him—he loves his hair

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Concerning women who display hairy legs and underarms, you asked for volunteers from Italy, so here is one:

I am a male American medical student at the University of Rome. When I first arrived here, I was amazed to see hairy legs and bushy underarms on Italian women of all ages. According to an Italian bachelor friend of mine, Italian men don't mind the hair at all. He said that a "defuzzed" woman would have the same effect on him as a woman without eyebrows would have on me

In a country where people are so preoccupied with romance, it is hard to resign oneself to the daily confrontation with "B.O." on the bus. How an Italian can be romantically interested in a woman who has a jungle of hair under her arms, and no deodorant, is a mystery to me.

My one consolation is that I will one day return to the States where the women and Mr. Gillette have had a tremendous rapport for decades. In the meantime, I'll confine my female companionship to Americans or other foreigners.

FRED IN ROME

DEAR FRED: You have been conditioned by your American background. Would you believe that some European women are turned on by men who smell of PERSPIRATION! And some men prefer their women the same way. I'll bet there is more perfume sold IN Europe than SOAP!

DEAR ABBY: I am a young girl but old enough to have a boy friend. I live in Arkansas and my boy friend lives in Glendale, Cal. (He used to live in Arkansas.) Well, every summer my boy friend comes to Arkansas to visit his grandmother. Last summer he came here and his grandmother made him cut his hair, so he wrote and told me he wasn't coming this summer because his grandmother told him unless he planned on getting his hair cut first, not to come.

Abby, I begged him to come anyway. Last I heard was he wasn't coming. He says he loves me but it looks like he loves his hair more. He wears it down to his shoulders.

How can I get him to come to Arkansas even if he has to get a haircut?

ARKANSAS GIRL

DEAR GIRL: The fight for long hair is one that nearly every long-haired male needs desperately to win. It's not the hair he wants to preserve, it's his RIGHT to wear his hair the way he wants to. I'm afraid you're fighting a losing battle.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable, and have opened One Heart. Partner responds Three Hearts. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠7 ♥KQ8653 ♦10 ♣AKJ72
2. ♠K6 ♥AQ872 ♦J4 ♣AKJ3
3. ♠AJ4 ♥QJ974 ♦AK8 ♣A9
4. ♠A3 ♥J9852 ♦AJ7 ♣AK4

1. Four notrump. This is the kind of hand that illustrates the fallacy of counting only high-card points. There are only 13 of them here, but you nevertheless have highly promissing possibilities for a slam after a three heart response. The number of tricks you can take depends largely on how many aces partner has, and to find this out you use Blackwood.

If partner's response is five spades, showing three aces, you bid seven hearts; if he responds five hearts, showing two aces, you bid six hearts; if he responds five diamonds, showing one ace, you quit at five hearts. In all these cases you make the reasonable assumption that there are no club losers.

2. Four clubs. Slam is possible here also, but Blackwood is not the proper means of investigating it. Thus, partner might have a hand with only one ace but with sufficient values elsewhere to produce twelve ironclad tricks. A five diamond response to a Blackwood bid would not discover this.

The range for the three heart bid is generally 13 to 15 points, but some of these points may be distributional. It is not unusual for a jump raise to contain only 11 or 12 high-card points, and consequently great care must be exercised to cover this possibility while investigating a slam. Four clubs is a slam try showing club control. It invites partner to show surplus values beyond minimum jump raise. The intention is to pass if partner bids four hearts.

3. Six hearts. The nature of partner's three heart bid is not important here — whether it be in the form of high cards, distribution, or both — since, with all suits under immediate control and 19 high-card points, twelve tricks are extremely likely to be made. It is true that partner may have exactly the right hand for a grand slam, but this possibility is too remote to be seriously considered. You can hardly expect him to take care of all your losers.

4. Five hearts. This is an indeterminate type of hand where, once again, you must enlist partner's cooperation. With 17 high-card points and a five-card suit, slam is a reasonable possibility. However, you should feel far from sure of twelve tricks, despite the excellent suit controls, for whether you can make a slam depends chiefly on whether partner has a minimum or maximum three heart bid. You therefore ask him to make the final decision.

a tour of the shops

The sun is out, and school is almost out, which signals an increased rate of children's playtime. So today, for mothers and our younger readers, we decided to take a shopping tour for children's clothes and fun-in-the-suntime toys at Hovland-Swanson, Sears, and Penneys.

AT HOVLAND-SWANSON

We discovered that when little ladies go swimming or sunning, they most likely will choose a bikini — and we really must agree that the little girls look cute in the two-piecers. One striking orange and yellow bikini tie set included a maxi tie-on skirt for a completely different look when the skies turn grey. The three-piece suit is becoming very popular — especially when the third part doubles as a dress. The one we like is in a red and white print and features the bikini and a zip-up-the-front short sleeve dress. If our swimmer wants to keep the casual by-the-poolside or beach look, we suggest a velour three-piecer in bright orange or yellow. Instead of a dress or skirt, the third piece is a short sleeve romper suit that zips up the front. On the other hand, if our little miss shuns the revealing bikini, she might prefer a demure "dress" swim suit that has a white pique top stitched on to rows of navy-dotted lime voile ruffles. The dress comes with a pair of pants in the voile material.

Whether our young shopper has hot pants or a skirt, she needs cool blouses to spend the summer in and we have a feeling she will like the short-sleeved peasant blouses in navy. red, yellow, white, and purple cotton knit. If the occasion calls for a dressier look, we will stand by the cotton peasant blouses with lace trim and smocking.

AT SEARS

For the active young fellow we found a myriad of bright colored play tee shirts in easy to care wash 'n' wear. Beet red, forest green and royal blue colors are exceptionally eye-catching, and the little master of the house is sure to love the emblems of motorcycles or ships or planes.

Tank tops are, of course, one of the newer styles on the shelves for both the younger and older male. They are being worn for sportswear as well as swimwear.

The nearest swimming pool will be so much more attractive with the bright patterned Aztec print swim trunks. These short suits are made in a stretch fabric for longer wear and durability. Surfer shorts with large flowers are also very ppular for our fine young gentlemen.

After the swim, a pair of white jean slacks with cut-off fringed hem will be ideal for more fun in the sun. A matching reversible vest of white denim on one side and blue denim on the other, will dress up even jeans in a coordinated outfit.

For that special occasion, a vest suit has become very popular. The coolness of the vest will keep the young man from becoming too warm, and yet the total appearance can take him anywhere. One of our favorite vest suits was a summery stripe combination of red, white, blue and gold, all in easy to care dacron polyester.

A three-piece vest suit included a pale blue jacket with coordinated striped slack and vest in tones of blue. Solid colored shirts are available with wide ties in great prints.

The toddler will have no trouble keeping up with his older sister or brother in the clothes department. Coordinated slacks and shirts or shorts and shirts, all in polyester will be ideal for exploring. 'Hee Haw' overalls with bibbed tops and either long or shot pants are cute, as well as practical.

'Winnie The Pooh' coordinates in nylon and dacron are available in everything from tee shirts to stretch shorts to swimwear. Most of these items are available in red, white or blue or a combination of the colors. In swimwear, Winnie the Pooh cordinates offers a stretch tank suit for her, and for him a terry lined cotton beach coat with coordinated shorts.

School and Play Wear Co., thinks a child is never too young to begin to learn, and has designed 'educational' clothing for toddlers. A bright colored bubble suit features a clock emblem with movable plastic hands. A pair of shorts by School and Play has a life-size emblem of a toddler's shoe on the pants with a shoelace so that the toddler can learn to lace shoes. The slacks have a pocket with three color tabs that come from the pocket and button just above it so that the child can learn not only colors but how to button and unbutton.

AT PENNEY'S

Hot pants for the young miss are attractively coordinated at Penney's with cover-up dresses that can be buttoned or unbuttoned to hint at the shorts underneath. A collared plaid shift in multi-colors is coordinated with a pair of blue hot pants. The peasant look is shown in a Heidi dress with puffed short sleeve and coordinated hot pants, that once again may be revealed by unbuttoning the lower buttons on the dress.

Midriff tops in a small floral print on a red background coordinate with shorts in the same floral print on a blue background.

One of the most popular items was a coordinated hot pants set in nylon, which features striped sleeveless tops with solid shorts.

Young ladies in the know will be in the swim in petite bikinis with a matching cover-up. The coverups are in the peasant style with puffed short sleeves and elastic scoop neckline.

Chapter K, PEO, To Honor Thirteen Of Its Members

There are very special reasons — 13 of them, in fact — for the plans that Chapter K. PEO, has for Saturday, May 22. The festivities will begin at 12:30 o'clock with a salad luncheon to be held in the Penthouse at Gateway Manor. The luncheon hostesses include Mrs. Ted Highes, Mrs. Olen Brake, Mrs. R. V. Black, Mrs. C. H. Arnold and Mrs. Charles Cadwallader.

The chapter will pay tribute to 13 of its members who joined Chapter K more than 50 years ago.

The group to be honored is composed of Mrs. Vadie Cameron, who have been members for 70 years; Miss Ethel Jones, Mrs. Josephine Barber and Mrs. Neva Tyers, who have 68 years of membership; Mrs. Blanche Barch, who has been a member for 64 years; Mrs. Grace Cartney and Mrs. Besse Davis — a member for 61 years; Mrs. Calla Wilson, who joined Chapter K, 58 years ago; Mrs. Aura Trester, who has 58 years of the chapter's membership to her credit; Miss Grace Bennett and Miss Helen Thompson both have been members for 54 years, and Miss Inez Kenagy who can boast of 52 years of membership.

Chapter K was organized on March 28, 1893, and is the oldest of the PEO chapters in Lincoln.

The program, in charge of Mrs. Donald Bechller, has for its theme "Time for Reminiscing," and music will be presented by the Four-Tunettes, a women's Barbershop Quartet.

Don't feel overweight, ...puffed-up, bloated

—when body-water retention "swells" your waist, thighs, legs, arms.

It's natural that you, too, may have a tendency to retain water in your system—body bloating fluid that builds up during the strenuous days of your pre-menstrual or menstrual period, or stress and overtiredness. That's why it makes such good sense to try X-PEL, the amazing new "Water Pills." They are a gentle diuretic that helps you lose water-weight gain, and relieve body-bloating puffiness, tummy bloat, arms and legs enlargement, and water retentive "swelling" due to water-weight gain. Guaranteed or money back. Ask your druggist for X-PEL "Water Pills" today because it must work for you, or you don't lose a penny.

a tour of the shops

The sun is out, and school is almost out, which signals an increased rate of children's playtime. So today, for mothers and our younger readers, we decided to take a shopping tour for children's clothes and fun-in-the-suntime toys at Hovland-Swanson, Sears, and Penneys.

AT HOVLAND-SWANSON

We discovered that when little ladies go swimming or sunning, they most likely will choose a bikini — and we really must agree that the little girls look cute in the two-piecers. One striking orange and yellow bikini tie set included a maxi tie-on skirt for a completely different look when the skies turn grey. The three-piece suit is becoming very popular — especially when the third part doubles as a dress. The one we like is in a red and white print and features the bikini and a zip-up-the-front short sleeve dress. If our swimmer wants to keep the casual by-the-poolside or beach look, we suggest a velour three-piecer in bright orange or yellow. Instead of a dress or skirt, the third piece is a short sleeve romper suit that zips up the front. On the other hand, if our little miss shuns the revealing bikini, she might prefer a demure "dress" swim suit that has a white pique top stitched on to rows of navy-dotted lime voile ruffles. The dress comes with a pair of pants in the voile material.

Whether our young shopper has hot pants or a skirt, she needs cool blouses to spend the summer in and we have a feeling she will like the short-sleeved peasant blouses in navy, red, yellow, white, and purple cotton knit. If the occasion calls for a dressier look, we will stand by the cotton peasant blouses with lace trim and smocking.

AT SEARS

For the active young fellow we found a myriad of bright colored play tee shirts in easy to care wash 'n' wear. Beet red, forest green and royal blue colors are exceptionally eye-catching, and the little master of the house is sure to love the emblems of motorcycles or ships or planes.

Tank tops are, of course, one of the newer styles on the shelves for both the younger and older male. They are being worn for sportswear as well as swimwear.

The nearest swimming pool will be so much more attractive with the bright patterned Aztec print swim trunks. These short suits are made in a stretch fabric for longer wear and durability. Surfer shorts with large flowers are also very ppular for our fine young gentlemen.

After the swim, a pair of white jean slacks with cut-off fringed hem will be ideal for more fun in the sun. A matching reversible vest of white denim on one side and blue denim on the other, will dress up even jeans in a coordinated outfit.

For that special occasion, a vest suit has become very popular. The coolness of the vest will keep the young man from becoming too warm, and yet the total appearance can take him anywhere. One of our favorite vest suits was a summery stripe combination of red, white, blue and gold, all in easy to care dacron polyester.

A three-piece vest suit included a pale blue jacket with coordinated striped slack and vest in tones of blue. Solid colored shirts are available with wide ties in great prints.

The toddler will have no trouble keeping up with his older sister or brother in the clothes department. Coordinated slacks and shirts or shorts and shirts, all in polyester will be ideal for exploring. 'Hee Haw' overalls with bibbed tops and either long or shot pants are cute, as well as practical.

'Winnie The Pooh' coordinates in nylon and dacron are available in everything from tee shirts to stretch shorts to swimwear. Most of these items are available in red, white or blue or a combination of the colors. In swimwear, Winnie the Pooh cordinates offers a stretch tank suit for her, and for him a terry lined cotton beach coat with coordinated shorts.

School and Play Wear Co., thinks a child is never too young to begin to learn, and has designed 'educational' clothing for toddlers. A bright colored bubble suit features a clock emblem with movable plastic hands. A pair of shorts by School and Play has a life-size emblem of a toddler's shoe on the pants with a shoelace so that the toddler can learn to lace shoes. The slacks have a pocket with three color tabs that come from the pocket and button just above it so that the child can learn not only colors but how to button and unbutton.

AT PENNEY'S

Hot pants for the young miss are attractively coordinated at Penney's with cover-up dresses that can be buttoned or unbuttoned to hint at the shorts underneath. A collared plaid shift in multi-colors is coordinated with a pair of blue hot pants. The peasant look is shown in a Heidi dress with puffed short sleeve and coordinated hot pants, that once again may be revealed by unbuttoning the lower buttons on the dress.

Midriff tops in a small floral print on a red background coordinate with shorts in the same floral print on a blue background.

One of the most popular items was a coordinated hot pants set in nylon, which features striped sleeveless tops with solid shorts.

Young ladies in the know will be in the swim in petite bikinis with a matching cover-up. The coverups are in the peasant style with puffed short sleeves and elastic scoop neckline.

Chapter K, PEO, To Honor Thirteen Of Its Members

There are very special reasons — 13 of them, in fact — for the plans that Chapter K, PEO, has for Saturday, May 22. The festivities will begin at 12:30 o'clock with a salad luncheon to be held in the Penthouse at Gateway Manor. The luncheon hostesses include Mrs. Ted Highes, Mrs. Olen Brake, Mrs. R. V. Black, Mrs. C. H. Arnold and Mrs. Charles Cadwallader.

The chapter will pay tribute to 13 of its members who joined Chapter K more than 50 years ago.

The group to be honored is composed of Mrs. Vadie Cameron, who have been members for 70 years; Miss Ethel Jones, Mrs. Josephine Barber and Mrs. Neva Tyers, who have 68 years of membership; Mrs. Blanche Barch, who has been a member for 64 years; Mrs. Grace Cartney and Mrs. Besse Davis — a member for 61 years; Mrs. Calla Wilson, who joined Chapter K, 58 years ago; Mrs. Aura Trester, who has 56 years of the chapter's membership to her credit; Miss Grace Bennett and Miss Helen Thompson both have been members for 54 years, and Miss Inez Kenagy who can boast of 52 years of membership.

Chapter K was organized on March 28, 1893, and is the oldest of the PEO chapters in Lincoln.

The program, in charge of Mrs. Donald Bechiller, has for its theme "Time for Reminiscing," and music will be presented by the Four-Tunettes, a women's Barbershop Quartet.

Don't feel overweight, ...puffed-up, bloated

—when body-water retention "swells" your waist, thighs, legs, arms.

It's natural that you, too, may have a tendency to retain water in your system—body bloating fluid that builds up during the strenuous days of your pre-menstrual or menstrual period, or stress and overtiredness. That's why it makes such good sense to try X-PEL, the amazing new "Water Pills." They are a gentle diuretic that helps you lose water-weight gain, and relieve body-bloating puffiness, tummy bloat, arms and legs enlargement, and water retentive "swelling" due to water-weight gain. Guaranteed or money back. Ask your druggist for X-PEL "Water Pills" today because it must work for you, or you don't lose a penny.

Universal Pension System Proposed

. . . BY AGING CONFERENCE

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

A national pension system which would cover all U.S. citizens aged 65 or older was one of many recommendations approved at the final session of the conference on Aging Thursday.

The approximately 400 delegates also voted to recommend that 10,000 more low-rent public housing units be built in Nebraska.

These recommendations plus at least 45 others were presented to the conference for approval by nine committees which dealt with the areas of income, housing, health, employment, nutrition, education, retirement activities, spiritual well-being and transportation.

Minimum Of $2,500

Richard Witcig of Lincoln, who explained the pension plan to the delegates, said the proposal's minimum benefit for a single wage earner or widow would be $2,500 a year.

The maximum benefit for a family would be $5,000 a year, he said, and payments would be larger for workers having substantial earnings records.

Witcig said that to finance the pension system, all income from all sources, except pension income, would be subject to a retirement income tax.

'Massive Overhaul'

"In order to prevent destitution and to prevent pressure to socialized medicine, transportation, housing and food distribution, we need a massive overhaul of our pension system. The piecemeal approach of the past is no longer adequate," he said.

Other proposals from Witcig's income committee that were approved included that a widow's social security benefits should be 100% of insured workers, and that the first $3,000 of income received by a person aged 65 or older should be exempt from federal income tax.

The committee members who presented the low-rent public housing proposal noted that of the 184,000 older Nebraskans, no less than 50,000 fall within the asset and income limit admission and occupancy standards of local public housing authorities.

While not all of this number's housing needs warrant their admission to public housing, "it is safe to estimate that nearly 30,000 do," the committee's report said.

The committee members pointed out that only a little more than 6,000 older Nebraskans now are served by public housing.

Tax Relief

The delegates also endorsed the committee's proposals that the Nebraska Legislature enact property tax relief for senior citizens and that older persons be exempt from the urban renewal and code enforcement areas eligibility requirements.

Other recommendations approved by the conference included that mandatory retirement ages in public employment be eliminated, that meals be provided for older persons within their communities and that education programs be especially designed to help senior citizens.

Joseph A. Gaida, coordinator of research for the State Advisory Committee on Aging, explained that the conference's recommendations will be forwarded to the White House Conference on Aging, the governor, the Legislature and local governments.

The White House Conference on Aging, which meets in November in Washington, D.C., will compile the proposals made by state conferences and then will present final recommendations to the President.

Keys Presented To 8 Members Of Bands At NU

Band keys, based on outstanding leadership and musicianship, were presented to eight members of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln bands at the group's annual spring banquet.

The keys went to Sue Svoboda of Lexington, Judy Rulla of Lincoln, Linda Nelson of Creighton, Dan Schmidt of Omaha, Bert Fuller of Arnold, Jerry Johnson of Fairbury, Keith Heckman of Lincoln and Wayne Brinkman of Sterling.

New band officers for the coming year are Jerry Johnson, president; Daryl Stehlik of Crete, vice president; Lonnie Pomajzl of Crete, secretary-treasurer; Eric Hornbacker of North Platte, property manager, and Sue Carlson of Hartington, ladies sponsor.

New officers elected for Kappa Kappa Psi, national band fraternity which this year replaced the NU chapter of Gamma Lambda, established in 1906, are Bob Jenkins of Lincoln, president; Tom Reeser of Grand Island, vice president; Neal Baker of Crete, secretary, and Steve Forbes of Ralston, treasurer.

Universal Pension System Proposed

. . . BY AGING CONFERENCE

By WAYNE KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

A national pension system which would cover all U.S. citizens aged 65 or older was one of many recommendations approved at the final session of the conference on Aging Thursday.

The approximately 400 delegates also voted to recommend that 10,000 more low-rent public housing units be built in Nebraska.

These recommendations plus at least 45 others were presented to the conference for approval by nine committees which dealt with the areas of income, housing, health, employment, nutrition, education, retirement activities, spiritual well-being and transportation.

Minimum Of $2,500

Richard Witcig of Lincoln, who explained the pension plan to the delegates, said the proposal's minimum benefit for a single wage earner or widow would be $2,500 a year.

The maximum benefit for a family would be $5,000 a year, he said, and payments would be larger for workers having substantial earnings records.

Witcig said that to finance the pension system, all income from all sources, except pension income, would be subject to a retirement income tax.

'Massive Overhaul'

"In order to prevent destitution and to prevent pressure to socialized medicine, transportation, housing and food distribution, we need a massive overhaul of our pension system. The piecemeal approach of the past is no longer adequate," he said.

Other proposals from Witcig's income committee that were approved included that a widow's social security benefits should be 100% of insured workers, and that the first $3,000 of income received by a person aged 65 or older should be exempt from federal income tax.

While not all of this number's housing needs warrant their admission to public housing, "it is safe to estimate that nearly 30,000 do," the committee's report said.

The committee members pointed out that only a little more than 6,000 older Nebraskans now are served by public housing.

Tax Relief

The delegates also endorsed the committee's proposals that the Nebraska Legislature enact property tax relief for senior citizens and that older persons be exempt from the urban renewal and code enforcement areas eligibility requirements.

Other recommendations approved by the conference included that mandatory retirement ages in public employment be eliminated, that meals be provided for older persons within their communities and that education programs be especially designed to help senior citizens.

Joseph A. Gaida, coordinator of research for the State Advisory Committee on Aging, explained that the conference's recommendations will be forwarded to the White House Conference on Aging, the governor, the Legislature and local governments.

Summery days of wine and roses. Our roses are blooming all over the place. I got a case of red wine of burgundy: Chateau des Labourons, 1964. A good year.

I don't mean the wine. I mean me. Anytime I can get a case of red vino tucked away, it's a good year. Happy days.

"What are your writing habits?"

A journalism class wants to know that. Presumably for education — or maybe the kid is gunning for my job.

"Would you be able to write us a short essay on 'How To Be A Journalist'?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Simple question. Simple answer. The way to be a journalist is to get out of the newspaper business.

When I was boiling oil for the dailies, my passport said "Newspaperman."

When I began writing a column, they changed it to "Journalist."

Class will tell.

☆ ☆ ☆

Next question: my writing habits. First, it is no habit. More like an affliction, Id say. I wish it was a habit. I'd like that.

Once you have become a journalist, write about important things. Journalists write stamp columns. Columns on world affairs. Fix-it-yourself-at-home columns.

They second-guess the President, and advise the lovelorn.

Write on one side of the paper. Triple-space. (It gives the copy desk second-guessers room to pencil out your best lines. Write in their best lines.)

Type your by-line—your name. Newspapermen are given by-lines by the editor as an award of merit. Journalists award themselves first. Before they write. Who should know better?

Journalists can write "I". Newspapermen must never refer to themselves in any way. But journalists don't let other people's opinions get higher billing than their own.

When I was a newspaperman, I took notes. A journalist never takes notes. Why take notes? We aren't going to give the interviewee much space anyway.

We are going to print what we think about it.

☆ ☆ ☆

James Gordon Bennett inivented the interview. He was Editor of the New York Herald in those golden days when reporters wrote their stories with quill pens.

Said Mr. Bennett one day: "Boys, hit the street and get some interviews."

The reporters said: "What is an interview, sir?

Mr. Bennett said: "Don't ask me foolish questions. Go out and ask other people foolish questions."

Thus the interview was born.

☆ ☆ ☆

When I was reporting the day's dreariness, I drew low class interviews.

"Why did you set fire to your husband, Madam?"

"Because he said I burned the toast."

While rising to journalist, never let the subject answer. The subject's answers are not journalistic.

Consider the plane that limps in, one engine out and another on fire.

The passenger says: "I'll never ride that line again."

Wrong. Go back to the office and write: "Passenger Scrimshaw said: "The passengers were calm and collected. The stewardesses were pillars of strength."

I interviewed a rescued seaman who told me: "The old man was first in the lifeboat."

The editor scratched it out. He said: "The captain is always last to leave the ship." He demoted me to real estate page writing for three days.

Moral: Never abandon a sinking cliche. (Don't forget to write.)

(Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1971)

Type your by-line—your name. Newspapermen are given by-lines by the editor as an award of merit. Journalists award themselves first. Before they write. Who should know better?

Journalists can write "I". Newspapermen must never refer to themselves in any way. But journalists don't let other people's opinions get higher billing than their own.

When I was a newspaperman, I took notes. A journalist never takes notes. Why take notes? We aren't going to give the interviewee much space anyway.

We are going to print what we think about it.

James Gordon Bennett inventhe interview. He was Editor of the New York Herald in those golden days when reporters wrote their stories with quill pens.

Said Mr. Bennett one day: "Boys, hit the street and get some interviews."

The reporters said: "What is an interview, sir?

Mr. Bennett said: "Don't ask me foolish questions. Go out and ask other people foolish questions."

Thus the interview was born.

☆ ☆ ☆

When I was reporting the day's dreariness, I drew low class interviews.

"Why did you set fire to your husband, Madam?"

"Because he said I burned the toast."

While rising to journalist, never let the subject answer. The subject's answers are not journalistic.

Consider the plane that limps in, one engine out and another on fire.

The passenger says: "I'll never ride that line again."

Wrong. Go back to the office and write: "Passenger Scrimshaw said: "The passengers were calm and collected. The stewardesses were pillars of strength."

I interviewed a rescued seaman who told me: "The old man was first in the lifeboat."

The editor scratched it out. He said: "The captain is always last to leave the ship." He demoted me to real estate page writing for three days.

Moral: Never abandon a sinking cliche. (Don't forget to write.)

Borers Pose Big Problem

. . . For Nebraska Corn Growers

By DOMNICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Corn blight has been getting all the publicity. However University of Nebraska entomologists feel the corn borer may be a more important problem.

"I can't recall a year when we had this high count, so we could be in for some real problems. We had two men out Thursday checking cornfields to determine how many of the larvae survived the winter," said Lloyd W. Andersen, assistant professor of entomology at the university.

"Dave Keith and his assistant are hoping to gather enough information to predict when the moths will start laying eggs so we can warn farmers when to check their fields," he said.

4 Borers Per Plant

Counts in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa showed as many as four borers per plant with the insects being blamed for losses of more than $21 million in Nebraska due to dropped ears from damaged corn stalks.

In the southern states the corn leaf blight appears to have cut down the corn borer population by reducing the quality of the plants to the point where the larve had a difficult time surviving.

"Late planted corn could be a real problem this year with the delay in planting caused by the rains," said Andersen.

Recommended chemicals include Seven, E.P.M. and Diazianon for spraying. Furadan which is a rootworm insecticide is supposed to provide some protection through systemic action in the plant, the crop specialist said.

"We will likely get a good test of the theory this year in Nebraska," said Anderson.

Weather Factor

Weather conditions could still head off a population explosion in the corn borer population, he stated.

"If we have a lot of heavy rain and strong winds when the moths are emerging, the population could be cut considerably," he added.

The practice of leaving stalks on the surface of the ground tends to encourage borer survival and stalk chopping particularly in the fall tends to reduce the population, according to the entomologists at the University of Nebraska.

Social Legislation Seen As Nation's Top Threat

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Aurora — "If this country goes broke, it'll be social legislation that does it," Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Thursday, "rather than spending on defense, agriculture, public works or space."

Curtis, addressing an estimated 150 people at the second annual Industrial Recognition Day here, was critical of the flood of social legislation introduced by this year's Congress. Bills for new domestic spending, he said, would triple current spending on health and welfare, double spending on the environment, and "nearly double" spending on education.

If all the new domestic programs were passed, he said, their cost ($133.6 billion) would surpass federal revenue from corporate and individual income taxes ($130.4 billion).

On the subject of labor unions, Sen. Curtis said, "Workers should have an absolute freedom of choice in regard to union membership." He said that he had introduced two bills, which would require a secret ballot by workers to decide whether, and by whom, they would be unionized; and require a similar secret ballot to decide whether to go on strike.

Comparing agricultural collective bargaining to labor's collective bargaining, however, Sen. Curtis said he had co-sponsored a bill which would eventually force buyers of agricultural products to deal exclusively with government-designated "certified bargaining agents," selected from among applying farm organizations and associations — in effect forcing individual farmers to bargain through collectives.

No. 1 Proble

"An increase in agricultural income is the No. 1 economic problem of our country," Sen. Curtis said. "There hasn't been any disastrous slump in farm prices but it's just as if there had been, because the other side of the ledger, farm expenses for machines, repairs, fuel, fertilizer, seed and land taxes, have gone up tremendously."

Federal and local efforts for rural development, important as they are, "should not be a substitute for adequate farm prices," Sen. Curtis said.

Frontier Airlines Back To Normal After Power Booster Contaminated

Denver (AP) — Frontier Airlines' operations were back to normal after an alcohol-water mixture used as a power booster for some Convair 580 projects was found to be contaminated last Saturday.

An investigation showed the contaminated mixture was delivered to the airlines in that form from a number of suppliers, an airlines spokesman said.

The mixture is not essential to the normal operation of the Convair 580s, the spokesman added.

The solution is injected into the engines only when a Convair 580 has a heavy payload and is taking off in hot weather from a high-altitude airport.

1,700 Videotapes To Be Available

The Great Plains National Instructional Television Library will have a videotaped instructional programming library, consisting of more than 1,700 tapes, in use by June 30, Paul H. Schupbach, director of Great Plains National, has announced.

The tapes, part of the assets of the Midwest Program on Airborne Television Instruction, (MPATI, Inc.) of Lafayette, Ind., will be used in the new Nebraska Educational Telecommunications building where program production will take place.

"The availability of the new ETV building figured heavily in the choice of Great Plains National as repository of the MPATI resources," Jack McBride, NETV executive director, said.

Picket Protesting Road Cuts Work Force At Cooper

Brownville (UPI) — About 40% of the work force at the Cooper Nuclear Station near here stayed off the job Thursday because of a lone picket.

Nebraska Public Power District site manager Dave Teschner said the man carried a sign along a county road north of the site that read, "I protest the damaging and unsafe condition of this road."

As a result, Teschner said, most of the men were late for work, but about 60% of the force eventually did show up.

He said efforts have been made by Nemaha County to improve the condition of the road, and a county crew was working on the road Thursday morning.

The total work force at the power station is presently about 850.

Car Verbally 'Reassembled' During Lincoln County Trial

North Platte (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury has found William P. Yow Jr. of Hawthorne, Calif., guilty of transporting a stolen automobile after a trial in which the government called a string of witnesses to verbally "reassemble" a stripped car piece by piece.

Yow was accused of transporting a stolen car from Bakersfield, Calif., to Ainsworth, Neb., where it was taken apart and disposed of.

The government alleged that the car was turned over to Arthur Carol Strand, one of the operators of the Ainsworth Body Shop in December, 1968. There the car was disassembled, some parts used to repair a wrecked car and other parts sold.

Strand previously was convicted of transporting a stolen pickup truck from California and of charges involving counterfeit currency, Asst. U.S. Atty. William Schaphorst of Omaha said.

In presenting his car Schaphorst tracked down parts to other body shops, compared identification numbers on the parts and subpoenaed witnesses to describe their transactions.

Sentencing was deferred, pending a probation report.

$200,000 Housing Rehabilitation Project Eyed

. . . BETTER LINCOLN COMMITTEE CHANGES BY-LAWS

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The Better Lincoln Committee Thursday approved an amendment to its by-laws to permit the nonprofit organization to undertake a $200,000 housing rehabilitation program.

The goal of the program, president George Hancock told committee members and visiting Chamber of Commerce people, would be to make homeowners out of low-income families.

Hancock said that since most present government subsidy programs are aimed at new construction and moderate-income families, the Better Lincoln Committee's efforts would be directed at "those who could not find help any other way."

Making Repairs

The group's plans call for buying substandard houses, making repairs to bring them into compliance with the housing code and then either renting or selling the homes to low-income families.

Hancock said he doubted that that those on the bottom of the income ladder could afford to buy new homes even if the mortgages were provided interest-free and the builder's profit were eliminated.

"We are aimed at the huge void in efforts on housing," he said.

Counseling services would also be provided to aid those who could not afford to buy immediately, probably arranging for them to rent under the Housing Authority's subsidy Program, until they could qualify as buyers.

Only Large Houses

Hancock said that only three-bedroom and larger houses would be considered.

The big need now, Hancock said, is to get sufficient financial backing to get the project under way.

Tom Carroll, executive director of the Better Lincoln Committee, estimated that between $200,000 and $250,000 would be required to assure that the program does not run short of money before it could become effective.

Lenders Interested

Hancock said that several lenders had expressed an interest in providing a pool of mortgage money, and Carroll added that he hoped local churches could be expected to cooperate.

The Rev. Robert Jeambey, executive director of the Lincoln Fellowship of Churches, said some churches might be interested in the idea, particularly in assisting with the rehabilitation process.

Some concern was expressed over whether cheap enough housing could be found and made sturdy enough to last the 25 years or so it would take for a low-income family to pay off the mortgage.

Hancock, who is himself a real estate appraiser, said that the life of a home is determined more by its neighborhood than the structure itself.

He suggested that purchasing houses in deteriorating neighborhoods would probably have to be avoided.

Lawsuit Claims Bullock Violated Pay Standards

A suit has been filed in U S District Court alleging violation of the overtime pay and record-keeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act by W. C Bullock Landscaping.

In action brought by Secretary of Labor J. D Hodgson, Walter C. Bullock of 327 So. 26th, doing business as W. C. Bullock Landscaping, allegedly failed to pay some of his employes time-and-a-half for hours worked after 40 hours per work week.

The petition also contends that the defendant did not maintain adequate time and pay records required by law.

The complaint seeks an injunction barring violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act and asks the court to order payment of illegally withheld back wages.

Animals Given Care

New York (UPI) — The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) noted that in the 12-month period which ended April 30 it cared for some 280,000 sick, stray, injured and unwanted animals

$200,000 Housing Rehabilitation Project Eyed

. . . BETTER LINCOLN COMMITTEE CHANGES BY-LAWS

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The Better Lincoln Committee Thursday approved an amendment to its by-laws to permit the nonprofit organization to undertake a $200,000 housing rehabilitation program.

The goal of the program, president George Hancock told committee members and visiting Chamber of Commerce people, would be to make homeowners out of low-income families.

Hancock said that since most present government subsidy programs are aimed at new construction and moderate-income families, the Better Lincoln Committee's efforts would be directed at "those who could not find help any other way."

Making Repairs

The group's plans call for buying substandard houses, making repairs to bring them into compliance with the housing code and then either renting or selling the homes to low-income families.

Hancock said he doubted that that those on the bottom of the income ladder could afford to buy new homes even if the mortgages were provided interest-free and the builder's profit were eliminated.

"We are aimed at the huge void in efforts on housing," he said.

Counseling services would also be provided to aid those who could not afford to buy immediately, probably arranging for them to rent under the Housing Authority's subsidy Program, until they could qualify as buyers.

Only Large Houses

Hancock said that only three-bedroom and larger houses would be considered.

The big need now, Hancock said, is to get sufficient financial backing to get the project under way.

Tom Carroll, executive director of the Better Lincoln Committee, estimated that between $200,000 and $250,000 would be required to assure that the program does not run short of money before it could become effective.

Lenders Interested

Hancock said that several lenders had expressed an interest in providing a pool of mortgage money, and Carroll added that he hoped local churches could be expected to cooperate.

The Rev. Robert Jeambey, executive director of the Lincoln Fellowship of Churches, said some churches might be interested in the idea, particularly in assisting with the rehabilitation process.

Some concern was expressed over whether cheap enough housing could be found and made sturdy enough to last the 25 years or so it would take for a low-income family to pay off the mortgage.

Hancock, who is himself a real estate appraiser, said that the life of a home is determined more by its neighborhood than the structure itself.

He suggested that purchasing houses in deteriorating neighborhoods would probably have to be avoided.

Muny Swimming Pool Funds Given Initial OK

The State Game and Parks Commission has given first-stage approval for the "programming" of funds to aid Lincoln in construction of a new Muny Swimming Pool.

The new pool is expected to cost $200,000 and if the pool passes other stages of approval, the state's share probably will be approximately 25% or $50,000.

The federal government is expected to agree to pay 50% of the cost and the city's share would be another 25%.

Del Whiteley, assistant chief of federal aid for the state commission, explained that several different types of approval from the state and federal governments are still needed.

"But I wouldn't anticipate any trouble with the funds unless Lincoln withdraws its applications," Whiteley said. "There is almost complete assurance that the project will go through."

Whiteley said word should be coming on the federal funds in September.

The new pool and related facilities is proposed to be built near the present pool, which then would be filled in and made into a parking lot.

The present pool at 2300 M is in need of costly repairs and will be operated this summer as long as the pool holds out, according to city parks and recreation officials.

Barbra Streisand And Husband File Separation Pact

New York (AP) — Singer Barbra Streisand and her husband, actor Elliot Gould, have entered into a private separation agreement, it was disclosed Thursday in state Supreme Court.

Notice of the agreement, dated Feb. 10, 1970, was filed with the clerk of the court.

Under New York law, after two years of separation either the wife or the husband may file for divorce.

Teacher Groups Return To Court Over Disputes

A pair of teachers organizations Thursday again came back to the State Court of Industrial Relations to ask the court to settle what the associations contend are industrial disputes.

The two cases involve the Holdrege Education Association against the Holdrege Board of Education and the Seward Education Association against the Seward Board of Education.

The court had earlier this year ordered the associations and their respective school boards to negotiate in "good faith" over differences about a teachers contract for the upcoming school year.

In the original filings by the associations, they both listed several points which they said were unable to be resolved with the school boards.

However, Thursday's request for court action said all but the salary schedules have been resolved in each case.

For that reason, the associations contend an industrial dispute exists and both ask the court to resolve the matter.

Although the two cases are separate, both were represented by Lincoln attorney Theodore Kessner.

Med Students At NU Asked For Views On Health Plan

Mrs. Phillys Person Lyons of McCook, who has announced her intention to seek the Democratic senatorial nomination, has asked University of Nebraska medical students to offer their suggestions on a national health plan.

"Why don't you begin right now to come up with ideas and suggestions that can be written into legislation that will be helpful and useful 10 years from now?" Mrs. Lyons urged the students in Omaha.

"My preference is for a plan that maintains as close a relationship between my doctor and myself as I have won."

In other remarks, Mrs. Lyons said the nation should provide more veterans benefits for servicemen returning from Southeast Asia.

One problem which the U.S. should make plans to face is drug addiction among returning veterans, she said."

"If we are not ready in advance of their return to the U.S., these unfortunate drug addicts are going to cause untold numbers of tragic problems," Mrs. Lyons said.

Another problem which Nebraskans must face as the nation gears up to solve its air and water pollution difficulties is surface water pollution in the state, she said.

Indians Observe State Conservation, Irrigation

Nebraska's record as a top soil conservation and irrigation state has attracted a team of agriculture and irrigation administrators from India to the state for a personal look at small watershed and irrigation projects.

"We had another reason to want to visit Nebraska," said P. Venkataratnam, an irrigation director from Hyderabad.

"Our hybrid seed corn program was started 10 years ago with parent stock from Nebraska," he explained.

P. T. Reddy, chief engineer (irrigation) for Hyderabad, said "We feel very much at home in Lincoln, especially after the rush of people and cars in Washington and New York.

"You have a very beautiful city," he observed.

The team is interested in learning about administration and development procedures used in small watershed and irrigation projects, both private and government, in the United States.

"We have several large irrigation projects that were built with American technical help and want to see how you manage your irrigation and flood control projects," said Hit Prakash, deputy secretary, Indian Ministry of Agriculture, from New Delhi.

"Approximately 22% of the farm land in India is now irrigated with many more projects under construction or in the planning stages, both from the use of dams and the use of wells," he said.

The group visited several sites on the Salt Creek Watershed project near Lincoln and called on officials in the State Soil and Water Conservation office and the State Department of Agriculture.

Exon Proposes Alterations In Truck Driving Standards

Gov. J. James Exon sent a letter Thursday to U.S. Transportation Secretary John Volpe protesting a change in federal truck driving standards.

The standard Exon called attention to in his letter requires drivers of all trucks, regardless of size or capacity, to be at least 21 years old.

Specifically, Exon contended, the provision bars farm youth from operating light pickups used in farm work.

"Its impact upon our farm-oriented economy in Nebraska is not only extreme but probably unwarranted and unenforceable," the governor told Volpe.

Exon noted an amendment has been offered to exempt light trucks from the standard but also noted its implementation has been delayed until July 1.

"This extension, of course, is not sufficient" to meet the needs in Nebraska, he said.

The age provision should be dropped altogether, or a permanent exemption be granted for farm vehicles, Exon said.

Two Murtaughs Plead Innocent To Charges Of Assault, Battery

University of Nebraska All-American grid star Jerry Murtaugh and his father, Edward Murtaugh, pleaded innocent in Lancaster County Court Thursday to charges of assault and battery in connection with a Wednesday night incident at a local tavern.

Jerry Murtaugh, 23, who served as a co-captain for the national championship football team during his senior year, was specifically charged with assaulting James S. Saunders.

His father was charged in connection with an alleged assault on Thelma L. Maughan.

Judge Ralph Slocum set July 9 for trial for both Murtaughs and bonds were set at $200 each.

According to police reports, Murtaugh, his father and brother and several other Cornhusker football players were asked to leave the Spigot Tavern but when the Murtaughs returned an altercation developed.

LaPorte Slayer Gets Life Term

Montreal (AP) — Francis Simard, a 23-year-old student, was sentenced Thursday to life imprisonment after being found guilty of murder in the death of Pierre LaPorte, former Quebec labor minister.

Laporte was strangled Oct. 17, seven days after being kidnaped by the extremist Quebec Liberation Front, which seeks separation of predominantly French-speaking Quebec from English-speaking Canada.

Odds Against Open Qualifiers

The odds are high against the 4,349 golfers, who will begin qualifying tests Monday and Tuesday across the country, ever getting to the first tee at the Merion Country Club in Pennsylvania for this summer's U.S. Open.

The mathematical odds alone, not considering golfing abilities or lack of same, against a player surviving the local qualifying rounds are 6 to 1.

And for those, who pass the local tests, the odds in the sectional qualifying rounds against passing the final hurdle jump to nearly 8 to 1.

The last Nebraskan to make it to the U.S. Open was Omahan Bob Astleford in 1965 when Gary Player was the winner at the Bellerive Country Club in St. Louis.

Astleford also made it all the way the previous year when Ken Venturi was the winner at the Congressional Country Club in Washington, D.C.

Astleford will be among 19 amateurs and 21 professionals from Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota trying to buck those odds in local qualifying Monday at the Lincoln Country Club.

Not Even Goodbye

One of the best quotes of this sports year has to be that from Eddie Maple, the jockey on Eastern Fleet in the Preakness, who when asked if Canonero II's jockey, Gustavo Avila, said anything to him when they were running side-by-side, remarked:

"Nothing. He didn't even say, 'Adios'."

The 1970 edition of Big Eight Football At Its Best is now available free to groups by contacting Frontier Airlines ticket offices, Big Eight schools' athletic departments or the Big Eight office in Kansas City.

The film covers the full gamut of Big Eight football, from Kansas State coach Vince Gibson predicting at the August Kickoff Luncheon that to win the Big Eight, you've got to be the national champion to President Nixon presenting the national championship plaque to Nebraska.

Those, who saw the premier of the film in this area a week ago at the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame dinner will tell you it's a great film.

San Diego Padres outfielder Al Ferrara, recalling the days in Brooklyn when he and Joe Pepitone were growing up together, says, "We were regarded as two of the best athletes in the area. Now we're known as the two men who pay the highest alimony in baseball."

Aaron Now Has His Wheaties

You've probably seen the commercials asking Atlanta Braves' slugger Hank Aaron if he had his Wheaties today.

After he hit his 600th career home run, General Mills shipped him 600 boxes of the breakfast food.

Those, who think golf interest is waning as a televised commodity, don't have a statistic to stand on.

The television ratings for nine of the 12 events thus far that were televised in both 1970 and 1971 show an increased audience this year over last.

Southern Cal football coach John McKay describes a loser as "a piano player in a marching band."

Prep Tracksters Begin Exams At Kearney

. . . MORE THAN 1,000 ATHLETES FOR STATE MEETS

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Kearney —With one eye on the skies, hoping that early-week storms subside, over 1,000 of Nebraska's top prep athletes have gathered here for the 69th annual high school track and field championships which open Friday morning.

At the conclusion of the two-day cinder classic, team titles will be awarded in each of four classes. Bellevue is the defending Class A champion. Sidney captured the Class B crown last spring, while Bassett won Class C and Hayes Center the Class D title.

Hayes Center, which has claimed the small school championship the past three years running, is the only one of the four favored to repeat.

Grand Island, the Class A king in 1969, and Omaha powers Tech, Benson and Burke are favored in the big school division. Gothenburg enters as the Class B choice, while the Class C title chase appears wide open, though Grant holds a slight edge over a half a dozen challengers.

The hurdle races are expected to be pivotal events in the Class A chase. Defending high hurdle champion Howard Beacham of Omaha Tech and low barrier king Ken Adkins of Lincoln High will both be on hand.

The title hopes of Grand Island and Benson may well rest on the success of hurdlers Steve Buckner of Grand Island and Jerry Bull of the Bunnies.

The hurdles feature an outstanding and well balanced field with Mike Zobel of Norfolk, Fremont's Randy Sazama, Chuck Jones of Beatrice and Omaha Central's Doug Mann also posing as title threats.

One of the most exciting Class B races is forecast for the two-mile run where four runners who scored in last year's state meet all return.

A new divisional record is expected when Bill Sell of Nebraska City, fourth last May but holder of the best time this spring, Crete's Bob Safarik (2nd), Dan Wilder of Gering (3rd) and Holdrege's Dan Jones (5th) all meet again.

A new divisional record is expected.

The three best discus tosses of the spring, regardless of class, have come from Class B. Aurora's Tom Kropp, the state leader after a 182-10 effort Dick Peetz of Sidney and Holdrege's Jerry Slater form the trio which should produce a new standard for the platter event.

Rick Kent, with the best district qualifying time in the 220, and Mike Mathes, with the top timing in both hurdle events, hold the key to Grant's hopes in Class C.

Mathes faces the greatest challenge. Gibbon's Lonnie Jurgens, with better times earlier in the year and the defending Class C champion in the highs and second in the lows last May, along with Tim Koziol of Genoa, Tim Athey of Imperial and Scribner's Brent Moeller, all of whom scored in the 1970 state meet, form a strong field.

Greg Schneider is expected to pace Hayes Center to its fourth straight Class D championship. Schneider turned in the best district qualifying times in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes last weekend, anchored his school's 880-yard relay team to a record clocking and also topped all Class D long jumpers.

BIG EIGHT MEETS STARTING

. . . Huskers Seeking To Nab Track Title From Jayhawks

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Stillwater, Okla. — Big Eight championships will be decided in three sports here this weekend, but in only one of those sports is there expected to be anything resembling a race for the title.

Oklahoma has been all but awarded an unprecedented sixth straight tennis championship and Oklahoma State, which has won all but one league title since joining the fold in 1958, is expected to run off with another crown in golf while playing on its home course.

Only in track is there expected to be any resemblance of a contest for the top prize with Kansas only a slight favorite to win a fifth straight championship.

The last team to win the track championship before KU began its current domination was Nebraska in 1966.

The Huskers again, Kansas State, Colorado and Oklahoma State all could have a shot at the Jayhawks should the pieces fall just right for any of that quartet.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Nebraskans completed another unbeaten season in duals and triangulars this spring, but they did the same thing indoors, then finished fifth in the indoor championships on the Kansas City boards.

The Huskers are the defending champions in the mile relay and the same quartet of Bob Pierce, Leighton Priestley, John Mottley and Garth Case that set the league record at 3:08.6 a year ago returns intact.

They ran an all-time Big Eight best of 3:06.2 this spring and the mile relay is one of a number of records endangered when the league's top track stars take to the O-State cinders today and Saturday.

The Huskers have another defending champion in Garth Case in the 440, but the Jamaican, who was thwarted in his bid for a third straight 600 title indoors, could have trouble here trying to record a third straight 440 championship.

Case's primary problem is a leg injury that has hampered his efforts most of the spring.

One Husker athlete hopeful of making a vow come true is miler Greg Carlberg, who vowed after losing the indoor crown that he'd "get em outdoors."

Carlberg, who won the mile at the Drake Relays, will face strong opposition from the likes of Oklahoma State's Larry Rose, Kansas State's Jerome Howe and Kansas' Doug Smith.

With that field, they could push one of them to a time under the record of 4:00.9 held by Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale.

Husker track entries:

100-Yard Dash—Horace Levy, Doug Marcey
220-Yard Dash—Horace Levy, Doug Marcey
440-Yard Dash—Garth Case, John Mottley, Leighton Priestley, Bob Pierce
880-Yard Run—Jim Hawkins, Dan Speck, Larry Cimato, Roger Chadwick
Mile Run—Greg Carlberg, Lynn Hall, Dan Speck
Three-Mile—Greg Carlberg, Bob Unger, Mike Fertig
120-Yard High Hurdles—Gary Gressett
440-Intermediate Hurdles—Wes Leonard
440-Yd. Relay—Horace Levy, John Mottley, Leighton Priestley, Doug Marcey
Mile Relay—Leighton Priestley, Bob Pierce, John Mottley, Garth Case

Long Jump — Hopeton Gordon
Triple Jump — Hopeton Gordon, Wes Leonard
Pole Vault —Duane Sullivan
Shot Put — Larry Cherny

On the 6,753-yard Lakeside Municipal Golf Course here where par is 35-35-70, Nebraska figures no better than fifth on their spring play, but rookie coach Larry Romjue holds out some hopes of climbing as high as second.

"Based on our scoring averages, we figure about fifth," he admits, "But if everyone played up to his full potential, we could finish second.

"I figure that if we could average 72, we've got a chance for second. We haven't anyone, who has shown he can shoot a real low round, so we've got to get rounds of near par from everyone."

The Husker team consists of Rick Schultz, Craig Waugh, Scott Brunzell, Lance Gloe and Jim Roudebush.

The low four scorers in each round, two rounds today and one Saturday, count toward the team total.

In tennis, Nebraska has an individual standout in Jack Rathburn, whom veteran coach Ed Higginbotham calls "the best player I've ever had in my 21 years as tennis coach at Nebraska."

But the Huskers, nor anyone else for that matter, don't have the strength to stop the Sooner bid for a sixth straight championship.

NU entries in the singles competition will be Rathburn, Bill Brumell, Jim Rathe, Jim Crew and Sig Garnett. Teaming in the doubles phase will be Rathburn with Brumell and Rathe with Crew.

ALMOST ONE STEP TOO FAR

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion almost was picked off the bag on a snap throw from pitcher Steve Blass to first baseman Bob Robertson. Reds won, 5-4. (Story, Page 24).

Evans' Entry Seeking Good Neighbor Stakes

. . . APACHE CHIEFTAIN WINS FIRST 1971 RACE THURSDAY

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — T. V. Smith knows that two horses are better than one.

The trainer of Four Way Split from the A. B. Truesdell stable and Smith's own Mr. Ogle have been matched as an entry which hopes to score repeat victories today in the second running of the Good Neighbor Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Both colts won their last Ak-Sar-Ben starts at six furlongs but today will scamper for just 5½ furlongs in the $7,500 added chase for 3-year-old Nebraska bred colts and geldings...

Four Way Split, with a win and a place in four starts this year, will carry top weight of 122 pounds and will be ridden by Jack Fiselman. The chestnut colt captured last year's Ak-Sar-Ben Laddie and Futurity Stakes.

Mr. Ogle, with a win and a show in three 1971 appearances, will carry 116 pounds and will be guided by Ak's leading rider J. L. Lively.

The M. H. Van Berg Stable, Inc. has entered Mr. Bum Bum and Benny's Boy in hopes of keeping the Good Neighbor Stakes victory chain in its corral after British Ross won the inaugural chase last year.

Mr. Bum Bum will carry 118 pounds and Benny's Boy will tote 116 pounds. Both horses are scheduled to be ridden by Don Lewis.

Other competitors in the nine-horse field that will carry 118 pounds are Prince Dan, with familiar rider Fred Ecoffey, and Navareigh, with Ken Jones in the saddle.

Other familiar gallopers scheduled to carry 116 pounds are Wichita Charles, with Wayne Anderson up, and Kid Cascio, winner of one Ak-Sar-Ben scamper this season.

Kandy Korn will carry low weight of 112 pounds.

At Ak-Sar-Ben Thursday, Apache Chieftain finally won his first 1971 start after seven misses, by winning the featured seventh race.

The five-year-old black gelding defeated six other foes in capturing the $6,000 allowance test over six furlongs.

Owned and trained by O. J. Becker, Apache Chieftain was ridden by Fred Ecoffey and returned $7.40, $4.00 and $2.80. Sonny's Delight paid $4.80 and $3.40 while Can-He-Scoot showed for $3.40.

The 12,266 patrons watched seven of the nine winners return win payoffs in double figures, topped by Rosy Devil's $71.60 and Goyama's Star's $55.40.

—HUSKERS HOST ISU—

Sanger, Kurosaki, Cyclone Stoppers

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Ryan Kurosaki and Rich Sanger will try and keep second-place Iowa State in that spot of the Big Eight standings today at 1:30 p.m. at the NU diamond.

The two have been tabbed as Nebraska's starting pitchers by coach Tony Sharpe in a doubleheader against the Cyclones. A single nine-inning game Saturday at 1 p.m. will close out the regular conference season for both teams.

Sanger will get the call in the first game just coming out for baseball after completing spring football drills for NU.

He threw 1 1-3 innings in relief last weekend against Missouri but Sharpe was impressed enough to let the 6-0 righthander start. He will be facing a desperate Iowa State club which almost must sweep the three-game series from the Huskers to have a crack at the conference title.

The Cyclones are one game back of league-leading Oklahoma which also closes out its regular season this weekend by hosting Missouri.

The Sooners took two games from Iowa State in their series this week leaving about the only way the Cyclones can win the title now is to sweep Nebraska and hope the Tigers win at least two from OU.

But Iowa State may find the Huskers tough especially if Kurosaki is at his best. The Hawaiian freshman, except in one game against Oklahoma in Norman, has baffled opposing batters.

He has had his best games on the NU diamond and Sharpe is hoping today's second game is no exception.

Nebraska has one question mark in its starting lineup in shortstop Jim Smith.

Smith, who will have surgery on his knee after the season, may not be able to play. If he's unable to start, Sharpe indicated Nick Dean will move in from his leftfield position to short and Tom Novak will start in left.

Sharpe will probably start son Sam at second base and leadoff, Steve Achelpohl at third and bat second; Gene Stoka, centerfield, third batter; Pat Elgert, first, cleanup; Randy Spiehs, catcher, fifth; Joe Baker, rightfield, sixth; Dean, seventh; Smith, eighth and Kurosaki, ninth.

Iowa State is expected to go with two of three lefthanders, Bill Varner, Don Powers or Dave Gillespie on the mound.

Blancas, Knudson Deadlock For Colonial Golf Advantage

Fort Worth, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Homero Blancas and Canadian George Knudson posted early 67s and shared the first-round lead in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament Thursday.

The two tour veterans came in with their three-under-par rounds before the bright, Texas sun sent the temperature soaring into the high 80's, and lured a huge gallery to the 7,142 yard Colonial Country Club layout.

They held a one stroke lead over a trio of non-winning tour regulars, Bert Greene and Texas Fred Marti and Jack Montgomery, tied at 68.

A University of Texas freshman, 19-year-old Ben Crenshaw, headed a group at 69, one under par. The others were former PGA champion Dave Stockton, Chuck Courtney, Jerry Heard and Bert Yancey.

Lee Trevino, one of the pre-tourney favorites, had a 70.

Some of the top candidates for the $25,000 first prize in this prestigious event had their troubles on the tough, hilly layout, however.

Billy Casper, South African Gary Player and rookie Hubert Green, winner of last week's Houston Champions Invitational, all had 73s, well back in the pack.

Masters champ Charles Coody took a 74 in the almost ideal golfing conditions.

The swarthy, 32-year-old Blancas, who hasn't won since taking this title a year ago, has finished seventh and 10th in the last two events, both in Texas.

"I just wish we played more tournaments in Texas," said the Houston native. "I've been close the last two weeks. Maybe this is the time."

Blancas had three birdies and no bogeys in a steady, consistent round. He wedged to 2½ feet on the first hole, hit a five-iron 10 feet from the pin and made the putt on the 15th, then ran in a 38-foot monster on the 17th.

Blancas missed three greens but saved par on all of them, coming out of two traps to within 30 inches and chipped to two feet on the other.

Knudson, a 33-year-old Toronto resident and a regular on the American tour, scored his seventh victory last year in the Robinson Open but has had his troubles since. The slim Canadian, who always wears dark glasses, hasn't finished higher than 11th this year.

He had to sink a 25 foot putt for a bogey on the final hole—he had put his second shot in the water—to salvage his share of the lead.

Knudson birdied the first two, hitting irons inside of four feet, bogeyed the third when he took three from the fringe, and ran in a 35 foot putt on the fifth.

Odds Against Open Qualifiers

The odds are high against the 4,349 golfers, who will begin qualifying tests Monday and Tuesday across the country, ever getting to the first tee at the Merion Country Club in Pennsylvania for this summer's U.S. Open.

The mathematical odds alone, not considering golfing abilities or lack of same, against a player surviving the local qualifying rounds are 6 to 1.

And for those, who pass the local tests, the odds in the sectional qualifying rounds against passing the final hurdle jump to nearly 8 to 1.

The last Nebraskan to make it to the U.S. Open was Omahan Bob Astleford in 1965 when Gary Player was the winner at the Bellerive Country Club in St. Louis.

Astleford also made it all the way the previous year when Ken Venturi was the winner at the Congressional Country Club in Washington, D.C.

Astleford will be among 19 amateurs and 21 professionals from Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota trying to buck those odds in local qualifying Monday at the Lincoln Country Club.

Not Even Goodbye

One of the best quotes of this sports year has to be that from Eddie Maple, the jockey on Eastern Fleet in the Preakness, who when asked if Canonero II's jockey, Gustavo Avila, said anything to him when they were running side-by-side, remarked:

"Nothing. He didn't even say, 'Adios'."

The 1970 edition of Big Eight Football At Its Best is now available free to groups by contacting Frontier Airlines ticket offices, Big Eight schools' athletic departments or the Big Eight office in Kansas City.

The film covers the full gamut of Big Eight football, from Kansas State coach Vince Gibson predicting at the August Kickoff Luncheon that to win the Big Eight, you've got to be the national champion to President Nixon presenting the national championship plaque to Nebraska.

Those, who saw the premier of the film in this area a week ago at the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame dinner will tell you it's a great film.

San Diego Padres outfielder Al Ferrara, recalling the days in Brooklyn when he and Joe Pepitone were growing up together, says, "We were regarded as two of the best athletes in the area. Now we're known as the two men who pay the highest alimony in baseball."

Aaron Now Has His Wheaties

You've probably seen the commercials asking Atlanta Braves' slugger Hank Aaron if he had his Wheaties today.

After he hit his 600th career home run, General Mills shipped him 600 boxes of the breakfast food.

Those, who think golf interest is waning as a televised commodity, don't have a statistic to stand on.

The television ratings for nine of the 12 events thus far that were televised in both 1970 and 1971 show an increased audience this year over last.

Southern Cal football coach John McKay describes a loser as "a piano player in a marching band."

Prep Tracksters Begin Exams At Kearney

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Kearney —With one eye on the skies, hoping that early-week storms subside, over 1,000 of Nebraska's top prep athletes have gathered here for the 69th annual high school track and field championships which open Friday morning.

At the conclusion of the two-day cinder classic, team titles will be awarded in each of four classes. Bellevue is the defending Class A champion. Sidney captured the Class B crown last spring, while Bassett won Class C and Hayes Center the Class D title.

Hayes Center, which has claimed the small school championship the past three years running, is the only one of the four favored to repeat.

Grand Island, the Class A king in 1969, and Omaha powers Tech, Benson and Burke are favored in the big school division. Gothenburg enters as the Class B choice, while the Class C title chase appears wide open, though Grant holds a slight edge over a half a dozen challengers.

The hurdle races are expected to be pivotal events in the Class A chase. Defending high hurdle champion Howard Beacham of Omaha Tech and low barrier king Ken Adkins of Lincoln High will both be on hand.

The title hopes of Grand Island and Benson may well rest on the success of hurdlers Steve Buckner of Grand Island and Jerry Bull of the Bunnies.

The hurdles feature an outstanding and well balanced field with Mike Zobel of Norfolk, Fremont's Randy Sazama, Chuck Jones of Beatrice and Omaha Central's Doug Mann also posing as title threats.

One of the most exciting Class B races is forecast for the two-mile run where four runners who scored in last year's state meet all return.

A new divisional record is expected when Bill Sell of Nebraska City, fourth last May but holder of the best time this spring, Crete's Bob Safarik (2nd), Dan Wilder of Gering (3rd) and Holdrege's Dan Jones (5th) all meet again.

A new divisional record is expected.

The three best discus tosses of the spring, regardless of class, have come from Class B. Aurora's Tom Kropp, the state leader after a 182-10 effort Dick Peetz of Sidney and Holdrege's Jerry Slater form the trio which should produce a new standard for the platter event.

Rick Kent, with the best district qualifying time in the 220, and Mike Mathes, with the top timing in both hurdle events, hold the key to Grant's hopes in Class C.

Mathes faces the greatest challenge. Gibbon's Lonnie Jurgens, with better times earlier in the year and the defending Class C champion in the highs and second in the lows last May, along with Tim Koziol of Genoa, Tim Athey of Imperial and Scribner's Brent Moeller, all of whom scored in the 1970 state meet, form a strong field.

Greg Schneider is expected to pace Hayes Center to its fourth straight Class D championship. Schneider turned in the best district qualifying times in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes last weekend, anchored his school's 880-yard relay team to a record clocking and also topped all Class D long jumpers.

BIG EIGHT MEETS STARTING

. . . Huskers Seeking To Nab Track Title From Jayhawks

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Stillwater, Okla. — Big Eight championships will be decided in three sports here this weekend, but in only one of those sports is there expected to be anything resembling a race for the title.

Oklahoma has been all but awarded an unprecedented sixth straight tennis championship and Oklahoma State, which has won all but one league title since joining the fold in 1958, is expected to run off with another crown in golf while playing on its home course.

Only in track is there expected to be any resemblance of a contest for the top prize with Kansas only a slight favorite to win a fifth straight championship.

The last team to win the track championship before KU began its current domination was Nebraska in 1966.

The Huskers again, Kansas State, Colorado and Oklahoma State all could have a shot at the Jayhawks should the pieces fall just right for any of that quartet.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Nebraskans completed another unbeaten season in duals and triangulars this spring, but they did the same thing indoors, then finished fifth in the indoor championships on the Kansas City boards.

The Huskers are the defending champions in the mile relay and the same quartet of Bob Pierce, Leighton Priestley, John Mottley and Garth Case that set the league record at 3:08.6 a year ago returns intact.

They ran an all-time Big Eight best of 3:06.2 this spring and the mile relay is one of a number of records endangered when the league's top track stars take to the O-State cinders today and Saturday.

The Huskers have another defending champion in Garth Case in the 440, but the Jamaican, who was thwarted in his bid for a third straight 600 title indoors, could have trouble here trying to record a third straight 440 championship.

Case's primary problem is a leg injury that has hampered his efforts most of the spring.

One Husker athlete hopeful of making a vow come true is miler Greg Carlberg, who vowed after losing the indoor crown that he'd "get em outdoors."

Carlberg, who won the mile at the Drake Relays, will face strong opposition from the likes of Oklahoma State's Larry Rose, Kansas State's Jerome Howe and Kansas' Doug Smith.

With that field, they could push one of them to a time under the record of 4:00.9 held by Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale.

Husker track entries:

100-Yard Dash—Horace Levy, Doug Marcey
220-Yard Dash—Horace Levy, Doug Marcey
440-Yard Dash—Garth Case, John Mottley, Leighton Priestley, Bob Pierce
880-Yard Run—Jim Hawkins, Dan Speck, Larry Cimato, Roger Chadwick
Mile Run—Greg Carlberg, Lynn Hall, Dan Speck
Three-Mile—Greg Carlberg, Bob Unger, Mike Fertig
120-Yard High Hurdles—Gary Gressett
440-Intermediate Hurdles—Wes Leonard
440-Yd. Relay—Horace Levy, John Mottley, Leighton Priestley, Doug Marcey
Mile Relay—Leighton Priestley, Bob Pierce, John Mottley, Garth Case
High Jump —Howard Burns, Steve Eymann
Long Jump — Hopeton Gordon
Triple Jump — Hopeton Gordon, Wes Leonard
Pole Vault —Duane Sullivan
Shot Put — Larry Cherny

On the 6,753-yard Lakeside Municipal Golf Course here where par is 35-35-70, Nebraska figures no better than fifth on their spring play, but rookie coach Larry Romjue holds out some hopes of climbing as high as second.

"Based on our scoring averages, we figure about fifth," he admits, "But if everyone played up to his full potential, we could finish second.

"I figure that if we could average 72, we've got a chance for second. We haven't anyone, who has shown he can shoot a real low round, so we've got to get rounds of near par from everyone."

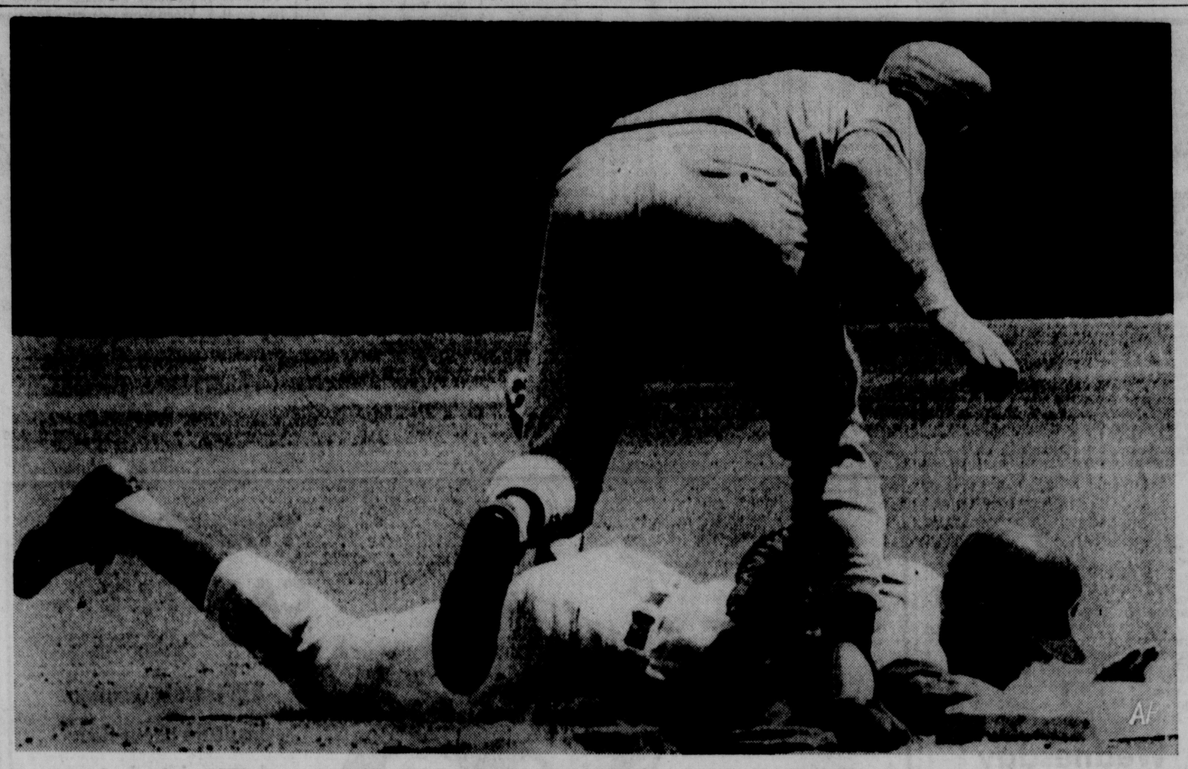
The Husker team consists of Rick Schultz, Craig Waugh, Scott Brunzell, Lance Gloe and Jim Roudebush.

The low four scorers in each round, two rounds today and one Saturday, count toward the team total.

In tennis, Nebraska has an individual standout in Jack Rathburn, whom veteran coach Ed Higginbotham calls "the best player I've ever had in my 21 years as tennis coach at Nebraska."

But the Huskers, nor anyone else for that matter, don't have the strength to stop the Sooner bid for a sixth straight championship.

NU entries in the singles competition will be Rathburn, Bill Brumell, Jim Rathe, Jim Crew and Sig Garnett. Teaming in the doubles phase will be Rathburn with Brumell and Rathe with Crew.



ALMOST ONE STEP TOO FAR

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion almost was picked off the bag on a snap throw from pitcher Steve Blass to first baseman Bob Robertson. Reds won, 5-4. (Story, Page 24).

Evans' Entry Seeking Good Neighbor Stakes

. . . APACHE CHIEFTAIN WINS FIRST 1971 RACE THURSDAY

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — T. V. Smith knows that two horses are better than one.

The trainer of Four Way Split from the A. B. Truesdell stable and Smith's own Mr. Ogle have been matched as an entry which hopes to score repeat victories today in the second running of the Good Neighbor Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Both colts won their last Ak-Sar-Ben starts at six furlongs but today will scamper for just 5½ furlongs in the $7,500 added chase for 3-year-old Nebraska bred colts and geldings...

Four Way Split, with a win and a place in four starts this year, will carry top weight of 122 pounds and will be ridden by Jack Fiselman. The chestnut colt captured last year's Ak-Sar-Ben Laddie and Futurity Stakes.

Mr. Ogle, with a win and a show in three 1971 appearances, will carry 116 pounds and will be guided by Ak's leading rider J. L. Lively.

The M. H. Van Berg Stable, Inc. has entered Mr. Bum Bum and Benny's Boy in hopes of keeping the Good Neighbor Stakes victory chain in its corral after British Ross won the inaugural chase last year.

Mr. Bum Bum will carry 118 pounds and Benny's Boy will tote 116 pounds. Both horses are scheduled to be ridden by Don Lewis.

Other competitors in the nine-horse field that will carry 118 pounds are Prince Dan, with familiar rider Fred Ecoffey, and Navareigh, with Ken Jones in the saddle.

Other familiar gallopers scheduled to carry 116 pounds are Wichita Charles, with Wayne Anderson up, and Kid Cascio, winner of one Ak-Sar-Ben scamper this season.

Kandy Korn will carry low weight of 112 pounds.

At Ak-Sar-Ben Thursday, Apache Chieftain finally won his first 1971 start after seven misses, by winning the featured seventh race.

The five-year-old black gelding defeated six other foes in capturing the $6,000 allowance test over six furlongs.

Owned and trained by O. J. Becker, Apache Chieftain was ridden by Fred Ecoffey and returned $7.40, $4.00 and $2.80. Sonny's Delight paid $4.80 and $3.40 while Can-He-Scoot showed for $3.40.

The 12,266 patrons watched seven of the nine winners return win payoffs in double figures, topped by Rosy Devil's $71.60 and Goyama's Star's $55.40.

Blancas, Knudson Deadlock For Colonial Golf Advantage

Fort Worth, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Homero Blancas and Canadian George Knudson posted early 67s and shared the first-round lead in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament Thursday.

The two tour veterans came in with their three-under-par rounds before the bright, Texas sun sent the temperature soaring into the high 80's, and lured a huge gallery to the 7,142 yard Colonial Country Club layout.

They held a one stroke lead over a trio of non-winning tour regulars, Bert Greene and Texas Fred Marti and Jack Montgomery, tied at 68.

A University of Texas freshman, 19-year-old Ben Crenshaw, headed a group at 69, one under par. The others were former PGA champion Dave Stockton, Chuck Courtney, Jerry Heard and Bert Yancey.

Lee Trevino, one of the pre-tourney favorites, had a 70.

Some of the top candidates for the $25,000 first prize in this prestigious event had their troubles on the tough, hilly layout, however.

Billy Casper, South African Gary Player and rookie Hubert Green, winner of last week's Houston Champions Invitational, all had 73s, well back in the pack.

Masters champ Charles Coody took a 74 in the almost ideal golfing conditions.

The swarthy, 32-year-old Blancas, who hasn't won since taking this title a year ago, has finished seventh and 10th in the last two events, both in Texas.

"I just wish we played more tournaments in Texas," said the Houston native. "I've been close the last two weeks. Maybe this is the time."

Blancas had three birdies and no bogeys in a steady, consistent round. He wedged to 2½ feet on the first hole, hit a five-iron 10 feet from the pin and made the putt on the 15th, then ran in a 38-foot monster on the 17th.

Blancas missed three greens but saved par on all of them, coming out of two traps to within 30 inches and chipped to two feet on the other.

Knudson, a 33-year-old Toronto resident and a regular on the American tour, scored his seventh victory last year in the Robinson Open but has had his troubles since. The slim Canadian, who always wears dark glasses, hasn't finished higher than 11th this year.

He had to sink a 25 foot putt for a bogey on the final hole—he had put his second shot in the water—to salvage his share of the lead.

Knudson birdied the first two, hitting irons inside of four feet, bogeyed the third when he took three from the fringe, and ran in a 35 foot putt on the fifth.

—HUSKERS HOST ISU—

Sanger, Kurosaki, Cyclone Stoppers

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Ryan Kurosaki and Rich Sanger will try and keep second-place Iowa State in that spot of the Big Eight standings today at 1:30 p.m. at the NU diamond.

The two have been tabbed as Nebraska's starting pitchers by coach Tony Sharpe in a doubleheader against the Cyclones. A single nine-inning game Saturday at 1 p.m. will close out the regular conference season for both teams.

Sanger will get the call in the first game just coming out for baseball after completing spring football drills for NU.

He threw 1 1-3 innings in relief last weekend against Missouri but Sharpe was impressed enough to let the 6-0 righthander start. He will be facing a desperate Iowa State club which almost must sweep the three-game series from the Huskers to have a crack at the conference title.

The Cyclones are one game back of league-leading Oklahoma which also closes out its regular season this weekend by hosting Missouri.

The Sooners took two games from Iowa State in their series this week leaving about the only way the Cyclones can win the title now is to sweep Nebraska and hope the Tigers win at least two from OU.

But Iowa State may find the Huskers tough especially if Kurosaki is at his best. The Hawaiian freshman, except in one game against Oklahoma in Norman, has baffled opposing batters.

He has had his best games on the NU diamond and Sharpe is hoping today's second game is no exception.

Nebraska has one question mark in its starting lineup in shortstop Jim Smith.

Smith, who will have surgery on his knee after the season, may not be able to play. If he's unable to start, Sharpe indicated Nick Dean will move in from his leftfield position to short and Tom Novak will start in left.

Sharpe will probably start son Sam at second base and leadoff, Steve Achelpohl at third and bat second; Gene Stohs, centerfield, third batter; Pat Elgert, first, cleanup; Randy Spiehs, catcher, fifth; Joe Baker, rightfield, sixth; Dean, seventh; Smith, eighth and Kurosaki, ninth.

Iowa State is expected to go with two of three lefthanders, Bill Varner, Don Powers or Dave Gillespie on the mound.

Giants Blaze By Cubs On McCovey's Homer

. . . SAN FRANCISCO OWNS 29-11 SLATE

By Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants continue to set a blazing pace in the National League West.

The Giants came from behind to beat the Chicago Cubs, 8-7, Thursday on a three-run homer by Willie McCovey in the ninth inning.

It was the 29th victory in 40 contests for the Giants this season.

Cincinnati shaded Pittsburgh, 5-4 and St. Louis blanked Los Angeles, 5-0, in other games.

McCovey's winning homer against the Cubs followed walks to Tito Fuentes and Willie Mays. Behind at one time 6-2, the Giants cut the deficit to 6-5 in the eighth on a bases-cleaning double by pinch-hitter Fran Healy with the bases loaded.

Bernie Carbo singled home what proved to be the winning run for the Reds in a three-run seventh against the Pirates. Steve Carlton pitched a five-hitter for the Cards against the Dodgers.

Joe Hague provided all the runs Carlton needed. He drove in two runs on a single and home run.

Boston kept its streak going in the American League East. The Red Sox scored their 19th victory in 24 games by beating the New York Yankees, 5-2. Rico Petrocelli's homer with one on capped a three-run first inning, all the runs the Red Sox needed.

Philadelphia handed the New York Mets their fifth straight defeat, 1-0. Deron Johnson's home run in the second inning was all Rick Wise needed for his six-hit shutout.

Detroit defeated Cleveland 5-3 on Willie Horton's two-run homer in the 11th inning and San Diego defeated Houston, 4-2, as Al Severinsen's relief pitching stifled a ninth inning threat by the Astros.

Baltimore led Washington, 1-0, before rain forced a postponement after the third inning. Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox had an open date.

John Boccabella's lead off home run in the 14th inning sent the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Nate Colbert cracked three hits, scored two runs and drove in another and Al Severinsen bailed Clay Kirby out of a ninth-inning jam as San Diego beat Houston, 4-2.

Lincoln Drivers Set To Compete In Drag Races

Some of the Lincoln area's top drag racers will compete at Sioux City, Iowa, Dragway Saturday and Sunday in the second National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) world championship series.

More than 200 cars will compete from a nine-state regional area, which also includes Manitoba, Can. The competitors will vie for a share of $22,635 in prize money and points toward a possible berth at the world finals in Dallas, Tex., in October.

Al Mac of Crete will compete against a former employe, Ron Taylor of Lincoln, and against Ramchargers president Paul Chestnut, for the 50-car stock eliminator honors.

Two other Lincolnites, Larry Eberhart and Wayne Lewis, will vie for modified eliminator honors.

Bourne Leading Meet

Fourth Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — Bob Bourne, one of the many University of Houston products on the professional golf tour, shot a four-under par 68 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $25,000 Maumelle Open Golf Tournament.

Bourne, 27, had six birdies and two bogeys on the 6,900-yard course. He was one of the few players to break par and recorded a sparkling three-under-par 33 on the tough back nine.

Bourne held a two-shot lead on Ken Fulton and Mike Morley.

Bourne has won about $4,000 since graduating from the PGA rookie school last November.

"I feel like my game is getting better, but it is still streaky," he said. "I picked up five checks in a row and then missed six weeks before tying for tenth at Shreveport last week and winning $537."

Entries Still Accepted For Wayne's Camp

Wayne — The Wayne State basketball school has 27 high school athletes enrolled, and a few more can be accepted for the June 13-19 session, director Ron Jones said Wednesday.

Jones will be assisted by his Wayne State assistant basketball coach, Darryl Lehnus, and by Dave Gunther, who started the school last summer and now is head cage mentor at the University of North Dakota after three years as Wayne coach.

Elmwood Coach Goes To Palmyra

Larry Horstman, coach of all sports at Elmwood High for the past four seasons, has announced his resignation to accept the head basketball coaching position at Palmyra High.

Horstman guided Sprague-Martell to the state Class D high school basketball championship in 1967 before moving to Elmwood.

Centennial Wins District Crown

Ramey Leaves Kearney Posts

Kearney—Former Lincoln East head wrestling coach Jack Ramey has resigned as head wrestling and assistant football coach at Kearney State College to accept similar positions at Fort Hays, Kan., State College.

Ramey joined the Kearney State faculty in 1969 after serving as coach for the first two years of East High's existence.

Former Sooner Appointed Scout

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Thursday the hiring of Bo Bolinger, 38, as West Coast scout for the National Football League club.

Bolinger, a former all-Big Eight guard at Oklahoma, spent the last two seasons as assistant coach for Calgary of the Canadian Football League.

Ahead of that he assisted at New Mexico, Tulsa and Denver universities.

New NU Wrestler

University of Nebraska wrestling coach Orval Borgialli has announced that Denny Finken, 138-pound Class A prep champion from Neola Tri-Center, Iowa, has signed a national letter of intent to become a Cornhusker.

Giants Blaze By Cubs On McCovey's Homer

By Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants continue to set a blazing pace in the National League West.

The Giants came from behind to beat the Chicago Cubs, 8-7, Thursday on a three-run homer by Willie McCovey in the ninth inning.

It was the 29th victory in 40 contests for the Giants this season.

Cincinnati shaded Pittsburgh, 5-4 and St. Louis blanked Los Angeles, 5-0, in other games.

McCovey's winning homer against the Cubs followed walks to Tito Fuentes and Willie Mays. Behind at one time 6-2, the Giants cut the deficit to 6-5 in the eighth on a bases-cleaning double by pinch-hitter Fran Healy with the bases loaded.

Bernie Carbo singled home what proved to be the winning run for the Reds in a three-run seventh against the Pirates. Steve Carlton pitched a five-hitter for the Cards against the Dodgers.

Joe Hague provided all the runs Carlton needed. He drove in two runs on a single and home run.

Boston kept its streak going in the American League East. The Red Sox scored their 19th victory in 24 games by beating the New York Yankees, 5-2. Rico Petrocelli's homer with one on capped a three-run first inning, all the runs the Red Sox needed.

Philadelphia handed the New York Mets their fifth straight defeat, 1-0. Deron Johnson's home run in the second inning was all Rick Wise needed for his six-hit shutout.

Detroit defeated Cleveland 5-3 on Willie Horton's two-run homer in the 11th inning and San Diego defeated Houston, 4-2, as Al Severinsen's relief pitching stifled a ninth inning threat by the Astros.

Baltimore led Washington, 1-0, before rain forced a postponement after the third inning. Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox had an open date.

John Boccabella's lead off home run in the 14th inning sent the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Nate Colbert cracked three hits, scored two runs and drove in another and Al Severinsen bailed Clay Kirby out of a ninth-inning jam as San Diego beat Houston, 4-2.

Lincoln Drivers Set To Compete In Drag Races

Some of the Lincoln area's top drag racers will compete at Sioux City, Iowa, Dragway Saturday and Sunday in the second National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) world championship series.

More than 200 cars will compete from a nine-state regional area, which also includes Manitoba, Can. The competitors will vie for a share of $22,635 in prize money and points toward a possible berth at the world finals in Dallas, Tex., in October.

Al Mac of Crete will compete against a former employe, Ron Taylor of Lincoln, and against Ramchargers president Paul Chestnut, for the 50-car stock eliminator honors.

Two other Lincolnites, Larry Eberhart and Wayne Lewis, will vie for modified eliminator honors.

Bourne Leading Meet

Fourth Little Rock, Ark. (AP) — Bob Bourne, one of the many University of Houston products on the professional golf tour, shot a four-under par 68 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $25,000 Maumelle Open Golf Tournament.

Bourne, 27, had six birdies and two bogeys on the 6,900-yard course. He was one of the few players to break par and recorded a sparkling three-under-par 33 on the tough back nine.

Bourne held a two-shot lead on Ken Fulton and Mike Morley.

Bourne has won about $4,000 since graduating from the PGA rookie school last November.

"I feel like my game is getting better, but it is still streaky," he said. "I picked up five checks in a row and then missed six weeks before tying for tenth at Shreveport last week and winning $537."

Entries Still Accepted For Wayne's Camp

Wayne — The Wayne State basketball school has 27 high school athletes enrolled, and a few more can be accepted for the June 13-19 session, director Ron Jones said Wednesday.

Jones will be assisted by his Wayne State assistant basketball coach, Darryl Lehnus, and by Dave Gunther, who started the school last summer and now is head cage mentor at the University of North Dakota after three years as Wayne coach.

Elmwood Coach Goes To Palmyra

Larry Horstman, coach of all sports at Elmwood High for the past four seasons, has announced his resignation to accept the head basketball coaching position at Palmyra High.

Horstman guided Sprague-Martell to the state Class D high school basketball championship in 1967 before moving to Elmwood.

Centennial Wins District Crown

Elmwood — Centennial combined three hits and three Seward-Concordia errors to capture the Class B-1 District baseball tournament here Thursday afternoon.

Ron Luth held the losers to just one hit, and Stan Erks added two extra base hits to help cap the 4-0 victory for Centennial.

Ramey Leaves Kearney Posts

Kearney—Former Lincoln East head wrestling coach Jack Ramey has resigned as head wrestling and assistant football coach at Kearney State College to accept similar positions at Fort Hays, Kan., State College.

Ramey joined the Kearney State faculty in 1969 after serving as coach for the first two years of East High's existence.

Former Sooner Appointed Scout

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Thursday the hiring of Bo Bolinger, 38, as West Coast scout for the National Football League club.

Bolinger, a former all-Big Eight guard at Oklahoma, spent the last two seasons as assistant coach for Calgary of the Canadian Football League.

Ahead of that he assisted at New Mexico, Tulsa and Denver universities.

Road Man Wins At Suffolk Downs

Boston (AP) — Marion Van Berg Stable's Road Man recorded his fourth victory in five life-time starts Thursday when he carried Gregg McCarron to his third triumph of the afternoon at Suffolk Downs.

The 3-year-old bay gelding took the lead at the top of the stretch and drew out easily in the final yards. He paid $5 40, $3.80 and $3 and ran the six-furlongs in 1:09 4-5, equalling the fastest six-furlongs of the meeting.

Black Pond finished second and returned $9 and $3 and Our Crowd posted a $2 40 show payoff.

McCarron, who now has 54 winners in the first 40 days of the scheduled 90-day meeting, also scored on Garde Rullah $8 40 in the second and Saidair Sue $4 in the fourth

Marquette's Meminger Signs With Knicks

New York (AP) — Dean Meminger of Marquette, the New York Knicks' No 1 draft choice, signed with the National Basketball Association club today

The 6-foot, All-America guard led Marquette in scoring the last three years with a total of 1,637 points and was the key to a 26-0 regular season record for the Warriors

UNO's Benning Resigns To Take Central Position

Omaha — Don Benning, head wrestling and assistant football coach at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for the past eight years, announced his resignation at a Thursday morning news conference here.

Benning, 34, has accepted the assistant principal position at Omaha Central High School His academic background is in administration. He earned his masters degree from UNO in 1961 and currently is completing work on a doctorate degree at the University of Nebraska.

His resignation becomes affective at the end of June

Benning, the 1970 Sunday Journal-Star State College Coach of the Year, guided his teams to an 87-24-4 wrestling record, which included the 1970 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic championship.

Sole Mio Wins Aqueduct Feature

New York (AP) — Sole Mio, who missed the Kentucky Derby because of an injury, won the $15,000 feature at Aqueduct Thursday and a possible shot at Canonero II in The Belmont Stakes June 5.

Paul Mellon's lightly-raced Run the Gantlet, considered a Belmont possibility, ran seventh in the nine-horse field and apparently lost his chances of starting in the final race of the Triple Crown series

Sole Mio, owned by Mrs. Taylor Hardin, put on a strong stretch run under Braulio Baeza for a two-length margin over Robert A Irvin's Silver Mallet who was a head in front of Seymour Cohn's Bold Skipper.

Crowder 'Not Interested' In Oklahoma AD Position

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Colorado head football Coach Eddie Crowder said here Thursday he is "really not interested" in becoming athletic director at the University of Oklahoma, his alma mater

Conjecture had chosen Crowder, a former OU quarterback with strong Oklahoma ties, as the No. 1 choice to succeed the late Gomer Jones.

Jones died suddenly in New York City March 21

Although OU officials had no hint Crowder would accept the job, they waited until after Colorado's spring football practice to begin interviewing prospects

Crowder was in Norman Tuesday when interviews were begun, and informed the OU Athletic Council he was not interested in the job, he said here Thursday.

"I've got an excellent situation at Colorado and I'm happy there," Crowder said He was in Stillwater for the annual spring meeting of Big Eight Conference athletic directors

Crowder said flatly, "No," when asked if he would meet with Sooner officials again on the matter.

"I was interested from the point of having been a part of a program which was so good to me," he said

Taylor, Royals Settle Problems

Kansas City (AP) — Carl Taylor is back with the Kansas City Royals and ready to play baseball again

The Royals announced Thursday they have lifted Taylor's seven-day suspension

A week ago, Taylor, an outfielder, took himself out of a game in Baltimore and told Royals Manager Bob Lemon he was quitting baseball

After coming off the field in Baltimore, he went to the clubhouse and burned his sweatshirt and some of his other personal gear

Golf Meet Set At Enders Lake

Enders (UPI) — The Enders Lake Recreation Area will hold its annual open golf tournament Sunday, with registration beginning at 7 a m (MDT)

Twenty-seven holes will be played in the championship flight, with 18 holes for all other flights. Cash prizes will be awarded

The Enders Lake Golf Course, which has grass greens, is located nine miles southeast of Imperial

Big Ten Boss Dies

Park Ridge, Ill (AP) — William R Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten athletic conference since 1961, died early Thursday in a suburban Chicago hospital He was 55

No Decision On Canonero

Miami (AP) — Horse trainer Budd Lepman said Thursday the $1 5 million he's offered owner Pedro Baptista for Canonero II is far shy of the Venzuelan's asking price, despite several increased offers

"We didn't reach an agreement," Lepman said Thursday after another meeting with Baptista and Venezuelan stud trainer Miguel Torrealba "Their price is much more than I believe my group intends to pay"

Meanwhile trainer Al Winick claimed Thursday he has someone very interested in buying the horse

At his Delray Training Center Winick said

"I've got somebody very much interested in the horse now I want them to come here to the farm to talk but they want us to come to Miami I've got a very substantial offer to make and I think now I'm really in the driver's seat with the money."

York Grid Coach Resigns Position

York — Chuck Doepke, head football coach at York High for the past three years, has resigned to accept a similar position at South Sioux City.

Doepke's teams recorded an overall 13-11-3 record at York, including an unbeaten season in 1969 when the Dukes were ranked No 2 in the statewide Class B ratings

South Sioux City, one of the smaller Class A schools in the state, has about 50 more students than York, one of the largest in Class B

In addition to his duties as head football coach, Doepke will assist with wrestling and be the physical education coordinator for the South Sioux public school system

Pirate Murtaugh Still In Hospital For 'Precaution'

Cincinnati (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates was hospitalized Thursday after suffering chest and arm pains before the game with Cincinnati

Pirate officials in Pittsburgh said Murtaugh, who has a history of heart trouble, was examined in Christ Hospital and doctors said the cardiology report looks good

The physician attending him said Murtaugh was being kept in the hospital for a few days as a precautionary measure

Alliance Woman Sets Record

. . . NABS STATE'S LARGEST COHO SALMON

A new hook-and-line standard for coho salmon is now on the Game and Parks Commission's record books. Mrs. George Brown of Alliance hauled a 5-pound, 11-ounce coho from Lake McConaughy on May 16.

Her fish eclipses the old mark of 4 pounds, 4 ounces set by Bob Propst of Lemoyne on June 24 of last year.

According to reports of Game and Parks Commission men in the field, outdoor activity across the state includes:

PANHANDLE

Lake McConaughy (Ogallala) — white bass up to 1½ pounds hitting artificials in the Otter Creek and Eagle Canyon areas;
Walgren Lake — Bullheads;
Lake Minatare — walleye up to 3 pounds on artificials;
North Platte River (Morrill County) — excellent archery success on carp;
Box Butte Reservoir (Hemingford) — northern pike on trolled artificials; smallmouth bass up to 2 pounds taking minnows along the dam;
Whitney Lake — Crappie, averaging 10 inches, taking flies, minnows, and jigs at the face of the dam; 10-inch bullheads hitting worms and minnows; catfish up to 4 pounds on large minnows in the shallows; walleye up to 3 pounds taking minnows.

SOUTHWEST:

Red Willow Reservoir (McCook) — largemouth bass up to 4 pounds, occasional northern pike, and crappie, all on artificials;
Medicine Creek Reservoir (Cambridge) —walleye, usually small but with occasional 7-pounders being taken, hitting minnows and night crawlers; occasional white bass on artificials; crappie hitting minnows in the bay areas;
Republican River (most areas) — catfish on setlines baited with cut bluegill;
Enders Reservoir — Good success on crappie up to 11 inches hitting jigs and minnows; walleye up to 3 pounds on minnows and artificials;
Swanson Reservoir (Trenton) — very good success on crappie up to 11 inches taking minnows; walleye up to 5 pounds itting trolled artificials.

SOUTHEAST:

Conestoga Lake (Denton) —catfish up to 3 pounds; crappie; bullheads;
Pawnee Lake (Emerald) — Crappie and bluegill;
Bluestem Lake (Sprague) — catfish up to 6 pounds; bullheads;
Farm Ponds (Hall and Merrick Counties) — largemouth bass up to 2 pounds taking artificials.
Mormon Island Lake (Grand Island) —bass up to 2 pounds;
Interstate 80 Lakes (most areas) — occasional carp.

NORTHEAST:

Lewis and Clark Lake (Crofton) — Catfish on jug-fished minnows;
Gavins Point Dam Tailwaters (Crofton) — drum to 1½ pounds on worms and minnows; white bass to 1 pound taking artificials; occasional walleye and sauger to 3¼ pounds hitting minnows and artificials; carp to 5 pounds on corn and doughballs;
Grove Lake (Royal) and Verdigre Creek —trout to 12 inches taking worms, small artificials, and minnows; few largemouth bass up to 3 pounds taking artificials; good success on 10-inch crappie hitting minnows;
Elkhorn River (Antelope County) — Catfish up to 3 pounds on worms, minnows, and shrimp;
Lake Ericson — occasional smallmouth bass to 2 pounds, largemouth bass averaging 2 pounds, and occasional northern pike averaging 3 pounds, all on spinners.

SAND HILLS

Elkhorn River (Holt County) — catfish to 2 pounds on prepared bait and minnows; northern pike to 5 pounds taking artificials;
Swan Lake (Holt County) — bullheads on worms;
Niobrara River (Holt County) —catfish to 5 pounds hitting setlines baited with large minnows;
Farm ponds (Holt and Boyd Counties) —largemouth bass, crappie, and bluegill taking artificials; (Keya Paha County) —good success on bass and bluegill;
Loup rivers (Blaine, Loup, and Custer counties) — catfish to 2 pounds taking minnows, liver, and worms; carp up to 6 pounds on worms;
Arnold State Recreation Area, Pressey Special Use Area — bass up to 2 pounds.

—FORMER CU QUARTERBACK—

Crowder 'Not Interested' In Oklahoma AD Position

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Colorado head football Coach Eddie Crowder said here Thursday he is "really not interested" in becoming athletic director at the University of Oklahoma, his alma mater.

Conjecture had chosen Crowder, a former OU quarterback with strong Oklahoma ties, as the No. 1 choice to succeed the late Gomer Jones.

Jones died suddenly in New York City March 21.

Although OU officials had no hint Crowder would accept the job, they waited until after Colorado's spring football practice to begin interviewing prospects.

Crowder was in Norman Tuesday when interviews were begun, and informed the OU Athletic Council he was not interested in the job, he said here Thursday.

"I've got an excellent situation at Colorado and I'm happy there," Crowder said. He was in Stillwater for the annual spring meeting of Big Eight Conference athletic directors.

Crowder said flatly, "No," when asked if he would meet with Sooner officials again on the matter.

"I was interested from the point of having been a part of a program which was so good to me," he said.

Taylor, Royals Settle Problems

Kansas City (AP) — Carl Taylor is back with the Kansas City Royals and ready to play baseball again.

The Royals announced Thursday they have lifted Taylor's seven-day suspension.

A week ago, Taylor, an outfielder, took himself out of a game in Baltimore and told Royals Manager Bob Lemon he was quitting baseball.

After coming off the field in Baltimore, he went to the clubhouse and burned his sweatshirt and some of his other personal gear.

Golf Meet Set At Enders Lake

Enders (UPI) — The Enders Lake Recreation Area will hold its annual open golf tournament Sunday, with registration beginning at 7 a.m. (MDT).

Twenty-seven holes will be played in the championship flight, with 18 holes for all other flights. Cash prizes will be awarded.

The Enders Lake Golf Course, which has grass greens, is located nine miles southeast of Imperial.

Big Ten Boss Dies

Park Ridge, Ill. (AP) — William R. Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten athletic conference since 1961, died early Thursday in a suburban Chicago hospital. He was 55.

No Decision On Canonero

Miami (AP) — Horse trainer Budd Lepman said Thursday the $1.5 million he's offered owner Pedro Baptista for Canonero II is far shy of the Venzuelan's asking price, despite several increased offers.

"We didn't reach an agreement," Lepman said Thursday after another meeting with Baptista and Venezuelan stud trainer Miguel Torrealba. "Their price is much more than I believe my group intends to pay."

Meanwhile trainer Al Winick claimed Thursday he has someone very interested in buying the horse.

At his Delray Training Center Winick said:

"I've got somebody very much interested in the horse now. I want them to come here to the farm to talk but they want us to come to Miami. I've got a very substantial offer to make and I think now I'm really in the driver's seat with the money."

York Grid Coach Resigns Position

York — Chuck Doepke, head football coach at York High for the past three years, has resigned to accept a similar position at South Sioux City.

Doepke's teams recorded an overall 13-11-3 record at York, including an unbeaten season in 1969 when the Dukes were ranked No. 2 in the statewide Class B ratings.

South Sioux City, one of the smaller Class A schools in the state, has about 50 more students than York, one of the largest in Class B.

In addition to his duties as head football coach, Doepke will assist with wrestling and be the physical education coordinator for the South Sioux public school system.

Pirate Murtaugh Still In Hospital For 'Precaution'

Cincinnati (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pittsburgh Pirates was hospitalized Thursday after suffering chest and arm pains before the game with Cincinnati.

Pirate officials in Pittsburgh said Murtaugh, who has a history of heart trouble, was examined in Christ Hospital and doctors said the cardiology report looks good.

The physician attending him said Murtaugh was being kept in the hospital for a few days as a precautionary measure.

Batting coach Bill Virdon will be acting manager in Murtaugh's absence.

Murtaugh had heart problems in 1964, the main reason he quit as manager of the Pirates then. His problem was diognosed as a heart murmur.

Midstates Meet Set For May 29

Cozad (UPI) — The Midstates Federation Track and Field Championships will be held there May 29.

Honors will be distributed on a merit basis for intermediate girls 12-15 years of age, intermediate boys 12-15, junior girls 16 and over, junior boys 16-18, and collegians 19 and over.

The meet, sponsored by the Cozad Jaycees, is sanctioned by the United States Track and Field Federation.

Male and female competitors from Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska are expected to attend the day-long event.

Road Man Wins At Suffolk Downs

Boston (AP) — Marion Van Berg Stable's Road Man recorded his fourth victory in five life-time starts Thursday when he carried Gregg McCarron to his third triumph of the afternoon at Suffolk Downs.

The 3-year-old bay gelding took the lead at the top of the stretch and drew out easily in the final yards. He paid $5.40, $3.80 and $3 and ran the six-furlongs in 1:09 4-5, equalling the fastest six-furlongs of the meeting.

Black Pond finished second and returned $9 and $3 and Our Crowd posted a $2.40 show payoff.

McCarron, who now has 54 winners in the first 40 days of the scheduled 90-day meeting, also scored on Garde Rullah $8.40 in the second and Saidair Sue $4 in the fourth.

Marquette's Meminger Signs With Knicks

New York (AP) — Dean Meminger of Marquette, the New York Knicks' No. 1 draft choice, signed with the National Basketball Association club today.

The 6-foot, All-America guard led Marquette in scoring the last three years with a total of 1,637 points and was the key to a 26-0 regular season record for the Warriors.

UNO's Benning Resigns To Take Central Position

Omaha — Don Benning, head wrestling and assistant football coach at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for the past eight years, announced his resignation at a Thursday morning news conference here.

Benning, 34, has accepted the assistant principal position at Omaha Central High School His academic background is in administration. He earned his masters degree from UNO in 1961 and currently is completing work on a doctorate degree at the University of Nebraska.

His resignation becomes affective at the end of June.

Benning, the 1970 Sunday Journal-Star State College Coach of the Year, guided his teams to an 87-24-4 wrestling record, which included the 1970 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic championship.

Sole Mio Wins Aqueduct Feature

New York (AP) — Sole Mio, who missed the Kentucky Derby because of an injury, won the $15,000 feature at Aqueduct Thursday and a possible shot at Canonero II in The Belmont Stakes June 5.

Paul Mellon's lightly-raced Run the Gantlet, considered a Belmont possibility, ran seventh in the nine-horse field and apparently lost his chances of starting in the final race of the Triple Crown series.

Sole Mio, owned by Mrs. Taylor Hardin, put on a strong stretch run under Braulio Baeza for a two-length margin over Robert A. Irvin's Silver Mallet who was a head in front of Seymour Cohn's Bold Skipper.

COUNCILMEN CLEAN UP

Two new City Council members, Bob Sikyta (left) and Richard Baker, both Havelock businessmen, man fire hoses Thursday to wash down a block of Havelock Ave. as part of the neighborhood business group's clean-up campaign. Baker said he had no idea when he ran for office last month that the job would involve such hard work. (Star Staff Photo)

Mid-State Official Asks $600,000 For Planning

Washington (AP) — A House Appropriations subcommittee was asked Thursday to provide $200,000 more than President Nixon has budgeted for planning the Nebraska Mid-State Division of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program Wallace E. Peterson of Kearney, president of the board of directors of the Nebraska Mid-State Reclamation District, said a total of $600,000 is being sought for 1972 advance planning of the project.

"Irrigation is the mainstay of crop production in our section of Nebraska," Peterson pointed out.

"Without it we have sporadic production, forced sales of livestock due to shortages of feed and a general unstable business condition."

He said the Nebraska Mid-State District advanced $90,000 in fiscal year 1971 and has committed $90,000 more for use in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972 for advance planning.

COUNCILMEN CLEAN UP

Two new City Council members, Bob Sikyta (left) and Richard Baker, both Havelock businessmen, man fire hoses Thursday to wash down a block of Havelock Ave. as part of the neighborhood business group's clean-up campaign. Baker said he had no idea when he ran for office last month that the job would involve such hard work. (Star Staff Photo)

Mid-State Official Asks $600,000 For Planning

Washington (AP) — A House Appropriations subcommittee was asked Thursday to provide $200,000 more than President Nixon has budgeted for planning the Nebraska Mid-State Division of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program Wallace E. Peterson of Kearney, president of the board of directors of the Nebraska Mid-State Reclamation District, said a total of $600,000 is being sought for 1972 advance planning of the project.

"Irrigation is the mainstay of crop production in our section of Nebraska," Peterson pointed out.

"Without it we have sporadic production, forced sales of livestock due to shortages of feed and a general unstable business condition."

He said the Nebraska Mid-State District advanced $90,000 in fiscal year 1971 and has committed $90,000 more for use in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972 for advance planning.

House Refuses To Allocate Funds Needed For Phaseout Of SST

Washington (AP) — The House abandoned its drive to resurrect the American supersonic transport Thursday night, but also refused to pay the $155.8 million burial money approved by the Senate.

The possibility of a House-Senate wrangle arose when the House approved $97.3 million instead, but the Senate adjourned putting off final SST action possibly until next week.

The House adjourned until Monday so final action can come Friday only if the Senate accepts the House's $97.3 million termination figure.

The House rejected the Senate's addition of $58.5 million repayment of SST money invested by airlines by a vote of 157 to 116. It then approved by voice vote only the $97.3 million, covering repayment to the major contractors, the Boeing Co. and General Electric, and federal closing cost.

But House Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., already had announced the House was giving up its effort to revive the SST in light of the Senate's 58-37 rejection of that drive Wednesday night.

"We regard the SST as a dead issue," Mahon told the House, and added later: "The Senate's action makes perfectly clear that the SST, at the present time, is dead and cannot be revived."

Court Schedules Hearing For Mid-Plains Teachers

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Thursday set a hearing on June 10 for a request by the Mid-Plains Teachers Association that the court "protect" the employment of association members at the Mid-Plains Vocational-Technical College at North Platte.

The association contends it represents 13 of 15 full-time instructors at the college and has asked that the court order the school to recognize the association for the purposes of bargaining.

However, the association last week contended that five faculty members have been terminated at the school and asked the court to "protect the employment of association members" while the case is being resolved.

The five instructors are identified by the association as Richard Hawley, Iona Hawley, Arnold Beyersdorf, Charles Suiter and Jean Ditriksen.

The request for protection by the association said the school, through its administration, "has threatened and harrassed" association members since the case began.

The court has heard arguments from both sides in the question of recognizing the association and a decision is now pending.

Drug Charges Filed Against 2 NU Students

Two University of Nebraska students were charged in Lancaster County Court Thursday with felony counts of possession of marijuana and LSD in connection with a police raid on Schramm Hall at the university Wednesday night.

Norman J. Bolser and David Beau Christie, both 18, were each charged with being in possession of more than one-half pound of marijuana and with being in possession of LSD.

Preliminary hearings for both students were set June 8 and bonds were set at $2,000 each.

According to police reports officers found numerous drugs in the dormitory room of the two students charged.

Name Change Urged

Manila (AP) — Some Filipinos claim their country's name, chosen to honor King Philip II of Spain, reeks of colonialism and must be changed. Among the suggestions is Perlangan, which means "Pearl of the East" in Tagalog, the national language.

12-Year-Old Pusher

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Federal, state and local police arrested more than 35 persons during drug raids in four western Missouri counties. Among those arrested were 10 juveniles, the youngest of whom was only 12 years old. "He was a seller," Chief Deputy Sheriff Ed House said.

House Refuses To Allocate Funds Needed For Phaseout Of SST

Washington (AP) — The House abandoned its drive to resurrect the American supersonic transport Thursday night, but also refused to pay the $155.8 million burial money approved by the Senate.

The posssibility of a House-Senate wrangle arose when the House approved $97.3 million instead, but the Senate adjourned putting off final SST action possibly until next week.

The House adjourned until Monday so final action can come Friday only if the Senate accepts the House's $97.3 million termination figure.

The House rejected the Senate's addition of $58.5 million repayment of SST money invested by airlines by a vote of 157 to 116. It then approved by voice vote only the $97.3 million, covering repayment to the major contractors, the Boeing Co. and General Electric, and federal closing cost.

But House Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., already had announced the House was giving up its effort to revive the SST in light of the Senate's 58-37 rejection of that drive Wednesday night.

"We regard the SST as a dead issue," Mahon told the House, and added later: "The Senate's action makes perfectly clear that the SST, at the present time, is dead and cannot be revived."

Court Schedules Hearing For Mid-Plains Teachers

The Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations Thursday set a hearing on June 10 for a request by the Mid-Plains Teachers Association that the court "protect" the employment of association members at the Mid-Plains Vocational-Technical College at North Platte.

The association contends it represents 13 of 15 full-time instructors at the college and has asked that the court order the school to recognize the association for the purposes of bargaining.

However, the association last week contended that five faculty members have been terminated at the school and asked the court to "protect the employment of association members" while the case is being resolved.

The five instructors are identified by the association as Richard Hawley, Iona Hawley, Arnold Beyersdorf, Charles Suiter and Jean Ditriksen.

The request for protection by the association said the school, through its administration, "has threatened and harrassed" association members since the case began.

The court has heard arguments from both sides in the question of recognizing the association and a decision is now pending.

Drug Charges Filed Against 2 NU Students

Two University of Nebraska students were charged in Lancaster County Court Thursday with felony counts of possession of marijuana and LSD in connection with a police raid on Schramm Hall at the university Wednesday night.

Norman J. Bolser and David Beau Christie, both 18, were each charged with being in possession of more than one-half pound of marijuana and with being in possession of LSD.

Preliminary hearings for both students were set June 8 and bonds were set at $2,000 each.

According to police reports officers found numerous drugs in the dormitory room of the two students charged.

Name Change Urged

Manila (AP) — Some Filipinos claim their country's name, chosen to honor King Philip II of Spain, reeks of colonialism and must be changed. Among the suggestions is Perlangan, which means "Pearl of the East" in Tagalog, the national language.

12-Year-Old Pusher

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Federal, state and local police arrested more than 35 persons during drug raids in four western Missouri counties. Among those arrested were 10 juveniles, the youngest of whom was only 12 years old. "He was a seller," Chief Deputy Sheriff Ed House said.

Stocks Drift Higher In Moderate Trade

New York (AP) — The stock market drifted higher Thursday in fairly moderate trading as bargain hunters continued nibbling at issues depressed by the sharp drop earlier this week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 3.37 points to 923.41. Earlier in the day, the Dow was up more than 6 points, but buying enthusiasm waned.

Analysts said the upturn was an extension of Wednesday's modest rally, when investors began showing interest in some of the more heavily oversold issues. The Dow average had fallen some 17 points Monday and Tuesday.

Investor morale also received something of a boost, analysts continued, from Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur F. Burns' statement the United States would not raise interest rates at home to help ease the international monetary situation.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 13.34 million shares, up from 11.74 million shares Wednesday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks climbed 0.14 to 55.79.

Of the 1,643 stocks traded on the Big Board, 739 advanced, and 318 declined. There were 35 new highs and 45 new lows.

Rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics, and metals were generally higher. Steels, mail order-retail, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, and airlines were mixed. Motors were unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average 0.9 at 322.6, with industrials up 1.3, rails up 0.3, and utilities up 0.6.

Eighty-six large blocks were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with 72 blocks Wednesday. On the American Stock Exchange, 9 large blocks were traded, down from 12 Wednesday.

CNA Financial was most-active on the Big Board, up 1⅛ to 23½. Most of the activity came from a 698,800 share block which changed hands at the same price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index gained 0.05 to 25.92. Of the 1,125 stocks traded, 450 advanced, and 393 declined. Volume totaled 3.86 million shares, compared with 3.30 million shares Wednesday.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures closed 5⅝ cents a bushel higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday on short-covering and buying spurred by concern over dwindling stocks of this commodity in Chicago.

Corn and oats futures also closed higher, but wheat was mixed.

Soybeans had opened on an irregular tone, but buying quickly centered in the nearby July option minutes later and prices began advancing. Trade sources thought that with only 10 million bushels of beans in Chicago storage and farmers reluctant to sell them there might be a tight supply situation in a few weeks here.

At the close, soybeans were 4½ to 5⅝ cents a bushel higher, July 3.05¼; corn was ⅛ to ⅜ higher, July 1.44⅜; oats were ⅛ to ½ higher, July .67⅜ cents; and wheat was unchanged to ¼ lower, July 1.49⅜.

Hog Prices Are 50c, 75c Lower

Omaha (AP) — A modest supply expansion in the hog division here coincided with a downward trending wholesale pork market Thursday.

Values on butchers were 50-75 lower in general although a few heavier weights were considered off only about a quarter.

Sows were 50-75 lower, weights 325-650 lbs. 13.50-15.25.

Slaughter steers and heifers were about steady off the previous sessions.

Best heifers on offer fell into the choice grade and brought 31.50-33.

A few good and choice 850-1,000 lb. feeder steers cleared at 30-31.

Choice and prime 90-100 lb. spring lambs were steady at 32.

Stocks Drift Higher In Moderate Trade

New York (AP) — The stock market drifted higher Thursday in fairly moderate trading as bargain hunters continued nibbling at issues depressed by the sharp drop earlier this week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 3.37 points to 923.41. Earlier in the day, the Dow was up more than 6 points, but buying enthusiasm waned.

Analysts said the upturn was an extension of Wednesday's modest rally, when investors began showing interest in some of the more heavily oversold issues. The Dow average had fallen some 17 points Monday and Tuesday.

Investor morale also received something of a boost, analysts continued, from Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur F. Burns' statement the United States would not raise interest rates at home to help ease the international monetary situation.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 13.34 million shares, up from 11.74 million shares Wednesday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks climbed 0.14 to 55.79.

Of the 1,663 stocks traded on the Big Board, 739 advanced, and 618 declined. There were 35 new highs and 45 new lows.

Rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics, and metals were generally higher. Steels, mail order-retail, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, and airlines were mixed. Motors were unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average 0.9 at 322.6, with industrials up 1.3, rails up 0.3, and utilities up 0.6.

Eighty-six large blocks were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with 72 blocks Wednesday. On the American Stock Exchange, 9 large blocks were traded, down from 12 Wednesday.

CNA Financial was most-active on the Big Board, up 1⅛ to 23½. Most of the activity came from a 698,800 share block which changed hands at the same price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index gained 0.05 to 25.92. Of the 1,125 stocks traded, 450 advanced, and 393 declined. Volume totaled 3.86 million shares, compared with 3.30 million shares Wednesday.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures closed 5⅝ cents a bushel higher on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday on short-covering and buying spurred by concern over dwindling stocks of this commodity in Chicago.

Corn and oats futures also closed higher, but wheat was mixed.

Soybeans had opened on an irregular tone, but buying quickly centered in the nearby July option minutes later and prices began advancing. Trade sources thought that with only 10 million bushels of beans in Chicago storage and farmers reluctant to sell them there might be a tight supply situation in a few weeks here.

At the close, soybeans were 4½ to 5⅝ cents a bushel higher, July 3.05¼; corn was ¼ to ⅝ higher, July 1.44⅝; oats were ¼ to ½ higher, July 67⅛ cents; and wheat was unchanged to ¼ lower, July 1.49⅜.

Journal and Star

Want Ads

Your low-cost Want Ad appears daily in the Lincoln Star (Morning) and the Lincoln Journal (Evening) or the Sunday Journal and Star at the following cash rates:

Words	Lines	DAYS 1	4	7	10
1—10	2	1.92	3.44	4.90	5.60
11-15	3	1.38	4.92	6.93	8.10
16-20	4	1.76	6.40	8.96	10.40
21-25	5	2.15	7.80	11.20	13.00
26-30	6	2.52	9.12	13.02	15.00
31-35	7	2.87	10.36	14.70	17.50

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55-cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

PROBLEMS

Elder inmates at a state penitentiary received questionaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people. They listed lack of older people. They listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

If you are unhappy with your environment, whether you are a home owner in search of an apartment, or an apartment renter in search of a home, Journal-Star Classified Ads can be a great problem solver.

But a message that reaches over 77,000 homes in Journal-Star Classified Ads costs as little $.5i for 10 words. If you have good things you'd like to sell to cash buyers, make a list of them, then dial 473-7451 for a helpful Ad Writer today.

A neat place to place your advertising message is Journal-Star Classified Ads. And the people you reach are those who have already decided to buy. Put your advertising dollar where it gets fast results. Dial 473-7451 for an Ad Representative today!

ORIGIN: ROCKERS

Experts agree rocking chairs are an American institution and some models date back to the 1750's. Though most people believe Ben Franklin devised it, some historians believe that earlier Americans built crude rockers of their own.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

PROBLEMS

Elder inmates at a state penitentiary received questionaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people. They listed lack of older people. They listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

If you are unhappy with your environment, whether you are a home owner in search of an apartment, or an apartment renter in search of a home, Journal-Star Classified Ads can be a great problem solver.

But a message that reaches over 77,000 homes in Journal-Star Classified Ads costs as little $.51 for 10 words. If you have good things you'd like to sell to cash buyers, make a list of them, then dial 473-7451 for a helpful Ad Writer today.

A neat place to place your advertising message is Journal-Star Classified Ads. And the people you reach are those who have already decided to buy. Put your advertising dollar where it gets fast results. Dial 473-7451 for an Ad Representative today!

ORIGIN: ROCKERS

Experts agree rocking chairs are an American institution and some models date back to the 1750's. Though most people believe Ben Franklin devised it, some historians believe that earlier Americans built crude rockers of their own.

The heart of a blue whale is so large that the main blood vessel is big enough for a child to crawl through.

Lake Erie's eastern basin is 210 feet deep.

A natural nutrient trap that catches and holds most of the organic material carried into it by the surrounding rivers, Lake Erie's western basin has been filling in for centuries.

The largest gamma ray telescope ever to be flown was sent aloft in a giant balloon recently by Cornell University physicists.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The largest gamma ray telescope ever to be flown was sent aloft in a giant balloon recently by Cornell University physicists.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

A Crytogram Quotation

Z F M V H W W N O X H P W M B H T J
X S H F W M F A B , F V H L A H J P M O M C
N O B A W X H T J M C M V A Z C S W J F
W F L A F T . — Q H M X S H T Y
